Y.M.C.A. ANNUAL MEETING

President Bowen Makes Interesting and Encouraging Report—Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the Lowell Y. M. C. A. was held last evening in the association building on Merrimack st. and the reports showed that the association met all current expenses during the past year and that great progress was made. The directors now believe that they can operate the building and pay all bills without calling for subscriptions as in the past. The building was under construction by members when President Bowen called to order. Music was furnished by the Ladies' German orchestra and there were brief speeches by several members of the association. Awards of prizes to winners of athletic events were made by Rev. J. G. Grace of North Tewksbury.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, P. A. Bowen; vice president, Samuel H. Thompson; treasurer, Walter H. Hoyt; clerk, William H. G. Wight; auditors, Ira Goldthwait and Norman Scott; board of trustees, John P. Sawyer and Dudley L. Page; directors, Walter H. Hoyt, Robert Friend, Louis A. Olney, Herbert E. Fletcher, Frank E. Kimball, Luther W. Foulkner and J. B. V. Coburn.

The President's Report
President Bowen's annual report in part was as follows:
After an early evening musical entertainment in the lobby of the building the meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall by President Bowen. Mr. Bowen's report was first given as follows:

Mr. Bowen's Report
The second full year's work in the new association building which closed March 31, 1915, has been marked by steady progress and improvement. The debt fund campaign interfered to some extent with both membership and current expense contributions during the past year, many having given so generously to the debt fund as to be unable to continue their usual annual payments toward the current operating expenses to renew their membership. Notices for quarterly payments were sent out every three months and final payments became due Jan. 15, 1915. There are some pledges still unpaid, but as payments are coming in almost every day it is hoped that the full amount may soon be secured so that dedication exercises may be held with the building free of all debt either for construction or furnishings. A little over $2000 should yet be collected on these pledges to pay in full the furnishings bills with money from debt fund pledges.

The Trust Funds
The treasurer of the trustees reports an addition to the trust fund of the association of $1310.60 from the Dwight L. Dimock estate, making the endowment for current expenses $12,240.60 at the present time. The trust funds held by the association at present are as follows:

William H. White fund.....	$5000.00
Jeremiah Clark fund.....	$210.00
Abbie G. Stevens fund.....	$100.00
Harriet M. Brown fund.....	$100.00

BELGIANS REPULSED GERMAN ATTACKS

Little Belgian Army Once More in Midst of Furious Struggle Repulsed Three Successive Attacks of the Germans South of Dixmude

The Little Belgian army, once more in the midst of a furious struggle, is reported to have repulsed three successive attacks of the Germans south of Dixmude in the great battle now under way in Flanders. A statement today from the Belgian military authorities says there was activity yesterday along the whole section of the front held by the Belgians.

Towns Recaptured

Announcement is made that the town of Lizerne, a storm center in the battle has been again taken from the Germans. Capture of this town was announced by the Belgians on Sunday and denied yesterday by the Germans. Today's statement says the Belgians lost Lizerne again on Sunday but regained possession of it yesterday.

London Admits German Gains

London is speculating whether the German attack marks an attempt to force a way to the English channel or is in reality a feint preparatory to striking a blow at some other point on the 600 mile front. It is admitted, however, that the Germans have gained already a substantial success in this battle, the outcome of which is awaited with anxiety by the belligerent nations.

Austrian Victories

In the east there are no signs of a respite of fighting on such a scale as that of last month. The Austrian war office continues to announce victories in local engagements. Official reports from Petrograd are so far of detail as to give little idea of what is happening.

Fighting in Dardanelles

It is assumed that land fighting is in progress in connection with the new attempt of the allies to gain the Dardanelles and Constantinople. Nothing is known of the scope or details of these operations beyond the official British announcement that an army was being landed on Gallipoli peninsula.

Swedish Steamer Sunk

The Swedish steamer Centric on her way from Stockholm to Helsingborg, Sweden, was sunk by a mine off Aland islands. The crew was saved.

WEAR BLACK BOWS AS TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO MEMORY OF LATE CONDUCTOR DUFFY

The local street railway men appeared on their cars today with black bows in the lapels of their coats as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Conductor John W. Duffy.

They will wear the bows for a period of thirty days. It was also voted at a meeting of the executive board that the charter be draped and a committee was appointed to draw up a set of resolutions, one copy to be sent to the family of the deceased, one to be spread on the records of local 259 and another to be sent to the publishers of the Motormen's and Conductors' Journal. A delegation also attended the funeral. The meeting was called by Pres. Crowley, who is also chairman of the executive board.

The local carmen held a meeting today to take action on the report of the committee that interviewed Mayor Murphy and Commissioner Morse yesterday relative to the car sprinkler matter. They still maintain that a conductor should be placed on the rear of the car and will decide today what move will be made in order to bring about this change. The change that went into effect yesterday, whereby the conductors were placed on the front and in charge of the arms, was made at the suggestion of Messrs. Perry and Morse but this is not satisfactory to the carmen.

POWERFUL BOMB FOUND AT CONSTANTINOPLE

Was Hidden in the Ministry of War Timed to Explode During the Session

PARIS, April 27.—A powerful clock-work bomb was found hidden yesterday in the ministry of war at Constantinople, according to a despatch from Saloniki. It was timed to explode at four when the council would be in session. The meetings of this body are attended by Enver Pasha, minister of war, Field Marshal Von Der Goltz and Gen. Liman Von Sanders.

An investigation is said to have disclosed that the bomb was placed in the room by a sweep, who had come to clean the chimney and who then disappeared. Several officials of war have been arrested on suspicion of being his accomplices. The police believe the plot was directed against the Germans.

Members of the Young Turks are said to have decided at a meeting to which no Germans were admitted to adhere to a waiting policy but to favor the allies if Germany failed to provide assistance sufficient to repulse an attack on the Dardanelles.

FORMER LOWELL PASTOR

REV. E. P. HERRICK ASSUMES HIS DUTIES AT PARKER STREET CHURCH, LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, April 27.—Rev. E. P. Herrick, formerly of Chelsea, assumed his new pastorate at the Parker street Methodist church here yesterday, delivering two eloquent sermons at the morning and evening services.

The church was crowded with parishioners at both services to give the new pastor a royal welcome and special music was provided on both occasions by the church choir.

Rev. Mr. Herrick, who succeeds Rev. John Mason as pastor of the church, expressed himself last night as greatly pleased with his new field after his first day here. He said that the congregation seemed to be in excellent working order and he hopes to accomplish great things during his stay here.

In the morning at 10:30 o'clock Rev. Mr. Herrick preached an eloquent sermon on "The Great Salvation" and in the evening at 8:30 o'clock took for his subject "The True Source of Power." Both sermons created a lasting impression upon the congregation, several of whom have expressed themselves as highly pleased with the pastor assigned to them by the recent conference.

Rev. E. P. Herrick, who has been assigned to the Parker Street church, is the son of Rev. A. F. Herrick, who for many years was a well known Methodist preacher. He has a brother, Rev. A. H. Herrick, who has just been appointed to the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church, Bradford.

Rev. Mr. Herrick was educated at Wesleyan university and Boston university, School of Theology. Among his pastorates have been Waltham, Ashbury Temple, Springfield, Grace church, Leominster and Lowell, Worcester street. He is leaving Chelsea first church where he has been for five years.

HARDY—Died April 27 in this city, Mrs. Annie Hardy, at her home, 10 Third street. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary J. Moore, two sons, Freddie of this city, and Arthur L. Hardy of Pelham, N. H., one sister, Mrs. M. J. Hardy of Lowell, and three brothers, Dr. Sheard Moore of Donaldsonville, La., Dr. Hamlet Moore of New Orleans, La., and Franklin Moore of St. Louis, Mo. Funeral notice later.

EDDIS—Mr. James Eddis passed away this morning at the home of his brother, Hugh W. Eddis, 210 Liberty street, aged 70 years. He is survived by two brothers, Hugh W. and John B. Eddis, both of Lowell. The body was removed to the rooms of Undertakers Simmons & Brown.

MARION—The funeral of Arthur Marion took place yesterday from his home, 472 Moody street. The services were held in St. Jean Baptiste church with Rev. Antoine Auguste, O. M. I., as celebrant and assisted by Rev. Armand Baron, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Joseph Boland, O. M. I., as reader. The funeral was under the direction of Undertakers Young & Blake.

JOHNSON—The funeral of Mrs. Lucy A. Johnson was held from the home of Mrs. Arthur A. Chase in Chelmsford Centre, yesterday afternoon. The services were conducted by Rev. Edward A. Robinson, pastor of the Congregational church in Chelmsford Centre. Burial was in the family lot in Ridge-wood cemetery, North Andover, where the funeral service was read by Rev. Mr. Robinson. The funeral was under the direction of Undertakers Young & Blake.

STATUE OF RIO BRANCO

BRAZILIAN MINISTER TO GO TO URUGUAY AND ARGENTINA TO UNVEIL STATUE

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 27.—Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, set out with his suite last night on a journey to Uruguay and Argentina. Primarily their purpose was simply a visit of courtesy to Uruguay which has honored the late Baron De Rio Branco, formerly Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, by having a statue of Rio Branco placed behind the boundary line between the two countries. Dr. Muller will unveil this statue.

Yielding to the urgent requests of the governments of Argentina and Chile, however, Dr. Muller has been obliged to extend his itinerary which now will bring about an exchange of visits by the ministers of foreign affairs of Argentina, Chile and Brazil, whose action in the recent crisis between the United States and Mexico is regarded as indicating the necessity of a stronger and more definite union.

FIRE IN SECOND AVENUE

FIREMEN ARRIVE IN TIME TO PREVENT DESTRUCTION OF JOHN BLESSINGTON'S HOUSE

A brisk fire was discovered at 4.15 o'clock this morning in a dwelling at 53 Second avenue, occupied by John Blessington, superintendent of streets, and only quick action in getting the alarm to the fire station and the prompt response of members of Hose 10 prevented the whole building from being gutted. The fire started in back of the wood box in the kitchen and worked its way through the partitions in the second floor of the house. When the firemen arrived the dwelling was filled with smoke and the flames were creeping toward the attic but by rapping out a portion of the wall the fire-fighters succeeded in checking the blaze before it got beyond control. Considerable of the furniture was also damaged by fire and water.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

OFFICIALS EXPECT THAT COLLECTIONS WILL EXCEED ORIGINAL ESTIMATE OF $80,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Administration officials were optimistic today over prospects that the income tax this year will yield an amount considerably in excess of the original estimate of $80,000,000. This optimism was based upon full preliminary estimates to the treasury department from internal revenue collectors throughout the country which places the sum to be collected from the individual and corporation tax at $87,000,000. Officials are confident, however, that the returns will exceed that sum by several millions.

PERSONALS

Dr. George A. Willey, for many years organist at the Westminster Presbyterian church, who sailed for Santa Cruz, Cal., next Saturday, was rendered a surprise party at his home, 41 Royal street, last evening and was presented a suitcase and purse. ROOSEVELT ON STAND FOR THE FIFTH DAY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 26.—A series of confidential letters taken from the files kept by the late Thomas C. Platt while he was representing the state of New York in the United States senate were today read to the jury trying William Barnes' suit for alleged libel against Theodore Roosevelt in the supreme court. Some of the letters were signed by Senator Platt while others were signed by Col. Roosevelt. In nearly all of them the writers discussed candidates for office in the state government and in reply to a question by Mr. Barnes' counsel the former president said he consulted freely with Senator Platt about affairs at Albany, knowing and realizing at all times that he (Platt) was the boss of the republican party in this state. One of the letters read during the forenoon session contained a postscript which read:

"All right, I'll change the whole board of tax assessors."

The letters were brought to Syracuse by the former senator's son and turned over to counsel for Mr. Barnes. Although the colonel could not say, however, whether he had made it known to the public that he was conferring with Mr. Platt over appointments, he denied emphatically that such conferences constituted "invisible government."

"My actions," the witness asserted, "were as visible as they could be."

appreciate to the full the force of the arguments you urged against his renomination. It is not pleasant for me to support a man who has wantonly behaved badly to the very man who did most in securing his selection. . . . I would approve his turning them down in the public interest but I object to its being done wantonly. Moreover, I appreciate that he has alienated quite needlessly very many voters and if we had the right man to put in his place (the right man from the standpoint of getting votes), I should say that it was certainly wise to nominate such a man. But no such man is in sight and there does not seem to be the slightest chance of his arising. Under the conditions it seems to me that while it will do damage to renominate Hughes, it will do more damage not to renominate him, and that this damage will extend outside of the state. While, therefore, I want most emphatically to disclaim any intention of seeming to dictate the nomination, I think I ought to tell you that my judgment is that the convention ought to renominate him. I am sure that the delegates from this district will be for him. Bennett, Sherman and Dady insist there is no alternative to his renomination. Hitchcock says that not to renominate him would be a harm to the canvass outside of New York as well as, in his judgment, in New York. Even Smith finally announced that he was inclined to take the same view. I may add that every one present agreed to keep absolutely quiet in this matter and to consult with you, among others before any kind of a conclusion was announced; but from the papers I should judge someone had talked. I should not for 20 newspaper men conversed with me, directly or indirectly, and I was as much surprised as anyone when I saw the statements in the papers."

A copy of the foregoing letter was sent to Mr. Parsons.

On August 21, 1905, Col. Roosevelt wrote to Mr. Barnes from Washington as follows:

"Most emphatically whatever my friends do up in Albany I shall stand by them. I have given them, including you, my best judgment. Now, if you and those like you, fear that I shall ask you to cut your throat, your fear is groundless. But my judgment is that the convention will nominate Hughes, and that it would hurt very much more not to nominate him than to nominate him, although it will undoubtedly hurt us also to nominate him."

On Aug. 27, Col. Roosevelt wrote to Herbert Parsons, who at that time was a member of congress. In part the letter, which was from the White House, was as follows:

"You were very strong in your statements of what the men under your belt of Hughes' unpopularity and certainly understood you to say that Bennett felt exactly as you did. When Bennett tells me, as the local leaders tell me, that

ROOSEVELT'S FIFTH DAY

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 26.—Theodore Roosevelt resumed the witness stand in the supreme court today for further cross examination by counsel for William Barnes, Jr., who is suing the former president for $50,000 damages for libel. It was Col. Roosevelt's fifth day as a witness.

Justice Andrews was a few minutes late in opening court and when proceedings opened a stipulation between counsel was read into the record to the effect that depositions of four unnamed witnesses outside the state should have the same effect as if the witnesses appeared on the stand.

"Sneak in Back Door"

Col. Roosevelt having taken the witness chair, Mr. Platts put into the record letters that passed between Mr. Barnes and Col. Roosevelt and between the colonel and Herbert Parsons, dated Aug. 21, 1905. In his letter Mr. Barnes discussed Gov. Hughes. He said that should Hughes be elected he would set up a political machine and that all politicians who opposed him would have to "sneak in the back door or get out of politics."

The reply of Col. Roosevelt on the stationery of the White House but written at Oyster Bay was as follows:

Roosevelt's Letter to Barnes

"My Dear Mr. Barnes: Yesterday I saw Sherman, Bennett, George Smith, Mike Dady, Cocks and Hitchcock, chairman of the national committee, here. I have been carefully going into the Hughes matter since I saw you. I the sentiment is very strong for the renomination of Hughes. I have got to take notice of it. I entirely agree with all you say as to your just reasons for complaint against Gov. Hughes, and furthermore with all you say as to the fact that many of those who desire his renomination desire it chiefly for the purpose of hurting the republican party. Moreover, my dear Parsons, you can hardly seriously suppose that, to quote your own words, 'I am trying to treat you as a puppet'—that is, if you mean me when you say 'those in charge of the national campaign,' which, of course, I am not. On the contrary, I have written again and again to Taft and to Hitchcock not to make any open statement and I haven't the slightest intention of telling you what to do. You wrote me requesting to see me and asking that I say nothing until I had seen you. I saw you.

We went over the situation, I afterwards saw Bennett, and various others, including Sherman, and the situation as they related it was so totally different that I felt that I ought to tell you that this, with other knowledge, brought to this, with other knowledge, brought to me, had made me alter my mind as to what was the wise thing to do."

"P. S.—Of course I want the fullest and most open expression of preference at the primaries; that I stand heartily for whatever you, Fassett and the rest of the leaders finally do and have no intention of 'forcing the nomination' or of trying to; but that, unless you object, I should like as my good republican and party man, and a staunch believer in you, to tell you my judgment for whatever it is worth."

Wine and Patriotism

On Sept. 16 Col. Roosevelt wrote this letter to Mr. Barnes:

"I am very glad you joined in making the nomination of Hughes unanimous. I think it was the wise and patriotic thing to do. After the election I shall want to see you in Washington and talk over matters with you."

On Nov. 4 election day, Col. Roosevelt wrote this to Mr. Barnes from the White House:

"Dear Mr. Barnes: Good for you. We are to be heartily congratulated on the whole business, national and state. Replies by Mr. Barnes to some of the colonel's letters were also read to the jury.

The witness identified all of the letters and declared them to be authentic.

When the letters had been read Mr. Platts asked Col. Roosevelt about Taft's and Hughes' plurality in New York. He said Hughes was small.

"Who was present at the conference in Oyster Bay mentioned in the correspondence?"

At the first Mr. Parsons and Mr. Barnes were there. At the second Mr. Sherman, afterwards vice president, was present."

Col. Roosevelt said his favoring Gov. Hughes was not due to any personal reasons. "It was because I thought the people wanted him," he added.

Questioned about his meetings with Senator Platt at the home of his brother-in-law, Douglas Robinson, in New York, the witness denied emphatically that he met the "boss" there so the conferences could be held in secret.

The letters that passed between Mr. Barnes and Col. Roosevelt and Herbert Parsons, former chairman of the New York county republican committee in which the aims of Gov. Hughes, the opposition of William Barnes to Hughes' renomination and various other matters were freely discussed, also were introduced today.

In another letter Col. Roosevelt told Sen. Platt not to "wait lunch" for him in New York and that he would call late in the afternoon.

"Did you go there to consult Senator Platt as leader or boss of the party about affairs in Albany?"

"I did," replied the colonel.

In still another Col. Roosevelt invited Senator Platt to breakfast at the home of Douglas Robinson, his brother-in-law. The colonel said he wanted to talk about a candidate for the office of state architect and that he had "a bully letter from Ambassador White about Priest."

"Did you meet the boss at your brother-in-law's because you desired secrecy?"

"I did not."

The next letter read was from Senator Platt. He said he was anxious to know what had been happening in Albany.

A later letter mentioned a breakfast with Frank Platt, son of the senator.

"Was the franchise tax discussed at that breakfast?"

"I don't think it was. I don't

"Do you know when you first discussed with Senator Platt the franchise tax law?"

"I do not know whether Mr. Barnes was present. I don't know who else, if anyone, was present."

In the next letter from Col. Roosevelt to Senator Platt the colonel wrote: "What do you think about Taft?" and then went on to discuss at some length men who had been suggested for various places.

"Were Mr. Priest and Mr. Edward Leavcraft appointed as special franchise tax commissioners after Senator Platt recommended them?"

"No, I appointed them after Senator Platt said he would not oppose them," certain."

In a letter from Col. Roosevelt to Senator Platt dated in 1905, various persons suggested for surrogate among them a Mr. Becker were discussed. A postscript read as follows: "All right, I'll change the whole board of tax assessors."

"Who," asked the cross examiner, "is the man named O'Brien you mention in this letter?"

"I think he's the man I later appointed minister of Uruguay. I'm not certain."

"What position was he a candidate for?"

"Port warden of New York."

CALAMITY HOWLERS SILENT

One of the most singular and significant changes that has come over the American public for the past few months is the letting up in the criticism of the democratic administration on economic grounds. It was inevitable that such an energetic, active and altogether able regime should have attracted severe partisan criticism, but in the early days of the war criticism overreached itself, and now the press and public of all parties are united in predicting prosperity and attributing the damaging effects on American business to the great war, where it rightfully belongs.

The reason for this change is not far to seek. Those who so bitterly attacked President Wilson and his supporters do not now love him, but they are more anxious about their own selfish interests than they are about the nation's political future. Though business and financial leaders have been known before now to do everything possible to cause a panic in order to discredit an administration, no party will deliberately invite conditions that make for permanent injury to their cause. It has dawned on political and business leaders alike that if they create distrust and misgiving in the minds of the American people, the business and political interests of the republicans will suffer possibly as much as those of the democrats. Consequently we now hear little or nothing in condemnation of the tariff bill, and the acts that are being exploited in opposition to the administration avoid anything having to do with our national business affairs.

We still hear occasionally, however, from the rabid party critics who view every national contingency with a prejudiced mind and who see nothing but evil in the policies of a democratic administration. One such critic declared a few days ago that "it is now a race between prosperity and 1916," and there is little reason to doubt that he and his kind would be glad to see prosperity delayed long enough to lessen the chances of democratic victory. He will find himself in a minority in his wish that prosperity may not come too soon, for the great masses in the country not only hope but expect that the full tide of prosperity will be upon us before the close of the present year.

There are many indications that we are already embarked on the sea of national prosperity. Manufacturers, finance, commerce are all showing sound returns. We have an enormous trade balance in our favor and it is constantly mounting. The orders of the belligerents for food, clothing, ammunition and other supplies are still pouring in in large quantities, our textile industry is running most satisfactorily, the pressure of unemployment has been relieved and reports from all sections indicate very much improved conditions. The steel-making industry is operating at about 75% of capacity and there is a decided increase in the production of pig iron. Building operations reflect confidence, and all business indications point to speedy improvement. Were it not for lack of shipping, the closing of some foreign markets because of the war and the shortage of dyestuffs, it is probable that our trade would be far ahead of an ordinary normal year.

The First National bank of Boston makes the following statement in its New England letter for April: "The improvement in business sentiment in New England during the past month has been very noticeable. The continued slight improvement in general trade, coupled with easy money conditions, has given great encouragement to the average business man. A decrease in unemployment, a slightly larger output of goods, and an upward trend in prices, seem to point the way toward more normal and profitable business." This conservative statement voices a feeling that even the most partisan papers are now expressing. Everywhere, the attempt to make political capital out of the nation's difficulties seems to have fallen into disfavor.

If the issue in 1916 is to be successfully fought on some act of the administration, whether of commission or omission, something besides the economic conditions of the country will have to be agitated. The trade arguments are all on the side of the democrats for the war has demonstrated that the dream of the high protectionist is impracticable. With practically no imports and no competition we have seen that depression and not prosperity was the order of the day. Yet in the possible developments of the war, it is futile to forecast the events of 1916.

CITY PENSIONS

Though the Massachusetts public has been outspoken in condemnation of indiscriminate pensioning for the past few years, we still see occasional requests for pensions in all our municipalities that are wholly undeserved. The belief has apparently grown among certain classes of public employees that after a number of years passed in comparatively enjoyable tasks at a fair salary and with more advantages than are enjoyed by the average worker, they are to be supported by the community for the remainder of their days. Commenting on the situation in Boston last Monday, the Boston Herald has something to say which is of interest to all cities and towns of the state. An excerpt will show the soundness and justice of our contemporary views:

Not only Boston but the other cities of the commonwealth are today faced with a situation which admits of only two alternatives. Either the existing pension regulations must be consolidated into an equitable system and placed upon a contributory basis, or our municipalities must prepare for a heavy additional strain on their tax rates within a very few years. To abolish civil pensions altogether would be neither practical nor prudent. To continue the present system, which is characterized by all their unfairness and anomalies, is out of the question. Neither the city authorities nor the legislature can permanently tolerate discrimination in favor of some employees against others. All this was made plain in the report of the state commission on civil pensions, which strongly urged the adoption of the contributory principle. But as yet nothing has come of this recommendation. The problem is one which demands serious attention.

There is nothing exaggerated in this statement, and it is well that all Massachusetts communities should face the two alternatives that the Herald announces. Either the evils of the pensioning system must be eliminated or the public must get ready to pay for the pensions which they tacitly approve in an abnormal tax rate. The increase in pensions is one of the most direct causes of an increase in government, and the pruning knife must be used unsparsingly if our people are not to be grievously taxed for the supporting of public employees in undeserved ease.

Pensions cannot altogether be abandoned and they should not be, but no public employee should be granted a pension who has not been incapacitated in the performance of his duty, or who has not contributed towards such a pension. Families of deceased public servants are also entitled to pensions in some cases, but many of who have enriched the world by their ability and genius. The appeals of Poland come very close to the great heart of America and now she appeals for aid in the hour of the worst affliction in her whole history. The Sun would urge generous consideration for this Polish campaign for the relief of a people left homeless by the worst horrors of the European war.

PUBLIC MARKET

Though the people of Lowell have already demonstrated their approval of the public market idea, the legislature has now passed a law that would make it possible for any city of 10,000 or more to establish such a market without more ado. Thus the public market comes to us doubly sanctioned, but there is little apparent interest in the project. This being so, it is natural to assume that there would be but little public interest in the market itself and that consequently it would not prove the benefit intended. To reduce the cost of living, the market would have to be popular with producer and consumer alike, and without the patronage of the public, it would be a complete failure. Where public markets have been established, they have had varying degrees of success or failure, depending on the attitude of the respective communities in which they were located, but there is little to indicate great enthusiasm for the public market here. There are possibilities of reduction in the cost of living, in the public market idea, but if the public does not wish to test them, it is useless to make the experiment.

A GROWING MOVEMENT

According to reports received by Joseph H. Baker, secretary of the clean-up and paint-up campaign committee of Boston, about 350 cities and towns of New England will have such campaigns this spring. Word has also come from other states, indicating that the scope of the activity is widening and many plans are being formulated to make them more effective from year to year. Though in this city not a

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't forget to swat the fly. If burglars who stole a boarding house's Sunday dinner ate it we are opposed to further punishment.

NO PAY ON SUNDAY

A Chicago judge, in discharging two citizens arrested for refusing to pay for drinks they had ordered in a saloon on Sunday, said: "You do not have to pay for drinks you get in saloons in Chicago on Sunday. If the saloons are open, they are open in violation of the law. Here is a solution of the question of Sunday observance which might be expected to prove effective if strictly applied. Yet it can hardly be said that it would conduce to an orderly Sunday."

A MAKESHIFT

A little boy of five was invited to a children's party on Sunday. He was given an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors had contributed either a song, a recitation, or music for the pleasure of the party.

THEORY AND PRACTICE

During a school tea a kindly lady said regarding one of the young guests with evident alarm. Undismayed by the lady's glances, the young hopeful demolished plate after plate of food and drink, and when the lady said, "What a lovely child!" he replied, "Why, bless you, ma'am," replied the young gentleman, with his mouth full of cake, "I eat all I can, I drink all I can, I avoid no tustin!"—London News.

PREVENT SPRING FIRES

The greater number of these fires occurring on Sundays and holidays shows that they have their origin in human agencies. They can, therefore, be prevented. And they should be prevented largely by the consideration of the people who ride or stroll forth. Property thus destroyed makes a total which runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars each spring and fall. It is one of those wastes of property which the community too lightly tolerates.

DEFECTIVE

A farmer in looking his car over one day, thrust a lighted match into the gasoline tank. The ensuing explosion laid him up for several weeks. On the first day that he was able to be about he visited the storekeeper who had sold him the stuff and demanded compensation.

For a "Guest" Luncheon

An intimate friend drops in during the morning. Before you know it, it's twelve o'clock. The morning work has been at a standstill—lunch is unprepared. The butcher hasn't been given a thought.

That's the time when

come to the rescue. A pot of tea, a few slices of bread and a can of these most appetizing, delicious big fish make a lunch that is unexcelled.

There's enough in a can for four persons—six to eight big fish. They are packed in three sauces; tomato, mustard and soured, to suit your taste.

They are unusual in flavor and unusual in size. Each fish is five to seven inches. They are called Sardines only because Uncle Sam says they belong to the Sardinian family.

When you ask for them say "Booth's" Sardines. If you don't your grocer will think you mean the ordinary kind. There is no substitute. Insist on Booth's.

Ask for the Recipe Book

You will be surprised and pleased with the many suggestions in this little book for dainty meals which you can prepare in ten minutes. Your grocer will have a copy or drop a postal to V. H. DUDLEY & CO., 7 India St., Boston.

ROOF-CLEANING CRUSADE

Something new to worry about has been suggested by the citizens' street cleaning bureau in Chicago. Dirt and rubbish removed from the roofs of downtown buildings filled it is said, 14 wagons, as much as would be swept up in a day from four and a quarter miles of downtown streets. Now the bureau has taken the campaign to have the street cleaning department sweep the roofs also. Most of the buildings, it is believed, have not had their roofs cleaned since they were built. And much of the dirt that fills the air and litters the streets is thought to be blown off these roofs.

The promoters of the roof-cleaning idea have undertaken the campaign with all the enthusiasm of discoverers. They say to sweep the streets and leave the roofs dirty is like the housekeeper who sweeps the dust under the sofa.

EASY AS FLYING

There are some people who like to figure everything out on a percentage basis. For instance as a basis for home appropriations, a savings bank recently published the following table of expenses of running a well conducted home: Food, 39 per cent; housekeeping, 12 per cent; education, six per cent; luxuries, four per cent; savings, 10 per cent. The percentages are based on the income. For example, if a man had an income of $1000 a year, he might spend for food 39 per cent of it, or $389. For a house he might spend 25 per cent of it, or $250; for clothing he might spend 13 per cent of it, or $129; for housekeeping, he might spend 12 per cent, or $120; for education he might spend six per cent, or $60; for luxuries, four per cent, or $40; and for savings, 10 per cent, or $100. These expenditures would vary much according to the circumstances of a family. If it had a little farm in its back yard, or chicken coop, it might secure its food for less than $389. The rent might be half at a lower rate than $250 a year. The ideal $15 a month tenement would cost but $150 a year. Costs of clothing vary much, so do costs of education. The allowance of $4 a year for luxuries may be large or small, according to what people consider luxuries. For instance, a man may call a clear a necessity, and a woman will think it a luxury. Or some people call a summer vacation a necessity, while others look upon it as a luxury. A saving of 10 per cent of an income is probably a much better saving than is made by the average person. It will be noticed that this estimate of the cost of living makes no provision for the payment of doctors' bills. It may be that these bills, and other necessary charges, not otherwise provided for, come out of the savings.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

GRADUATION DAY DRESS
The proper garb for the sweet girl graduates on graduation day is being discussed with annual earnestness. One class, it appears, has decided to leave the matter to the choice of the young ladies and their parents, which is wise. The majority, however, in prescribing a standard of dress that shall not be too expensive for the graduates of limited means is to teach democracy. But in itself annual custom, applied in this particular, can merely be a spasm. If the instruction throughout the school course has not taught democracy, then a rule of dress for graduation day will not amount to much.—Fall River Herald.

COPPER IN WAR

One explanation of the tremendous foreign demand for copper is found in the fact that it is an essential element in the manufacture of munitions. Of course the fighting was different; but the statement shows how modern warfare has advanced since the comparatively recent past. Copper is needed for ammunition and the fighters can't begin to get all they want of it. That is why England is buying practically all her copper, and making not only 20-cent but 25-cent metal a probability.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

MR. FOSS FORGOT

In urging Mr. Bird to seek a republican nomination on a prohibitory platform, Mr. Foss seems to forget that it was Mr. Bird who led the fight in the last progressive convention against the acceptance of the prohibition idea advocated by Joseph Walker and Henry Clay Peters.—Boston Herald.

GOOD EXAMPLE

If you are not living with the idea that your example can help this to become a better world, you are not living up to your full possibilities. The surest way to help the world to become better is to be better yourself as a starter. Then scatter a few choice grains of kindness and good cheer and helpfulness among those with whom you come into contact and you will begin to learn what life really is.—Burlington Free Press.

THAW CASE

Justice Hendick decides that Harry K. Thaw may have a jury trial in the case of the murder of Dr. George Woodbury. Now Attorney General Woodbury proposes to invoke the appellate courts to prove his belief that Justice Hendick had no right to so decide. Laws within laws and then laws within those laws! No wonder the average citizen is thoroughly disgusted with our system of criminal procedure and its many loopholes. The lawyers who have a wealthy client in their clutches.—Portland Express.

"MAKING UP" IN PUBLIC
Years ago it was considered bad taste to do any part of one's toilet outside of one's boudoir, but in these days we see women powdering their faces, applying lipsticks, and "fixing" their hair in almost every public place.

Wherever we look we see them holding up a tiny hand mirror while they pains-takingly powder their faces, and horrors of horrors! they rouge their cheeks and lips. When they have completed the process they complacently go on their way, unconscious of the fact that they are making up in public.

If true art is to conceal art, then they are very inartistic, for the result is as glaring as the breach of good taste. Of course no one is deceived—no one could be but a vate?

Lawrence to Have First Referendum Election Under New Charter

LAWRENCE, April 26.—Lawrence is to have its first referendum election under the new city charter on May 18, when the citizens will decide whether the new Central grammar school shall be built by contract or by the public property department. The council recently called for this and then rejected them all voting to have the city do the work. There was widespread protest over the action and today the council reconsidered its vote and ordered the matter referred to the public.

JOHN BUNNY IS DEAD

FAMOUS MOVING PICTURE COMEDIAN PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, April 26.—John Bunny, whose antics as a moving picture comedian have made millions laugh, died at his home in Brooklyn today. He had been ill for about three weeks of a complication of diseases.

Members of his family were with him when he died. For a week he apparently had been on the mend. A month of strenuous work, it is believed, caused the breakdown which caused his death.

John Bunny was 52 years old. For 25 years he had been before the footlights before he entered the moving picture field four years ago. During his career as an actor he had leading roles with many of the time stars, among them being Anna Russell. He had attained country-wide popularity as an actor before he achieved his wonderful success on the screen.

Mr. Bunny was born in New York city of English parents, was educated in the Brooklyn public schools and was a clerk in a general store until he went on the stage at the age of 19. In the moving picture world he was regarded for a time as the country's leading comedian. He was said to have received more than the president of the United States in salary and royalties. The amount of his compensation was never divulged to the public.

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of George Paquette and Miss St. George, two popular young people of West Central Park place yesterday at St. Louis rectory, the ceremony being performed at 2 o'clock by Rev. J. B. Labrosse, pastor. The bride wore a travelling suit of brown and she was attended by her father, Charles St. George. The bridegroom's witness was J. B. Labrosse, pastor. At the close of the ceremony a dinner was held at the home of the bride's parents, 15 Farmland road, followed by a brief reception. The happy couple, who were the recipients of numerous gifts left at 5 o'clock on a honeymoon trip to Pawcatuck, N. H. Upon their return they will be tendered a reception at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 179 Encliff street. Mr. and Mrs. Paquette will be at home to their friends at 15 Farmland road after May 7.

SOUZA—SILVA

Antonio F. Souza and Miss Maria D. Silva, two prominent young people of St. Anthony's parish, were married Sunday afternoon at St. Anthony's rectory, the ceremony being performed by the pastor, Rev. Bishop Henri da Silva. The couple were attended by Antonio C. Picasso and Miss Maria Picasso, who acted as best man and bridesmaid respectively. At the close of the ceremony the bride and groom, accompanied by the party invited to the new home of the couple, 208 Charles street, where a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Souza were the recipients of numerous costly gifts.

COURT—TAMPAKEY

Haralambos Courtas of this city and Miss Eugenia Tambokey of Ipswich were married at the Greek Orthodox church of Ipswich Saturday, the ceremony being performed by Rev. James Courtas. The bride was attended by Miss Konstantina Tourta, while the best man was Michael Anastas. At the close of the ceremony the happy couple were tendered a reception at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Courtas will make their home at 345 Moody street, this city.

QUAKE IN ITALY

Discol Palace Near Avezzano Is Damaged—Details Not Told—Relief Expeditions Ordered

ROME, April 25.—The region about Avezzano in the Abruzzi, which was the scene of the destructive earthquake in January, was shaken again today. The whole province appears to have felt the shock. The centre of the disturbance seems to have been at the town of Telescopo, fifty-six miles east of Rome and ten miles northwest of Avezzano.

Details of the damage done yesterday have not been received. The information which so far has reached the capital makes no mention of loss of life. Relief expeditions have been organized at Avezzano to give whatever assistance is required.

It is reported that the fourteenth century ducal palace, which was one of the sights of the town, was severely damaged.

HIGHER LICENSE FEES

New York Legislature Passes and Whitman Will Sign Bill to Raise Cost One Quarter

ALBANY, April 26.—A determined but futile fight in the assembly on the bill designed to raise the cost of liquor licenses one-fourth throughout the state delayed adjournment of the legislature until almost daylight yesterday.

The senate quit about 3:10 and the assembly at 4:05. The measure passed, 82 to 48. Having previously passed the senate it now goes to Gov. Whitman, who intends to sign it.

FOR BELGIAN RELIEF

LONDON, April 26, 11:30 a. m.—An influential committee for Belgian relief has been organized and has issued a circular to the public for funds. This committee, composed of many well-known Englishmen of all creeds, purposes to raise the money, but explains that it is to be distributed in the form of relief to the Belgian government. A Belgian relief fund is being organized in London and the committee is allowed to go to Belgium.

SUIT DISMISSED

$250,000 Damage Suit Against Capitalist Dismissed by Judge

NEW YORK, April 26.—The $250,000 damage suit brought against Edward N. Briting, capitalist, of Marquette, Mich., and his wife, by Max Frank Kleist, their son-in-law, was dismissed today by Federal Judge Hough. Kleist charged his parents-in-law with alienating his wife's affections.

LEAPS FROM FAST TRAIN

RUDISH DIVES THROUGH WINDOW AND ESCAPES WITH SCRATCHES—REFUSED MEDICAL ATTENTION

NEW YORK, April 26.—The fact that the Erie railroad train which he had boarded in Jersey City was running 35 miles an hour when it passed Park 35 miles an hour from the station in Passaic, N. J., where it was due at 4:32 o'clock yesterday afternoon, did not prevent Michael Rudish from diving through an open window to the street.

When Rudish recovered consciousness in St. Mary's hospital, Passaic, he refused medical attention. He said he jumped from the train to escape a man who had been following him all day. He was held for observation. Rudish said he lived at No. 341 Hovos avenue, Passaic, and was 35. Scores of persons in Main avenue saw Rudish leap. He escaped with a few scratches.

PUBLIC MARKET AGAIN

QUESTION OF ITS EXISTENCE UNDER CONSIDERATION BY LEGISLATURE

In view of the fact that the legislative act providing for the maintenance of a public market will become law this week, interest in the proposition to maintain a public market in this city has been renewed and members of the municipal council are being asked what is going to be done about it.

The council hasn't any plans in mind and is waiting, it appears, for some move on the part of Mr. Burton Wiggin, who has a proposition in mind for the opening of a public market in the City building at Market street. It was stated, however, that Mr. Wiggin has not made any definite arrangements as yet though he has advanced the proposition a step or two. He is having a circular letter printed and his intention is to send 200 copies or more of the letter to farmers who trade in Lowell. The letter will explain the proposition in detail and if the farmers take kindly to it Mr. Wiggin will provide a market wherein stalls can be rented at a nominal sum. Mr. Wiggin believes that a public market would go a long way in solving the high cost of living problem.

TRIAL OF MRS. CARMAN

REPORTED THAT FIVE NEW WITNESSES WILL APPEAR FOR STATE AT TRIAL MONDAY

NEW YORK, April 26.—It was reported today that five new witnesses, a woman and four men, would aid the state when Mrs. Florence C. Carman is placed on trial again next Monday at Mincola on the charge of murdering Mrs. Louise D. Bailey, at Freeport, last June.

"I don't know anything about it," was all that District Attorney Smith cared to say today about the matter.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ATTACK

NEW YORK CASHIER HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $271 IN CASH AND $100 IN CHECKS

NEW YORK, April 26.—Another bold daylight attack and robbery of a bank messenger occurred today when Rose Wisniewski, cashier of a Harlem wholesale grocery concern, was black-jacked on the street while she was on the way to the bank with the firm's funds. The thieves secured $271 in cash and $100 in checks, and escaped although scores of persons saw the attack.

Miss Wisniewski was stunned, but recovered in a short time. She was accustomed to take the firm's deposits to the bank every morning.

TURK ON PEACE MISSION

OSMAN NIZOZI, EX-ENVOY TO GREAT BRITAIN, GOES TO BIRLIN AND ROME

RICHMOND, Va. Rome, April 26.—Osman Nizozzi, former Turkish ambassador at London, is on his way to Berlin having been entrusted with a secret mission in connection with the peace. He also will visit Rome.

700 POUND GIRL HOLDS TRAIN

OIL CITY, Pa. April 26.—Traffic on the New York Central line was delayed 10 minutes when Anna Chelton, Oil City's fat girl, weighing more than 700 pounds, departed to join a circus.

Half a dozen men transported her in a specially made wheel chair to the baggage car, and when a transfer was made at Andover the car was detached and shifted to the freight depot. Later a stronger baggage car was shifted to the depot and the 700 pounds of circus girl placed in it.

SISTER OF MRS. TAIT WEDS

PROVIDENCE, April 26.—Announcement was received in this city today of the marriage in Washington today of United States Senator Henry F. Lippitt and Mrs. Thomas K. Laughlin, a sister of Mrs. William H. Taft. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church. Only a few relatives of the bride and the bridegroom were present.

BETHLEHEM STILL GAINS

NEW YORK, April 26.—Gains of one to two points in Bethlehem Steel National Loan Mexican Petroleum Baid. Bethlehem Steel rose the smallest fraction on offerings of 5,000 shares, but soon lost a full point. Standard railroad bonds were relatively backward, but New Haven and Rock Island advanced a point each.

Early gains were materially reduced by heavy profit-taking, but the setback was of brief duration, renewed buying on a larger scale soon overtaking any reactionary tendency. Higher prices were made before noon. Reading, rector of its own new electric dividend and other investment issues showing greater strength. Coppers responded to another advance in metal prices, and other others of that group ascending to record quotations. Gains of one to two points were general, the only weak features being railroad bonds and other others of that group.

The most notable feature of the early afternoon market was its relative calmness, trading dwindling to small portions. Heaviness prevailed in the final hour. Reading and other leaders declining abruptly. The close was heavy.

BOSTON MARKET

BOSTON, April 26.—Local mining shares opened buoyant today with trading broad and active. Copper Range was the feature in the first hour, advancing to 67 1/2. Butte & Superior sold at 65 1/2 and North Butte at 37.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 26.—Cotton futures opened steady. May, 10.20; July, 10.50; Aug., 10.60; Oct., 10.70; Dec., 10.80; Jan., 10.90; March, 11.10. The close was steady. May, 10.20; July, 10.50; Aug., 10.60; Oct., 10.70; Dec., 10.80; Jan., 10.90; March, 11.10. The close was steady.

MONEY MARKET

NEW YORK, April 26.—Mercantile paper 3 1/2 per cent. Sterling exchange steady; 60 day bills 4.75; for cables 4.75; for demand 4.75. Bank silver 50%. Mexican dollars 35 1/2. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

Time loans easy; 60 and 90 days 2 1/2; six months 3 1/4. U. S. bonds steady; high 2 1/2; low 1 1/2; rolling rate 2 1/2; loan 2 1/2; closing bid 2; offered at 2 1/2.

The many friends of George Smar, a popular member of the C. M. A. C., will be grieved to learn he is confined to his home in Gershom avenue with a severe illness.

LOSSES $107,000 AMERICANS HELD

Grand Opera House in New Haven Destroyed—Built in 1860

NEW HAVEN, April 26.—The Grand Opera House in Crown street, the oldest playhouse in New Haven, was destroyed by fire early yesterday, and the entire fire fighting force of the city was given a hard fight in preventing the blaze from spreading to nearby buildings.

Various office buildings were endangered for a time. The loss is $107,000. The theatre, originally known as Music hall, was erected in 1860 and was rich in historic interest. Stage boxes and singers of world fame appeared there. Half a century ago it was the scene of state political conventions, Yale junior promenade and other university events. Mass meetings held during the Civil war. A national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic was held in the building, at which were present Grant, Sherman and Sheridan. Charles Dickens lectured in the house during his American tour.

MUNITIONS FOR AUSTRIA

NAPLES POLICE UNCOVER "NEUTRAL" CARGO SNUGGLED FROM UNITED STATES

ROME, April 26.—The Naples police have discovered a cargo of army uniforms and material, boots and foodstuffs consigned to Austrian shippers, cunningly concealed in wine barrels. The barrels, other barrels supposed to contain resin from the United States were found to be filled with rubber valued at more than $500,000. The steamship Corallo Cuccotto carried the cargo.

It is known that agents of Austria and Germany have been employing every means in their power to smuggle munitions through Italy into Austria.

BOSTON, April 27.—Another daylight robbery, one of the boldest thus far recorded, was added to Boston's rapidly increasing list yesterday afternoon when a ticket office in the Jamaica Plain station of the New Haven was robbed of $25.58.

The robbery, which was evidently the work of someone familiar with conditions at the station, was accomplished during the 20-minute absence of Assistant Ticket Agent Henry C. Sawlor, who was taking mail from the 3.49 outward bound train to the post-office.

The men, believed to be two in number, made their entrance and getaway without being seen, although Telegrapher George Finklestein was busy at his wire in the main office on the opposite side of the station, and Station Agent Charles H. Thurston was cleaning lamps alongside the tracks.

It is thought that the thieves came from Boston or from the station, on the train, and knowing Sawlor to be busy with the mail, dropped from the year and running across the tracks, forced the door of the office, which was fastened with two locks.

When the 3.49 outward bound local arrived at the Jamaica Plain station yesterday afternoon, Station Agent Thurston being busy with the lamps, young Sawlor locked his office door and crossed to the train to take the mail bag, which he carried to the postoffice but a short distance away.

Here he waited a few minutes for a bag of mail destined for the 4.24 outward bound train, reaching his office at 4.10. He found the door wrenched open and split for about 2 1/2 feet, with one of the locks torn out. The cash drawer was open, and the compartments in which the money was kept, missing.

Sawlor immediately notified Agent Thurston, and an investigation revealed the fact that the thieves had dropped the empty bag at the foot of a flight of steps leading to Bartlett square.

A Clear Complexion

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known
Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-go feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one or two Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, and you will find a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now, and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

PET ON BRITISH BATTLESHIP IN DARDANELLES

The accompanying is from a photograph taken on board of one of the British battleships now patrolling the entrance to the Dardanelles. This island hog makes a quaint pet for the crew. was to have responded to the first toast but in his absence Edward F. Spillane, who was acting as toastmaster, stated that if the other divisions didn't get a move on toward building Hibernian hall, Division 25 would take it up itself.

George M. Harrigan, then a member of the school board, responded to the toast "City of Lowell," in the absence of Mayor Palmer who had sent a letter of regret. Mr. Harrigan referred to Division 5, the baby division just started and predicted its success. Daniel J. Donahue spoke on the toast "Ireland," John J. Hoxan, "The United States," and Hon. Jeremiah Crowley, "The State of Massachusetts."

Charles W. O'Donnell, the county delegate who was among the speakers, quoted interesting statistics of that time. Twenty-five years ago according to Mr. O'Donnell's figures, in Massachusetts there were 165 divisions with over 15,000 members while in Middlesex county there were 27 divisions and 3000 members.

Mr. J. C. Curry spoke and during the evening there were songs by Messrs. O'Donnell, Harrigan, Battersby, Hession, Roche and Dalton, and a cornet solo by Mr. Spillane. The old Sun didn't give the Christian names of the last-named performers and hence I'll not venture the statement that John Dalton was warbling at banquets quarter of a century ago, and that James J. Spillane was charming audiences with the cornet.

Passion Play Flourishes
"You must think that I am a rather venerable personage or else one possessed of a marvelous memory," said Mr. George Lyon, the bustling head of the Lyon Carpet Co. of this city, when I asked him to tell me about his visit to Oberammergau, 25 years ago.

"Although I was quite young at the time I recall the play quite vividly," said Mr. Lyon, and I recall meeting personally Joseph Meyer, who played the part of Christ. The subject of the play, the remoteness of the scene at which it was acted, the difficulties encountered in getting to it and the cost.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 27.—The German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, which will be interned at the Norfolk navy yard for the remainder of the war, was at a pier today filling her coal bunkers. Work of caulking was to be completed late today and the cruiser taken, probably tomorrow, to Norfolk for internment.

The Wilhelm will be interned at the request of her commander, Capt. Thierfelder. Official notice of his intention to intern was given the collector of customs, Hamilton, late yesterday.

Capt. Thierfelder later explained that he had intended to attempt a dash through the lane of British and French warships which have been lying in wait off the Virginia Capes, but that the illness of many of his crew would make that impossible before the expiration of the time limit fixed by the American government for repairs to make his cruiser seaworthy which is said to have followed her internment at the Norfolk navy yard the Wilhelm's officers and men will be given the freedom of the cities about Hampton Roads as was the case of the crew of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The Wilhelm came into port a little over two weeks ago after a long voyage through southern seas during which she destroyed 14 merchant ships with their cargoes were valued at $1,000,000.

KEY TO TREASURE HOUSE

HOW BEST AID TO WONDERFUL
INFORMATION MAY BE SECURED—GET A DICTIONARY

What vast and mighty treasures of words full of rich meaning lie locked up in our language—hidden away from common use, and enjoyed only by the learned few. It is as if, possessing the mineral wealth of Mexico, mined, smelted, and ready for the mint, we turned scornfully aside, revealing in a voluntary poverty.

A dictionary constitutes the treasure house of a language. As a people, we needlessly deprive ourselves of the help of our command. In our daily tasks, not one of which can be performed without the use of words, we possess only the most primitive tools, when we might be equipped with the keenest and most efficient. If the dictionary be the barred and bolted treasure house we have mentioned, then the coupon we print daily in this paper, is its key. For we have thus made it possible for everyone to own a dictionary, and to have it at hand. The book is brought down to date with new words, 1,300 pages being devoted to the dictionary, and a great fund of information adapted to the daily needs of a busy man or woman. The work is beautifully illustrated in colors and half-tones. The flexible real leather cover, adds to the beauty.

Interest begins Saturday, May 1, at the Central Savings bank.

Hot Wave to Continue
In Boston the thermometer rose a high as 54, this being registered at 4 o'clock, and was within one degree of the heat record for April 26, established in 1872, the year the weather bureau was created. The record for hot weather in April was reached April 19, 1914, when the thermometer registered 57.

Although yesterday was not a record-breaker, such hot weather in April is as rare as yesterday's rain. The spell yesterday because of the sudden change in temperature from Sunday when the mercury glass was down in the 40's.

From midnight Sunday the thermometer rose steadily yesterday morning and many who had come in town prepared for a cool day suffered considerable discomfort.

The slow westerly breeze of 10 miles an hour gave little relief to those on the street.

According to the local weather bureau officials last night today will be the same as yesterday. The spell is expected to continue today and tomorrow and the temperature may go one or two degrees higher than yesterday.

Hot Throughout the East
Boston was not the only place in the country where it was hot yesterday. The entire North Atlantic coast on the Ohio valley was in the grip of the hot wave. Washington, D. C., reported 84 Sunday and yesterday; Harrisburg 80; Richmond, 84; Norfolk, 82, and Raleigh, N. C., 82, all new April heat records for these cities.

Chicago had a maximum temperature of 83 and Detroit 86 and west of these cities conditions were reported normal. The normal temperature for Boston at this time of year is 49 degrees.

The hottest part of the country yesterday was the Potomac Valley, where the coolest spot was Eastport, Me., with a temperature of 33.

Boston was the hottest place in New England, but Nantucket, with a temperature of 44, was not far behind Eastport.

BETTER BABIES
The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast and take firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL BUSY WITH HEARINGS

Frank Malorey Objects to Form of Paving Block Contract—Mr. Cawley Protests

At the regular meeting of the municipal council held this forenoon, Frank Malorey was given a hearing on his protest against the form of specifications in connection with city contracts for edgestones, circle stones and paving blocks. Mr. Malorey claimed that the specifications and conditions surrounding the contracts as presented by the purchasing agent eliminated the small dealer and he claimed unjust discrimination. The council also gave a hearing on the petition of Edward Cawley whose bid for cement was rejected by the purchasing agent because Mr. Cawley did not specify any particular brand, though Mr. Cawley was the lowest bidder. The meeting was called to order at about 11:15 o'clock.

The first business taken up was a petition from the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for a permit to construct underground conduits in Durham street from Appleton to Summer street and also for the erection of 12 poles in Gorham street. A representative of the corporation explained that the improvements are for the white way. The petitions were referred.

J. Alfred Plinar petitioned for the buying of edgestones in D street, Kenneth D. McKinnon petitioned for the closing of Lawrence street. Several other petitions for the closing of streets were read and all were referred.

The following communication was read by the mayor:

To the Honorable, the County Commissioners for the County of Middlesex:

Represent your petitioners, the directors of the Boston & Maine railroad, that a public way in the city of Lowell in said county of Middlesex, known as Chelmsford street, and the railroad of the Boston & Maine railroad corporation of which the Boston & Maine railroad is lessee, cross each other at a bridge known as No. 35, and that the day State street railway company has tracks upon said road upon said bridge at the said crossing and that your petitioners are of the opinion that it is necessary for the security and convenience of the public that an alteration which does not involve the abolition of a crossing at grade should be made in the bridge at said crossing.

Wherefore, the petitioners pray that your honorable board after public notice hear all the parties interested and if it decides, that such alteration is necessary, shall prescribe the manner and limits within which it shall be made and shall forthwith certify its decision to the parties and to the public service commission.

Directors of the Boston & Maine railroad by Edgar J. Rich and Thornton Alexander, Attorneys.

The communication was placed on file and Commissioner Morse was authorized to attend the hearing.

GERMAN RUSH IN FLANDERS HALTED

Berlin Claims British Attacks Broken Down With Extraordinarily Heavy Losses—Italian Ambassadors Called Home—Trawler Blown Up

The German rush in Flanders has been halted, at least for the moment. Official communications from the German, French, British and Belgian war departments today bring out this point, although it is not clear whether the allies have accomplished anything of importance further than to check the advance of their opponents.

The official announcement from Berlin shows that the Germans are now on the defensive along their new line north of Ypres. The statement is made that British attacks broke down with extraordinarily heavy losses.

Allies Regain Territory
Both the French and British claim that part of the lost territory has been re-taken. A despatch from field Marshal Sir John French, British commander-in-chief, says the British made progress in the vicinity of St. Julien. It is also said the French regained possession of Met Sas. The Paris announcement reports that the French have made further progress.

It is said further that the French have recaptured Hartmann's Wellerkopf in the mountains near the eastern end of the line which the Germans wrested from them two days ago.

Italian Ambassadors Called
The Italian ambassadors at Paris, London, Vienna and Berlin have been summoned to Rome to confer with Foreign Minister Sonnino. In Rome this action is regarded as preliminary to the announcement of an important decision on the part of the Italian government.

Grimsby Trawler Blown Up
The Grimsby trawler Recco has been blown up in the North sea. Seven survivors, some of them terribly mutilated, were picked up out of the crew of nine. The others perished.

Belgians Check Germans
The little Belgian army, once more in the midst of a furious struggle is reported to have repulsed three successive attacks of the Germans south of Dixmude in the great battle now under way in Flanders. A statement today from the Belgian military authorities says there was activity yesterday along the whole section of the front held by the Belgians.

Towns Recaptured
Announcement is made that the town of Lierne, a storm center in the battle has been again taken from the Germans. Capture of this town was announced by the Belgians on Sunday and denied yesterday by the Germans. Today's statement says the Belgians lost Lierne again on Sunday but regained possession of it yesterday.

London Admits German Gains
London is speculating whether the fierce German attack marks an attempt or is in reality a feint preparatory to striking a blow at some other point on the 600 mile front. It is admitted, however, that the Germans have gained already a substantial success in this battle, the outcome of which is awaited with anxiety by the belligerent nations.

Austrian Victories
In the east there are no signs of a recrudescence of fighting on such a scale as that of last month. The Austrian war office continues to announce specify in his bids the kind of cement he would supply and if he were given the contract he could supply a cheaper grade of cement.

Mr. Regan said there is a change in the specifications that limits the brands to five in number for the first lot and seven for the second, and Mr. Cawley would be forced to supply any one of the mentioned brands. He said the city can save $1200 if it does it.

The mayor said he would not argue that Mr. Cawley's bid should be thrown out because he did not properly specify the brand of cement.

Mr. Regan said he cannot understand why the contract was awarded to Mr. Wilson, who was the highest bidder. He said the city should save $1200 for the money is needed for street improvements, new schools, etc.

Purchasing Agent Foye said Mr. Wilson's bid was $153, and not $163 as stated by Mr. Regan.

Mr. Regan: Did you tell me, Mr. Foye, that the contract had been awarded?

Foye: Yes, sir.

Regan: Then I will have my receipt on my telephone changed.

Foye: You need not do that because I have notified you by writing that the contract had been given out.

Mr. Foye produced bills from Mr. Cawley for years past showing that he always specified the brand of cement he was to furnish. He said he wanted everything from Mr. Cawley in black and white.

Mr. Regan said it is too bad that a city official will take advantage of a small technicality to throw down a bid and have the city pay about $1200 more by doing so.

Mr. Morse was asked if he rejected the bid and he said he did not know anything about it.

Dynamite Explosion in Trench at New Ken-sico Dam—11 Injured

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 27.—Seven Italian workmen were killed and 11 injured today when there was a premature explosion of dynamite in the cut-off trench at the new Kensico dam. The charges had been placed and the men were getting ready to go to safety when the explosion occurred, throwing out 40 tons of rock. Four of the injured are so seriously hurt that it is thought they will die. The men who were killed were working 30 feet underground at the bottom of a shaft. The blast which ended their lives was fired ten feet above their heads and unloosed tons of earth and rock which buried alive those not killed outright. Some one, it is believed, accidentally crossed the wires which led to the charge of explosives, already set, thus firing it.

PLATT'S MESSAGE URGED ROOSEVELT TO SIGN BILL

Telegram Read "Our Friends are Anxious"—Colonel Replied it "Came too Late"—Trial on

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 27.—A telegram in which former United States Senator Platt urged ex-President Roosevelt to sign a bill exempting from their franchise tax measure grade crossings of steam railroads and said that "our friends of the New York Central and Senator Depew were anxious" was read in the supreme court here on this sixth day of Col. Roosevelt had been on the witness stand in the trial of the libel suit against him brought by William Barnes, Jr. of Albany. In reply the colonel wrote Senator Platt he had received the telegram "too late."

W. L. Barnum, the cross examiner, started off by asking Colonel Roosevelt whether he had taken the advice of Senator Platt in regard to the nomination for the vice presidency in 1900.

"Did you value Senator Platt's advice?" asked Mr. Barnum.

"I am unable to say," replied the colonel.

Questioning Col. Roosevelt on the last letter read yesterday Mr. Barnum asked:

Enjoyed Being Governor
"Is it true you enjoyed being governor?"

"Thoroughly," said the witness smiling.

The spectators and jury roared with laughter.

"Do you seek Senator Platt's advice as a boss?"

"No."

"Did he advise you to accept the nomination?"

"Don't say 'advise,' sir," said Mr. Roosevelt.

Well, as a result of your interview with Senator Platt did he advise you?"

Colonel Roosevelt's counsel's objection to the question was sustained.

Mr. Barnum picked up the package of letters.

Col. Roosevelt asked for and received a pencil and paper.

Platt Suggested Parry
The first letter read was from Senator Platt to Col. Roosevelt, and was dated from Washington, Feb. 3, 1900. In the letter the senator postponed engagement because of the illness of country and an effort is being made to offer some assistance.

Saturday will be Polish tag day and the people of that country, living here in Lowell, feel sure that Lowell will be quick to respond to the cry for help as it has on occasions when other nations were in distress.

Mr. Clarence B. Livingston is taking a keen interest in the tag day arrangements and is not sparing of his time in his endeavor to assist in every way.

The doctor stated this morning that Mr. W. C. A. and the women's auxiliary will make Polish tag day a success. Dr. Livingston said there would be a meeting this evening, which all arrangements for the day would be completed.

CARMEN IN MOURNING
WEAR BLACK BOWS AS TRIBUTE OF RESPECT TO MEMORY OF LATE CONDUCTOR DUFFY.

The local street railway men appeared on their cars today with black bows in the lapels of their coats as a tribute of respect to the memory of the late Conductor John W. Duffy.

They will wear the bows for a period of thirty days. It was also voted at a meeting of the executive board that the charter be draped and a committee was appointed to draw up a set of resolutions, one copy to be sent to the family of the deceased, one to be spread on the records of local 250 and another to be sent to the publishers of the Motormen's and Conductors' Journal. A delegation also attended the funeral. The meeting was called by Pres. Crowley, who is also chairman of the executive board.

The local carmen held a meeting today to take action on the report of the committee that interviewed Mayor Murphy and Commissioner Morse yesterday relative to the car sprinkler matter. They still maintain that a conductor should be placed on the rear end of the sprinkler and will decide today what move will be made in order to bring about this change.

The change that went into effect yesterday, whereby the conductors were placed on the front end in charge of the arms, was made at the suggestion of Messrs. Perry and Morse but this is not satisfactory to the carmen.

RECEIVERS FOR DIMOND & SONS
BOSTON, April 27.—John L. Bates, former Governor of the state, and Guy M. Hurlburt, former United States marshal, were appointed receivers for the Dimond & Sons, Incorporated, today. Each furnished a bond for $50,000. Bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the Dimond firm by creditors yesterday.

Mrs. Platt. The senator also wrote: "Perhaps Henry Purroy would be a wise selection for the charter commission."

Mr. Purroy, a democrat, was suggested in a letter written by Col. Roosevelt, read yesterday. Canal matters were discussed at length in this letter.

Among the spectators in the room today was Chancellor Day of Syracuse university, author of the book "A Raid of Prosperity," in which Col. Roosevelt was freely criticized. Chancellor Day sat close to the witness chair and watched Col. Roosevelt as he answered questions.

The following letter, written by Senator Platt, dated Feb. 5, 1900, was read:

Letter from Platt
"I have hardly had time to give the consideration it deserves to your letter of Feb. 1 and the matters involved therein and am inclined to take more time for mature deliberation. The vice presidential question is a very important one and a great deal depends upon it."

"Mrs. Platt's condition is considerably improved and it looks now as though she should be able to get to New York soon at which time we can personally discuss the vice presidential and other questions."

"Did you discuss the question in pursuance of that letter?" asked Mr. Barnum.

"I did," replied the colonel.

Then this reply from Col. Roosevelt, dated Feb. 7, 1900, was read:

"Your very kind note has just been received. I note that you expect to be in New York on Saturday. If so I shall not try to lunch with you, but if convenient I will call on you at the Fifth Avenue hotel at 3 o'clock. My train gets in at 1:30 and so I do not suppose I could get to the hotel in time to take lunch with you. Will you wire me on receipt of this note?"

"P. S. I saw Keans and told him I had written you that I would not take the vice presidency, but I would not take anything said until I had a chance to talk matters over with you. I would a great deal rather be anything, say professor of history, than vice president."

WAS FOUND DEAD IN BED

NELLIE TAYLOR FOUND DEAD IN LODGING HOUSE—DEATH DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES.

Nellie Taylor, aged 50 years, was found today in bed in her lodging house at 12 Elliot street this forenoon by James O'Day, proprietor of the establishment. The woman had not been seen since 6 o'clock Saturday night and it is thought that she passed away early Sunday morning.

The woman, who had relatives on Maple street, had been accustomed to spending two or three days at a time at their home quite frequently and her absence was not noticed by Mr. O'Day until this morning when a messenger she was employed, asking why she did not report to work.

She was employed as a miller's wife and tried to open the door to her landlord and finding it locked he broke in the door and discovered the body of the woman lying on the bed. Lieut. Maher and Medical Examiner Melis were called. The latter stated that death was due to natural causes.

A MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE
YOUNG COWL SHOT WHEN HIS FIANCEE PULLED RIBBON ATTACHED TO REVOLVER

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 27.—Excitement was being made by the authorities today to clear up the mystery connected with the suicide of Arthur Hearn Cowl, 29 years old, son of Clark Cowl of New York city, at the home of Arthur De Forest Wheeler in Stratford last night.

Cowl, who had just returned from Bermuda, where he had been to recuperate from a nervous breakdown, arrived at the Wheeler home yesterday afternoon for a visit with his fiancée, Miss Emily Wheeler.

In the evening, after dinner, while they were strolling about the lawn, according to the story told by Miss Wheeler to the police, the young man gave her an engagement ring and a moment later placed the end of a ribbon in her hand, telling her to pull it.

As it was intended as a surprise for her, she did so, and a revolver which Cowl had concealed under his coat and to the trigger of which the other end of the ribbon was attached, was discharged, sending a bullet into his head which caused death at the local hospital a few hours later.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Bar Admission Bill Passed—Hotel Register Measure and Liquor Traffic Law Recalled

BOSTON, April 27.—By a vote of 18 to 15, with three pairs, the state senate passed the bill to amend the act relating to the admission of candidates for admission to the bar. Senator Bates offered an amendment which would compel applicants to do work equivalent to three years of a high school course, instead of two years, as the bill requires, but the amendment was rejected, 16 to 17.

The roll call on passing the bill to be engrossed was as follows:

Yes—Bagley, Deal, Bean, Cummings, Eldridge, Fitzgerald, Gifford, Green, Haigis, Jackson, Langelier, Leonard, Marchand, McGonigle, McLane, Sheehan, Teller, Timony—18.

No—Bartlett, Bates, Bazeley, Cavanagh, Clark, Ellis, Farnsworth, Fay, Hays, Hobbs, Kimball, Mason, Norwood, Tuttle, Wells—15.

Patrol—For: Sullivan, Doyle, Garst; against: Martin, Gordon, Perley.

Income Tax Debated

When the senate reached the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to impose an income tax at different rates on different kinds of property, Senator Gifford moved the substitution of a resolve providing that: "Full power be granted to the general court to impose and levy reasonable assessments, rates and taxes and to make reasonable exemptions, and that the legislature may from time to time a municipality to fix from time to time a rate on property other than real estate and money of not less than $5 nor more than $10 on every $1000 of value of such property."

Senator Tuttle opposed the Gifford amendment. He said the amendment reported by the committee on taxation was recommended by the taxation commissioner and that its adoption would be the first step toward solving the problem of proper taxation in the state. The Gifford amendment was refused substitution by a vote of 2 for to 3, and the resolve as reported from the committee was ordered to a third reading on a voice vote.

Back Track by the Senate

The senate took the back track on two important matters. It recalled the governor's bill forbidding dealers in intoxicating liquors to ship them into no-license communities. The bill was recalled because there is doubt whether its provisions do not prohibit the transportation of liquor through a no-license city or town even if the dealer is sending the liquor to a license community.

It is understood that the friends of the bill are willing to have the bill amended so as to make it clear that a dealer may ship liquor into a license city or town, and an attempt will be made to amend the bill also so as to provide that dealer who violates the law will not lose his license until the second offense; the bill as now drawn says that a license shall be null and void on the first violation of the act.

After the bill had been recalled, Senator Farnsworth asked unanimous consent to move reconsideration of the vote by which it was enacted, but Senator McLane objected and the motion was rejected. On the motion of Senator Gordon, the clerk of the senate was instructed to hold the bill until the senate acted further on it. Unless Senator McLane can be persuaded to withdraw his objections, the bill must be sent to the governor. It is assumed that he will veto it in its present form.

Hotel Registry Bill Recalled

On motion of Senator Ellis, the senate reconsidered the vote by which it had enacted the bill requiring guests at hotels to register their own names and compelling the proprietors of hotels to see that all persons who resort to their

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

KEEPING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

"Now just look at that lettuce," almost sobbed Marjorie, as Marie walked into the kitchen to find her young friend, trying vainly to rejuvenate a wilted head of lettuce.

"Lettuce should be crisp and cold to be fit to use," ventured Marie. "Perhaps you didn't take care of it properly when it was delivered. Just as soon as possible after the grocery or butcher brings your vegetables or fruits, they should be put away into a cool place, which means the ice box in all city homes. Lettuce may be separated, washed, wrapped in oiled paper and laid close to the ice. This insures a cold, crisp delicious salad.

"Vegetables should never be soaked in soft water for freshening purposes, for the salt acts directly upon the vegetable minerals, drawing them out and leaving a wilted, sorrowful vegetable as a result. Cucumbers, as an example, when fresh should be crisp and are perfectly digestible.

"The rooty plants, such as beets, turnips and carrots are good when very young; the old ones grow tough and heavy in wood fibre and are not fit for summer foods. Green corn spoils quickly and should be cooked while very fresh, especially after the husk is removed. Corn

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A few weeks ago I republished in this column a poem entitled "Sweet Merrimack" from the pen of Mr. Thomas M. Fahy, of this city. The verses originally appearing in The Sun of a quarter of a century ago. The compiler, Mr. Fahy, had long since laid down his pen and had ceased to court the Muses. But he read the reproduction of his ancient effort in the Quarter Century Ago column and the feeling came over him that poets sometimes come back, as well as other geniuses.

As a result Mr. Fahy who now resides at 32 Sutherland street, sends in the following:

"Quite recently you reprinted some verses of mine entitled 'Sweet Merrimack' and their perusal after so many years awakened memories of days gone by, when I used to write on occasion—I'll not say poetry, but lyrics, and the thought occurred to me that I could write once more at this late date, to use the vernacular, could I come back. And the thought led to action, with the following result:

THE KNOT HOLE IN THE FENCE

In my golden days of boyhood, in the happy long ago,
When my heart was utter stranger to all misery and woe;
On each pleasant day of summer as the sun shone warmly down,
I would lie on the hill-side grounds on the outskirts of the town,
But I neither in the bleachers nor the lordly grandstand sat,
Ah! no I knew better, I was not a double two of that;
I would watch the game progressing with a joy that was intense,
From my point of observation,

The Druggists' Licenses

Today there are 45 licensed drug stores in Lowell. Twenty-five years ago, with no license in town there were 53 applications for druggists' licenses but only 39 were fortunate in getting them. Nowadays the license commissioners rarely have occasion to question an application for a druggist's license for the "booster" drug store in Lowell is apparently a thing of the past, while in days gone by they were numerous. It might also be said that the old-time "speak-easy," the tenement barroom, has also disappeared. Though the drug store could use liquor in compounding legitimate prescriptions it could only have a very limited quantity on hand, while the licensed place could have a considerable quantity on the premises without endangering its license, and licenses for drug stores could be granted whether the city had declared for no-license or not. Before the coming of the so-called "sandwich law" by which a hotel keeper could legally serve liquor with food, a sandwich constituting food, it was impossible to get liquor in legal manner on Sunday without considerable expense, and as the licensed places took the greater chance in violating the law and were watched more closely, they observed the law quite rigidly with the result that the "speak-easy" and the "booster" drug store came into being. But the sandwich law had much to do with the success of the average man preferring to pay a few cents more and have his libation in comfort, to being obliged to gulp it down behind closed doors, and gulp down an inferior article into the bargain, while of course police activity in rounding up "speak-easies" was also a contributing factor in its decline. Twenty-five years ago and even more recently a Sunday new or passed without a Sunday new successful raids upon a drug store by the police, whereas nowadays one seldom hears from them, though the police are as hot after them when they come into existence as they ever were.

In the year of no-license 25 years ago drug stores sprang up on every corner, for all that was required was a store and a man with a registered pharmacist's certificate. It was customary for a man who desired to conduct one of these places to engage a registered man who was willing to take a chance, by paying him a greater salary than his position would demand ordinarily, and start in business. If the place was caught the registered man would be hauled into court and fined, the man behind, paying the fine, then the state board of pharmacy generally suspended the certificate of the offending registered man and in the event of a second conviction revoked his certificate and he was out of the business.

Iron Worker Praises Duffy's

Here's a case of a structural iron worker who suffered severe stomach trouble, but thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey he is almost ready to resume his hazardous calling.

"For many weeks I was laid up sick in bed in the hospital with stomach trouble which gradually wore me away to mere skeleton. The hospital treatment did not seem to improve me, so my doctor said I would not get well, and told my people to take me home as there was nothing any one on this earth could do for me. When I reached home my doctor ordered me to be fed on a tablespoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey every two hours. After taking Duffy's for over one week, without another moment of foot entering my system, I began to have a longing for something to eat, and to my surprise found I could keep a little oatmeal gruel on my stomach, and gradually I regained my former appetite and felt better. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the cause for my present good state of health, and my doctor says I will soon be able to go back to my trade of structural iron worker. I am not afraid of the truth and hope others will benefit from the use of Duffy's the same as myself."

may be relied upon in extreme cases where other foods are rejected. When taken as directed just before meals, it assists in keeping healthy the essential functions of digestion because it induces activity in the flow of gastric juices so the food you eat will digest naturally. This action on the digestive process is of great importance as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutriment necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. STATUE OF RIO BRANCO

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 27.—Dr. Lauro Mueller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, set out with his suite last night on a journey to Uruguay and Argentina. Primarily their purpose was simply a visit of courtesy to Uruguay which has honored the late Baron de Rio Branco, formerly Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, by having a statue of Rio Branco placed behind the boundary line between the two countries. Dr. Mueller will unveil this statue.

Yielding to the urgent requests of the governments of Argentina and Chile, however, Dr. Mueller has been obliged to extend his itinerary which now will bring about an exchange of visits by the ministers of foreign affairs of Argentina, Chile and Brazil, whose action in the recent crisis between the United States and Mexico is regarded as indicating the necessity of a stronger and more definite union.

FIRE IN SECOND AVENUE

FIREMEN ARRIVE IN TIME TO PREVENT DESTRUCTION OF JOHN BLESSINGTON'S HOUSE

A brisk fire was discovered at 4:15 o'clock this morning in a dwelling at 53 Second avenue, occupied by John Blessington, superintendent of streets, and only quick action in getting the alarm to the fire station and the prompt response of members of hose 10 prevented the whole building from being gutted. The fire started in back of the wood box in the kitchen and worked its way through the partitions to the second floor of the house. When the firemen arrived the dwelling was filled with smoke and the flames were creeping toward the attic but by ripping out a portion of the wall the firefighters succeeded in checking the blaze before it got beyond control. Considerable of the furniture was also damaged by fire and water.

OFFICIALS EXPECT THAT COLLECTIONS WILL EXCEED ORIGINAL ESTIMATE OF $50,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Administration officials were optimistic today over prospects that the income tax this year will yield an amount considerably in excess of the original estimate of $50,000,000. This optimism was based upon full preliminary estimates to the treasury department from internal revenue collectors throughout the country which places the sum to be collected from the individual and corporation tax at $52,025,900. Officials are confident, however, that the returns will exceed that sum by several millions.

Dr. George A. Willey, for many years organist at the Westminster Presbyterian church, who sails for Santa Cruz, Cal., next Saturday, was tendered a surprise party at his home, 41 Royal street, last evening and was presented a suitcase and purse. The affair had been organized by the members of the church choir and proved very successful. The presentation address was made by the pastor of the church, Rev. S. A. Jackson.

Thomas C. Lee Co. carried insurance on the building and contents in the name of Joseph Wozniak, rear 318 Lakeview avenue damaged by fire.

James Francis O'Donoghue of this city, a senior in Brown university, has been elected a member of the honorary society of Phi Beta Kappa. Mr. O'Donoghue was first speaker at the Spring day exercises of the senior class and is president of the O and C club, a senior organization at the university.

Miss Bernadette Ducharme of 114 Gershom avenue was tendered a birthday party last night and was presented a handsome silver ring, the presentation being made by Miss Marie Anne Dubois. Refreshments were served and a pleasant evening was spent.

Among those who have accepted the invitation to lecture at the U. M. A. C. hall before the members of the association are the following: Rev. Dr. J. H. Racette, O. M. I., Rev. Joseph Bolduc, O. M. I., Rev. Charles Denzot, O. M. I., Rev. Leon Lamothe, O. M. I., Rev. J. B. Barrette, O. M. I., Rev. J. B. Labossiere, Rev. L. C. Bedford, Arthur L. Esq., Dr. J. E. Lamoureux, Congressman John Jacob Rogers, School Committee member W. P. Caisse, Jr., and others.

Miss M. A. Lessard, formerly of this city and now of New Bedford, is renewing acquaintances in Lowell.

Laurent Gagnon of Melvin street has purchased the automobile of Mrs. P. L. Denault of Merrimack street.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Deziel of Merrimack street have returned from a pleasant trip to Concord, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gonest of Gershom avenue are the guests of relatives at Concord, N. H.

Mrs. Joseph Boisvert and her daughter, Cecile of Hancock avenue left last night for Quebec.

Misses Alice Salvail and Noela Piquin were recently the guests of friends in Nashua, N. H.

Alderman Telephone Desrosiers and Mrs. Desrosiers of Woonsocket, R. I. and Miss L. Bourassa are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Courtols of Merrimack street.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Perron of Worthen street.

THE SICKABED LADY

A simple, but efficacious steam remedy for cold in the head and hoarseness, says nurse, is to inhale steam from a sponge dipped in boiling water. Cover the sponge with a towel, wrap a towel around it so that you can hold the ends of the towel instead of the scalding sponge, bury your nose and mouth in the covered sponge and breathe through nose and mouth. When the sponge loses heat, remove the towel and pour on some more boiling water.

Cold compress is an excellent and easy cure for sore throat. Wrap cloths wrung out in ice water round the throat and renew as soon as they grow warm. A nice remedy for anyone with bad lungs, or a bad cold is to take a piece of flannel, long and narrow; lay on table; put on dry mustard, rub into the flannel. Fold together, pin on to the under-shirt. It never burns unless you wet it in some way. It helps where everything else has failed.

One-half cup hot water, teaspoon paregoric, teaspoon sugar, teaspoon glycerine, if taken at night will keep person from coughing at night. Good for small children and babies, as it is harmless.

Nurse says moles may be removed by the use of caustics or by electricity. It would be best, however, to have a specialist in this work remove them, as serious consequences may be the price if you attempt their removal on your own responsibility.

If you will get some mulatto acid and put a drop on warts three or four times a day they will gradually disappear. You can use a toothpick to apply it with.

The first thing to do to banish pimples, nurse advises, is to look to your diet. Eat less pastry and sweets and drink more water. A daily bath in which salt has been sprinkled liberally, and an hour's exercise in the open air are good. In addition to this treatment apply a bit of the following lotion to the pimples every day: One dram precipitate of sulphur, one dram tincture of camphor, and four ounces of rose-water.

All of us, says nurse, have occasionally a sick person in the home; a few of us, unfortunately, a chronic invalid. The problem of the meal tray can be comfortably solved in these days. Of course, the oval tray with handles at the ends and a little railing that prevents the sliding of dishes is most desirable.

A friend of hers had a tray made by a tinsmith for a very small sum. This is both tray and table, as there are folding legs of heavy wire that allow the tray to fit across the lap without resting on it. This tray has a rim entirely around it and a broad handle across the top, basket fashion. The handle is made to fold out of the way around the sides of the tray when not in use. Painted light blue it is pretty as well as convenient.

Another bed tray of wood has the top shaped like a lapboard to fit around the invalid. A railing runs around three sides, containing an opening at the ends to serve as handles. There are four little folding feet or legs to raise it from the invalid's lap.

When counted gulps of water and deep breathing fail to cure hic-coughs, says nurse, this remedy will be found very effective. Take the largest possible mouthful of cold water and hold it in the mouth and sip both ears tightly with the fingers. Then, with the ears tightly stopped, swallow the water at a gulp. Frequent sips are gone.

Toothache that is caused by some acid penetrating a cavity may frequently be relieved by rinsing the mouth with a little bicarbonate of soda and water. A drop or two of turpentine in the cavity of an aching tooth will ease it. If gums are sore, bathe with the same.

To prevent the skin from discoloring after a fall or blow, take a little dry starch, moisten it with cold water, and lay it on the injured part.

Onion is an excellent tonic for the nerves, says nurse. A steady diet of onions for a few weeks will make a nervous dyspeptic a new person again. Other vegetables good for cases of nerves because they enrich the blood, which nourishes the nerves are peas, beans, carrots and artichokes. Thin persons should eat plentifully of these vegetables if they would make rich, red blood.

For a torpid liver there is nothing better than a diet of dandelions, using the water they were boiled in for making into a syrup to be taken also. Celery eaten regularly will be very beneficial to those persons having a gouty tendency or who are troubled with rheumatism, while those who suffer from sleeplessness should eat freely of lettuce late in the day, because the milk contained in the leaves is a sedative that calms the nerves and creates a drowsiness.

Radishes and watercress are purifying in their effect, and as they are cheap they should be served very often.

Nurse says when the inevitable alarm arises and the question is, has Jack scarlet fever, measles or only plain gripe, separate him at once from the other children. Take no chances; prompt action will often save severe cases. Remove the curtains from the window, the valance from the bed, roll up and take out the rugs, leave only enough furniture in the room for convenience. The room is then ready for the patient.

It is important that until there is absolute assurance that it is not a contagious case that there should be as little communication as possible between the room and the rest of the house. So it is a good plan to have on hand and always ready a heater of some sort.

Electricity, gas, denatured alcohol, kerosene, all are good fuels, and the choice among them merely a matter of convenience. In connection with the heater have an enameled ware tea kettle, the squat, flat kind with a large bottom. This should hold about three pints. Hot water for all emergencies is thus provided. This equipment should also include a small enameled ware saucepan, in which milk or broth may be heated. These implements are strong and so light that they can be used without noise, an important point in a sick room.

TEMPERATURE PARADE POSTPONED

The Flying Squadron command committee met last night to discuss plans for a parade of church and Sunday school societies. There was a strong sentiment against holding the parade on Sunday, especially on children's day. It was voted that, if a parade is held, every church organization in the city be invited to take part, and also the members of the various societies. The parade will be held in the fall, possibly on Columbus day. The original plan was to hold the parade on children's day.

SCENE FROM "THE MAN FROM HOME" WITH CHARLES RICHMAN AT ACADEMY TODAY AND TOMORROW

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KEITH'S THEATRE

Headed by a comedy sketch entitled "The New Leader," presented by Al Lewis & Co., the big professed at R. Keith's theatre this week is one of the best of the season. From the opening act, which displays some clever juggling, until the last act, which is a variety of vaudeville would be hard to find.

"The New Leader," is an act filled with laughs and the comedy is new and snappy. The opening stage manager is attempting to rehearse for a show without an orchestra leader. After the rehearsal goes along for a time with little progress on account of the absence of a leader, a violinist is secured from a motion picture house and he willingly occupies the conductor's chair.

The rehearsal continues. The leader, a German, chatters in a very humorous way and his talk proves amusing. A high salary woman singer then appears in the act and she is followed by her husband, a monologist with whom she had some trouble and did not know he was on the bill. In running through a few of his songs, the monologist grows angry and he is finally released by the stage manager. A "sister act" by Misses Nance and Nance, who are dressed in dress suits, the pair danced but nothing goes well with them, and the curtain lowers with the new leader discharged.

The leading part is played by Al Lewis, who is really one of the most natural of comedians. The "sister act" is also a feature of the number, which in itself is a complete vaudeville show.

"The musical comedy boys," Lou Locket and Jack Waldron, are two of the cleverest dancers that have been seen at Keith's this season. Appearing in dress suits, the pair dance together and also contribute special dances separately. Locket is acrobatic and does considerable difficult dancing while his partner, Waldron, is very graceful.

Three men and two women appear in "The Song Festival," which is an excellent act featuring good entertainment. The singing is the quintet is pleasing while the scenic effect during the act is really striking. Irish numbers are first given, then they swing to English and Scotch songs while the act closes with the singing of songs of Civil war days.

James Mullen and Alan Coogan have a supply of new songs and jokes and they put them over in a pleasing manner. The pair also dance very well and their act is sure to prove a favorite during the remainder of the week. George W. Scott and Dorothy Marke offer an act of comedy and songs, while the three Czechs, European novelty gymnasts, do clever stunts from a swinging trapeze. Pollard is a comedy insider who is very clever and does many difficult things. The Hearst-Selig News Pictorial is up to its usual standard and shows scenes at the opening baseball game in Boston last week.

THE OWL THEATRE

Wonders will never cease. They say there is nothing new under the sun, but it's not so with the motion picture industry. Not satisfied with securing the highest stage success, and converting them for the "movies," the film companies are securing daily the most famous and best domestic and foreign stars in the theatrical business. A master stroke was done a few months ago when William Fox secured the services of Betty Nansen, a royal actress from Copenhagen, and a friend of Henrik Ibsen. She was the creator of Ibsen's last heroic roles—and as such acquired much fame. She was applauded many times by kings and emperors. But today, the motion picture brings her to the work-rooms of the Academy of Motion Pictures. In Eschagary's "A Celestial Scandal" in which she appears today, she is cast in a dramatic role that gives full play to her emotional acting, and she makes the best of it. Five other films complete the show.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Pretty nearly everyone knows of the great dramatic power of "The Man from Home," a Paramount pictureization of the play by the same name, and tomorrow, and featuring Charles Richman. It is a photoplay well worth seeing, and delighted large audiences yesterday. Another interesting episode in "The Black Box" is also being shown, together with other good reels.

THE CHIN LEE CO.

New Restaurant Opened
With Splendid Banquet Last Evening

To celebrate the opening of its splendid new restaurant, the Chin Lee Co. gave a banquet last evening to about 150 prominent men of Lowell and incidentally proved that for epicurean dishes, toothsome dainties and courteous service, the new chop suey resort is unsurpassed. The banquet was unique in many features and its excellence evoked a spirit of enthusiasm in those present that was reflected in the speeches and cheers with which the evening closed. The menu included: soup, seafood, chicken, chop suey, turkey, and other Chinese and American dainties such as only a Chinese cook can prepare in perfection.

In the early evening, Mr. Burton H. Wiggin, the well known contractor and builder, under whose direction the new restaurant was remodelled, and who was master of ceremonies for the occasion, explained that some of the kitchen equipment was late in arriving and asked that all present would exercise patience. The interval of waiting was filled in by most eloquent addresses on the friendship that exists between China and America, made by Mr. Nihong, nephew of Wu Tingfang, former Chinese ambassador and a graduate of Harvard. There was music by Cushman's orchestra, which played throughout the evening, and some splendid choral selections by the Glee club of the Warren Street Baptist church, which consists of 25 voices, under the direction of Walter W. Carr.

Before the banquet proper, the late crowd present went through the various sections of the new restaurant.

and expressions of admiration were heard on all sides. The Chin Lee Co. recently bought out the Young China Co. and determined to make the restaurant the finest of its kind outside of New York. They claim, and with good reason, that it is the finest Chinese restaurant in New England. The walls are tiled in the most approved fashion and the floors are carpeted. Several new booths have been added, and many quaint and rich Oriental touches of decoration including gorgeous embroideries and gold traceries. Almost $10,000 was spent in the renovation. There are 35 booths and the Chin Lee company can easily accommodate 250 persons at a time. The windows are large and airy, the lighting fixtures are the latest in design, and in every respect the new restaurant is a model of efficiency and luxury. The plumbing was done by the H. R. Barker Co.; the electric work by W. C. Hinkley; the painting by the Lowell Wallpaper Co.; the floors by the American Mason Safety Tread Co., all under the personal supervision of Mr. Burton H. Wiggin.

Among those present last evening were the leading city officials and business and professional men of Lowell. There were also many out-of-town guests, one of the most popular being the beautiful Chinese-doll daughter of Mr. Nihong. The tables were handsomely decorated with roses of all colors. At the close of the banquet, which lasted until 10:30 p. m., Mr. Wiggin called upon the following for a few remarks: Joseph Smith, Representative Victor F. Jewett, Representative Achin, Albert S. Howard, Lawrence Cummings, Frank K. Stearns, Hon. John E. Drury, Supt. Redmond Welch and Commissioner Newell F. Putnam.

Highest tributes were paid by all to the Chin Lee company for its generosity, hospitality and initiative. For the coming week, Cushman's orchestra will play at the new restaurant every evening from 5:30 to 9 p. m. There is little doubt that the new venture will prove a financial success, judging by last evening.

The Chief Advantage of Crawford Boilers

over other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size." A fact worth noting.

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and save fuel and labor.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

THE LADY'S WORKBAG

A most effective finish for a linen pillow, in which you wish to use the insets of fillet crochet medallions, would be a plain edge of fillet crochet mesh, about five blocks wide. The cushion should be finished first, so that the exact measurements could be ascertained, then the edge should be crocheted to fit the cushion and sewed to it where the back and front are joined.

Arrange the medallions, one in the center and one at each corner of the cover, connecting the four outer motifs with an insertion of plain two-mesh fillet crochet.

The plain fillet mesh is seen in the newest crochet trimmed pieces as a finish and is used for scarfs, as well as pillows.

One of the very newest novelties in needlework is embroidery worked on fillet crochet lace. It consists of French knots arranged in clusters for the flower forms and leaves in lazy-daisy stitch.

A design of fillet crochet having rather large conventional motifs is usually selected. The French knot flowers and the leaves are embroidered directly on the solid block motif. A variety of harmonious colors, such as blue, pink and lavender for the flowers, with green for the leaves, will give charming spots of color on the lace, producing a particularly quaint and unusual effect.

It is used to decorate dresser scarfs, lingerie pillows and ornamental towels. The idea is a practical one, as the finished work can be laundered, although it should be carefully done, which, however, is a requirement of all needlework.

To secure the thread in machine sewing, the thread is liable to rip if not tied; instead turn the goods around and stitch backward for half an inch.

For mending table linen save the long threads which have been drawn from the fabric, hemstitching; wind on spool; put aside until the tablecloth needs darning.

Sew two small fasteners on the waist, one flat part on each side, and the round part on the bow, then when put on snap them together. You will find them much better than pins and the waist can easily be washed with them on.

Not, which has been so popular as a trimming and in needlework, is now being introduced as a new method for developing initials. Large initials look especially good embroidered in this way and the old English style lends itself particularly well to the work.

The letter is marked on the linen and a piece of net is based on the back, lined for smoothness and completely covering the letter. A running stitch, following the outline of the letter, is then taken. This stitch serves as a padding for the French stemming, the stitches of which should be taken through both the linen and the net underneath. After the work is completed, cut the linen close to the French stemming, leaving the net to take its place. Great care must be exercised so as not to cut the net when snipping the linen.

Another way of working the initials when using the net is to run a couple of rows of padding around the outline of the letter and then buttonhole with a narrow close stitch. It would be best to experiment on a bit of old linen until the method of making is clearly understood.

In making a graduated lace flounce for a petticoat or other underwear, cut the first strip of lace to fit the garment. Then, in stitching, hold the first piece a little taut, and the second a little looser, and so on until the required depth is finished. Thus, the flounce will fit smoothly to the garment with just a little ripple at the bottom.

When putting a hem in a garment, if a piece of cardboard is cut the required width, it may be slipped along and the task quickly and easily accomplished, as it saves the constant handling of the tape measure and there is no chance of the hem being uneven, as the car board is rigid.

Now that the long sleeves are in style it is often necessary to protect them in some way. A very pretty pair of oversleeves can be made from a large fancy bordered handkerchief. Divide the handkerchief by cutting it diagonally across from corner to corner. Make a band along the edge large enough to slip over the hand, and gather the bias edge into it. Make a seam four inches long connecting the inner edges. Adjust over the sleeve and fasten with a fancy pin.

Whenever a new dress or article is made from any pattern, it is a good plan to tie up the pattern, after you are through using it, with a strip left from the material. In this way, much confusion may be avoided, because the material with which it is tied will at once indicate for what the pattern was last used.

In cleaning and pressing ribbons and silk to use again, one usually finds that the use of a hot iron destroys their crispness. The following simple process will freshen and brighten the materials besides preserving this very necessary crispness. Invert a large tin plate over a burner of the gas stove, and turn the flame very low.

Dip a piece of old muslin in water and wring; shake well, fold into four or six thicknesses and press firmly and smoothly over the plate. Then gradually draw the ribbon across the slowly steaming pan, brushing vigorously all the while with a soft brush. This cleans the material, and smooths out the wrinkles unexpectedly well. When the pad becomes too dry, dampen again.

Broderick's, Lincoln, Tues. night.

A HOME RECIPE That Stops Dandruff

If you are troubled with excessive dandruff either dry or oily it is possible that the following recipe, which can be easily prepared at home from simple materials will be of great benefit. As by its use thousands of people have driven dandruff from their scalps forever.

Mix together in an 8 oz. bottle, 6 oz. of a good quality of Bay Rum, 2 oz. of Lavender Compound and 14.45 o'clock by the ordination rites.

Following the latter ceremony, Bishop Lawrence delivered the sermon of the morning. The usual evening service took place at 7 o'clock with the parishioners renewing their baptismal vows.

How to Dry Clean SUITS and DRESSES

You know how spots and stains will get on your clothes no matter how careful you are—how fast will work into them and make them look shabby. It means a job for the dry cleaner before you can wear them again—losing time—costing money.

Dry clean them yourself with Patnam Dry-Cleaner. It's quicker—easy—just as effective—much more economical. It will clean and restore without altering the shape, changing the color, wrinkling or shrinking the fabric. Makes the dress or suit look like new again at a really trifling cost. Patnam Dry-Cleaner is an invaluable household article. It will clean lace, silk, gloves, curtains, neckties, furs, and a hundred other articles. Makes you independent of the professional dry cleaner and saves you expense of his charges. Don't accept imitations. Insist on getting Patnam Dry-Cleaner. Your Druggist carries Patnam Dry-Cleaner—25c. per bottle. If he can't supply you, write us—we will send bottle postpaid, for 25c. MONROE DRUG CO., QUINCY, ILL. Makers of Patnam Faultless Dyes. 2A

FATHER ORDAINS SON

BISHOP LAWRENCE OFFICIATES AT SON'S ORDINATION—LOWELL MINISTER RECEIVES CHURCH RITES

LAWRENCE, April 27.—In the presence of a large congregation and several members of the Episcopal clergy, the Right Reverend William Lawrence, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts conducted a most unusual service Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock when he ordained his son, Rev. William Appleton Lawrence, curate of the Grace Episcopal church on Jackson street, into the full rites of the ministry of the Episcopal church.

At the same time he ordained his son, Bishop Lawrence also gave the rites of the church to Rev. John W. Suter, curate of St. Anne's Episcopal church, Lowell, a member of the same class at the Cambridge Theological seminary as the younger Mr. Lawrence. Since their ordination last June both young men have been serving as curates and have fulfilled their duties so well that the usual period of two years was cut down almost three months.

Bishop Lawrence was assisted in the solemn rites of ordination by Rev. Samuel Babcock, suffragan bishop of the diocese; Rev. Carlton P. Mills of Boston, in charge of the Sunday school of the diocese; Rev. Appleton Granville of Lowell, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church and Rev. Arthur Wheelock Moulton, rector of Grace Episcopal church, this city.

During his stay in this city, Bishop Lawrence confirmed a large class at Grace church. The confirmation services took place at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. He delivered a short address to the class largely upon their duties as members of the church.

The services of the day opened at 5 o'clock with the administration of Holy Communion to the parishioners. At 9:30 o'clock the confirmation service took place and was followed at 10:15 o'clock by the ordination rites. Following the latter ceremony, Bishop Lawrence delivered the sermon of the morning. The usual evening service took place at 7 o'clock with the parishioners renewing their baptismal vows.

Why Become Prematurely Old Because of Neglected TEETH?

NAP-A-MINIT Enables Me to Put Them in Perfect Condition Without Pain or Discomfort at for Less Expense Now Than Later On

A great many people look ten years more than their age, just because of missing, decayed and broken teeth.

Bad or missing front teeth make them sensitive, they lose their inclination to smile—for no smile can be attractive unless the teeth are sound and white.

Look about you and you will see young people prematurely aged with shrunken, wrinkled cheeks; the result of missing back teeth. Perhaps you yourself are one of these prematurely old young people. Think this over, seriously and you will realize that your social and business success depends largely upon your appearance and nothing in the world can so greatly improve your appearance as a fine set of white, sound, healthy teeth, the ones nature gave you if possible or failing in that, one or more of our porcelain teeth—the one substitute that so closely imitates nature as to absolutely defy detection.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Miss May Harrington of the A. G. Plow store spent Sunday in Nashua, N. H.

The Carpenters' union, local 48 will meet tonight in the union quarters in the Rueland building.

The Violet Girls will hold forth in their annual dancing party tonight and the affair promises to be highly enjoyable.

Anthony Doyle of the American Hide & Leather Co., spent Sunday house cleaning at his camp on the banks of the Merrimack.

Thomas Hartley of the Waterhead mills was present at the formal opening of the Silver lake camp which was of an elaborate nature last Sunday.

James Burns of the American Hide & Leather Co., makes quite a showing at the wheel of his Buick roadster. Ted also enjoys a ride, once in a while.

Peter Corcoran, of the Bon Marche store, says he will be in fine condition tomorrow night for the dancing party to be conducted by the clerks of the store. Raoul Souler is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

George Nichols, of the American Hide & Leather company, will captain the baseball team being organized by the employees of the plant. George will also do stunts for the aggregation which he says is out to heat them all.

Bill Lane, the athletic plumber, employed by Mullany & Co., has purchased a four cylinder Buick. He is now learning to drive the pesky critter. Bill will soon be seen burning up the roads between this city and his camp at Willow Dale with the members of the club hanging on to the rear mudguard.

Loomfixers' Union

The Loomfixers' union held a very important meeting last night in Carpenters hall with a large attendance.

President Peter Couti, who has gone into the bakery business, tendered his resignation which was accepted, and a rising vote of thanks was given him for faithful service. Mr. Couti has been in the labor movement for several years and was regarded as a most conscientious worker. His absence will be deeply felt by the organization. President John Hoban of the Textile Alliance, who is also secretary of the New Bedford local of loomfixers, gave a lengthy but highly entertaining talk on the strike in the Whitman mills in New Bedford, and Organizer Thomas E. McMahon also addressed the members. Considerable minor business was transacted.

Boot & Shoe Workers' Union

The Boot & Shoe Workers' union held a largely attended and interesting meeting in the union quarters in Rueland building last night and considerable business of importance was transacted. Organizer Daniel E. Whelan presided and called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock.

Four new members were initiated and seven applications for membership were referred to the investigating committee. The matter relative to sending a local delegate to the convention of the Boot & Shoe Workers' union in Buffalo, N. Y., was discussed and favorable action taken. In all probability the delegate will be elected at the next regular meeting of the body.

After the business session addresses were made by Organizer Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers and several of the members spoke on the good of the union.

BIG CONCERT

Sale of Subscribers' Seats Opens at Keith's Tomorrow

The subscription list for the John McCormack concert will be closed tomorrow and the public sale of seats will be put on at the box office of Keith's theatre on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. From Saturday until Thursday, the date of the concert, Keith's box office will be open from 10-1 and from 4-7 every day.

The subscriptions have proven to be much larger than expected and for this reason the public sale will commence earlier than was at first intended in order to give everyone an opportunity to procure seats.

An effort is being made to secure a ballad concert for this city. Although Mr. McCormack is very effective in his classical Italian numbers it is thought that the audience which will greet him in Lowell would prefer to hear him in his specialties which first brought out the wonderful lyric qualities of his voice. Such has been the case in the majority of the cities where he has entertained.

Postcards were sent out yesterday to the subscribers who first signed their signatures to the blanks. These cards when taken to the box office of Keith's theatre tomorrow will secure the number of tickets stamped upon the card. The location of these seats can be chosen by the subscriber. On Thursday and Friday the later subscribers will have an opportunity of picking out their seats. Post cards must be brought to the window of the box office.

RUNAWAY GIRL HOME

BOSTON, April 27.—Anna E. Smith, 15 years old, daughter of Frank H. Smith, 213 Adams avenue, West Newton, who ran away from home on Friday last, after drawing $125 from her father's money from the West Newton Savings bank, and who was apprehended in New York Sunday morning, was brought back to Newton yesterday afternoon by Inspector Edward F. O'Halloran.

On her arrival at the Newton police station the girl was given to the charge of the police matron, Mrs. Ella Blason, and was detained as a runaway child. She spent the night at the station. Whether the father will prefer to charge and detain the girl he was unable to say last night.

The only explanation the girl would give of her action in leaving home was that she wanted to see the sights and "have a good time."

MATRIMONIAL

Orren W. Taylor and Miss Mary J. Blakely were married last, yesterday afternoon, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. M. Craig, pastor of the First Presbyterian church at his home, 3 Belmont street. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Sophie Blakely, while the best man was Arthur Barris. After an extended wedding tour the couple will make their home at 1372 Gorham street.

BETTENCOURT-SEBASTO

Manuel S. Bettencourt and Miss Amelia Sebastos were married at the home of the bride, 235 Middlesex street. The couple after an extended wedding tour will reside at 235 Middlesex street.

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medical treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the parts affected more or less inflamed, and the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented. The only way to do this is by the use of a powerful antacid, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the formation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little antacid, which can be obtained from Liggett's drug store, and should always be kept handy.

K. OF C. MINSTREL SHOW

MEMBERS OF LOWELL COUNCIL GAVE CONCERT AT TRAINING SCHOOL

About 40 members of the Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, who are to take part in the minstrel show which will be given in this city Wednesday evening, were the guests of Supt. Corlew of the Middlesex County training school at North Chelmsford last evening. Under the general direction of William F. Thornton they gave a splendid minstrel entertainment to the boys of the training school, and they certainly had a most enthusiastic audience. The entertainment which was entirely voluntarily, lasted from 5.15 to 10, and in its unfolding some of the most noted singers of the city were applauded to the echo by the boys who were insistent on encore after encore. At the close of the performance, the Knights were treated to a hearty lunch by Supt. Corlew of the administration building.

Besides the typical minstrel features solos were sung by James E. Donnelly, Andrew A. McCarthy, Joseph Egan, Charles E. McCarthy, Jr., John P. Hoane, Jr., James P. McNulty, and others; the end songs were by George C. Sullivan, Edward F. Slattery, Jr., Walter P. Holden, Frank L. Ginty and

WILLIAM F. THORNTON

Frank P. McCarthy. Andrew J. Molloy was intercomer. The accompaniments were played by John P. Broderick who had general charge of the music.

The members of the minstrel troupe had no end of fun out of the enthusiastic audience, and they declared that it was a pleasure to sing before such lively lads. The steps of the end men, Ginty and Sullivan, stirred up the boys in fine style, and they were very responsive to the songs of James E. Donnelly, especially the Lauder number: "It's Nice to Get Up in the Morning, But It's Better to Lie in Bed." That struck home, and then some.

The minstrel show which will be presented in Associate hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, is the result of long, difficult preparation, in which no detail was omitted that would add to the entertaining quality of the performance. Consequently, Lowell people may well expect something of a real high class affair tomorrow night. The end parts are all well taken by clever artists of the council, all of whom are well known to Lowell. The performance will begin at 8 o'clock and will be followed by general dancing from 9 o'clock until 11. An evening of genuine pleasure is assured all who attend.

ALLEGES FALSE ARREST

MAN ARRESTED FOR BREAKING AND ENTERING SUES CONSTABLE WHO ARRESTED HIM

The case of Fred W. Blaisdell vs. Frank H. Farmer, both of Tewksbury, came up before Judge Stevens in superior court this morning. The case was one of tort in which the plaintiff claims that he was falsely arrested by the defendant for breaking and entering a camp in Tewksbury, near Silver lake which is owned by a Martin Troisass of Somerville. The plaintiff says in his declaration that Mr. Farmer, who is a constable in the town of Tewksbury, maliciously devised without reasonable cause to make a complaint against him for entering and marring the building owned by Martin Troisass. A warrant followed the complaint, he says, and he was arrested and locked up in the Lowell police station, where he remained one day awaiting bail. A few days later his case came to trial in the lower court and he was acquitted. He claims that the arrest and prosecution were false and malicious, and that as a result of it he has been compelled to undergo a great deal of labor, trouble and expense and that he has suffered greatly in his credit, business and reputation. He asks $5,000 damages.

The defendant's answer is a general denial. Albert F. Flint represents the plaintiff while Howard Qua & Rogers are looking after the defendant's interests. According to the testimony given by the plaintiff, who was the first to testify, he was a fire warden in Tewksbury and had a certain area of land to look after. On the day of his arrest he said, he was coming through the woods near the camp mentioned, when he noticed boys in the camp smoking cigarettes. He went into the camp, he said, for the purpose of putting them out as he was afraid they would set fire to the place. A short time after he was arrested by Constable Farmer while he was in his barn, on a charge of breaking and entering. The rest of his testimony had mostly to do with what the boys were doing inside the camp and what the condition of the camp was when he first entered it. It was a drawn out affair and maps were frequently consulted by lawyers for both the plaintiff and defendant.

Martin Troisass, the owner of the camp, was the second witness to testify and he was on the stand but a few minutes when the noon recess was announced. He testified that he did not favor prosecuting the case at the time Blaisdell was arrested because he said he did not know who broke into the camp. He also described the condition of the camp when he came from Somerville to Tewksbury in response to a telephone call by Constable Farmer, who informed him that somebody had broken into it.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

A well attended meeting of Div. A. O. H. was held last evening with Daniel F. Rellly in the chair. Two new members were admitted to the organization and propositions for membership were received and acted upon. The banquet committee reported favorably on the 25th anniversary banquet held last Thursday evening. The committee will meet Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

TWO BEAUTIFUL HOUSES

EACH OF TWO APARTMENTS IN FINE LOCATION COMPLETED FOR DR. LAURIN

An excellent opportunity for apartment seekers who desire modern, convenient and finely appointed quarters, and particularly, a beautiful location, is offered in the residence, formerly of Charles Glidden, situated at 1131 Middlesex street, at the corner of Wilder street. Dr. Theophile Laurin of 546 Middlesex street purchased the property some time ago and has remodeled the magnificent dwelling into an up-to-date two-apartment house.

The location of the property, which is well known as the Glidden residence, is most desirable. It is situated about 15 minutes' walk from the Boston and Maine depot, and on the car line. The surroundings are attractive in every respect, the neighboring residences being for the most part large roomy houses, beautifully constructed and with abundant lawn and garden room. There is a spacious yard connected with the property recently purchased by Dr. Laurin, and a driveway. The two apartments are reached by separate entrances.

The interior of the dwelling is most artistically arranged. Several massive pieces of furniture, including large beveled glass mirrors, a large, hand-carved and polished dining-room cabinet, and other rich furniture remain in the property and will be for the use of tenants. The ceilings and walls retain the original artistic decorations and these are most pleasing to the eye. The lower tenement consists of five large rooms, with pantry and bath and laundry. Each of the rooms has a spacious bay window of an especially attractive type and the windows themselves are of plate glass. Plate glass is also inserted in the cut-out panels of the great doors. The woodwork of the parlor and living rooms is of cherry with a wonderful finish. The upstairs apartment has eight rooms and pantry and bath, including two pretty rooms on the third floor. The furnishings and equipment of the upper tenement are no less attractive and tasteful than those on the first floor. The floors throughout are of hard wood and highly polished. The house is practically ready for occupancy.

Another two-apartment dwelling has just been completed for Dr. Laurin facing on Wilder street and situated next to the Glidden estate. This, too, is a modern, beautifully appointed house, the lower apartment having six rooms, pantry, bath and laundry, and the upper seven rooms with pantry, bathroom, and laundry accommodations. The parlors, living rooms and chambers are very tastefully decorated with a beautiful color arrangement, large windows admit abundant light. The location of this apartment house is like the other, most desirable. The work on the interior is highly commendable, the floors and woodwork being beautifully polished. In each dining-room is a large combination gas and electric stove.

In both houses there is electric equipment throughout. There is a switch in practically every room, which is most convenient. The doors and woodwork are of the massive, solid, dignified type that delight the discriminating home-seeker, and the rich, hand-painted ceilings and borders and the great, hand-carved wall cabinets, mirrors, etc., add greatly to the attractiveness. There is in the Glidden house a large white marble fireplace.

Dr. Laurin has already shown a number of delighted people through these houses and welcomes visitors. An inspection of the properties will prove a genuine treat.

ALLEGED GERMAN SPIES

LONDON, April 27.—The hearing of the case against Kueperle, Hahn and Muller, three alleged German spies charged with sending military information to Germany, has been postponed. True bills were returned by the grand jury in the Old Bailey police court last week and the case was to have come up today. No date of the hearing has been set.

CALAMITY HOWLERS SILENT

One of the most singular and significant changes that has come over the American public for the past few months is the letting up in the criticism of the democratic administration on economic grounds. It was inevitable that such an energetic, active and altogether able regime should have attracted severe partisan criticism, but in the early days of the war criticism overreached itself, and now the press and public of all parties are united in predicting prosperity and attributing the damaging effects on American business to the great war, where it rightfully belongs.

The reason for this change is not far to seek. Those who so bitterly attacked President Wilson and his supporters do not now love him, but they are more anxious about their own selfish interests than they are about the nation's political future. Though business and financial leaders have been known before now to do everything possible to cause a panic in order to discredit an administration, no party will deliberately invite conditions that make for permanent injury to their cause. It has dawned on political and business leaders alike that if they create distrust and misgiving in the minds of the American people, the business and political interests of the republicans will suffer possibly as much as those of the democrats. Consequently we now hear little or nothing in condemnation of the tariff bill, and the acts that are being exploited in opposition to the administration avoid anything having to do with our national business affairs.

We still hear occasionally, however, from the rabid party critics who view every national contingency with a prejudiced mind and who see nothing but evil in the policies of a democratic administration. One such critic declared a few days ago that "it is now a race between prosperity and 1916," and there is little reason to doubt that he and his kind would be glad to see prosperity delayed long enough to lessen the chances of democratic victory. He will find himself in a minority in his wish that prosperity may not come too soon, for the great masses in the country not only hope but expect that the full tide of prosperity will be upon us before the close of the present year.

There are many indications that we are already embarked on the sea of national prosperity. Manufacturers, finance, commerce are all showing sound returns. We have an enormous trade balance in our favor and it is constantly mounting. The orders of the belligerents for food, clothing, ammunition and other supplies are still pouring in in large quantities, our textile industry is running most satisfactorily, the pressure of unemployment has been relieved and reports from all sections indicate very much improved conditions. The steel-making industry is operating at about 75% of capacity and there is a decided increase in the production of pig iron. Building operations reflect confidence, and all business indications point to speedy improvement. Were it not for lack of shipping, the closing of some foreign markets because of the war and the shortage of dyestuffs, it is probable that our trade would be far ahead of an ordinary normal year.

The First National bank of Boston makes the following statement in its New England letter for April: "The improvement in business sentiment in New England during the past month has been very noticeable. The continued slight improvement in general trade, coupled with easy money conditions, has given great encouragement to the average business man. A decrease in unemployment, a slightly larger output of goods, and an upward trend in prices, seem to point the way toward more normal and profitable business." This conservative statement voices a feeling that even the most partisan papers are now expressing. Everywhere, the attempt to make political capital out of the nation's difficulties seems to have fallen into disfavor.

If the issue in 1916 is to be successfully fought on some act of the administration, whether of commission or omission, something besides the economic conditions of the country will have to be agitated. The trade arguments are all on the side of the democrats for the war has demonstrated that the dream of the high protectionist is impracticable. With practically no imports and no competition we have seen that depression and not prosperity was the order of the day. Yet in the possible developments of the war, it is futile to forecast the events of 1916.

CITY PENSIONS

Though the Massachusetts public has been outspoken in condemnation of indiscriminate pensioning for the past few years, we still see occasional requests for pensions in all our municipalities that are wholly undeserved. The belief has apparently grown among certain classes of public employees that after a number of years passed in comparatively enjoyable tasks at a fair salary and with more advantages than are enjoyed by the average worker, they are to be supported by the community for the remainder of their days.

Commenting on the situation in Boston last Monday, the Boston Herald has something to say which is of interest to all cities and towns of the state. An excerpt will show the soundness and justice of our contemporary's views:

Not only Boston but the other cities of the Commonwealth are today facing a situation which admits of only two alternatives. Either the existing pension regulations must be consolidated into an equitable system and placed upon a contributory basis, or municipalities must prepare for a heavy additional strain on their tax rates within a very few years. To abolish pensioning altogether would be neither practical nor prudent. To continue the present slipshod arrangements, with all their unfairness and anomalies, is out of the question. Neither the city authorities nor the legislature can permanently tolerate discrimination in favor of some employees against others. All this is clearly shown in the report of the state commission on civil pensions, which strongly urged the adoption of the contributory principle. But as yet nothing has come of this recommendation. The problem is one which demands serious attention.

There is nothing exaggerated in this statement, and it is well that all Massachusetts communities should face the two alternatives that the Herald announces. Either the evils of the pensioning system must be eliminated or the public must get ready to pay for the pensions which they tacitly approve in an abnormal tax rate. The increase in pensions is one of the most direct causes of an increase in government, and the pensioning must be used unparaphrased if our people are not to be grievously taxed for the supporting of public employees in undeserved ease.

Pensions cannot altogether be abandoned and they should not be, but no public employee should be granted a pension who has not been incapacitated in the performance of his duty, or who has not contributed towards such a pension. Families of deceased public servants are also entitled to pensions in some cases, but many of the pensions granted are nothing less than outrageous looting of the public treasury.

HELP-SUFFERING POLAND

The Lowell public will be given an opportunity on May 1 to come to the aid of distressed Poland, and it is to be hoped that the response will be prompt and generous. Of all the lands that have felt the ruinous hand of war, none have been smitten so heavily with the possible exception of Belgium, and some reports indicate that conditions in part of Poland are worse than in Belgium. The waves of war have ebbed and flowed backwards and forwards over great spaces of Poland, destroying vegetation, ruining industry, blotting out towns, sucking cities and scattering families like chaff before the wind. German, Austrian and Russian alike have left the mark of war's horrors on a land that has fought valiantly and long for liberty, and in the present turmoil its aspirations are unheard and the suffering of its people is the first consideration. Added to the horror is the fact that thousands of Poles, racially akin, fight in opposing armies and men that should have one nation and one flag back at each other for the glorification of other races and nations.

Not in charity but in generosity shall the answer of America be to the appeals of Poland, as voiced by Paderewski and the other noble men of Polish extraction. America cannot easily forget the services of Kosciuszko, Pulaski and their followers who pecked to give aid to Washington, nor can they be indifferent to the fate of a brave people who struggled so long for liberty but whose aspirations were defeated by the power of militarism. Neither can America forget the great painters, writers and other notable men and women of Polish extraction.

Clear Your Skin

Eczema, dermatitis, ringworm, pimples, scabs and crabs are due to impurities which lurk in the skin. To secure relief and cure these skin diseases must be destroyed and eliminated.

The D. D. D. Prescription, a mild compound in liquid form of oil of sweetgum, thymol and other healing elements, will give instant relief in all cases. Unlike salves, it penetrates to the deeply buried germs, kills and washes them out.

who have enriched the world by their ability and genius. The appeals of Poland come very close to the great heart of America and now she appeals for aid in the hour of the worst affliction in her whole history.

The Sun would urge generous consideration for this Polish campaign for the relief of a people left homeless by the worst horrors of the European war.

PUBLIC MARKET.

Though the people of Lowell have already demonstrated their approval of the public market idea, the legislature has now passed a law that would make it possible for any city of 10,000 or more to establish such a market without more ado. Thus the public market comes to us doubly sanctioned, but there is little apparent interest in the project. This being so, it is natural to assume that there would be but little public interest in the market itself and that consequently it would not prove the benefit intended. To reduce the cost of living, the market would have to be popular with producer and consumer alike, and without the patronage of the public, it would be a complete failure. Where public markets have been established, they have had varying degrees of success or failure, depending on the attitude of the respective communities in which they were located, but there is little to indicate great enthusiasm for the public market here. There are possibilities of reduction in the cost of living, in the public market idea, but if the public does not wish to test them, it is useless to make the experiment.

A GROWING MOVEMENT

According to reports received by Joseph H. Baker, secretary of the Clean-up and paint-up campaign committee of Boston, about 350 cities and towns of New England will have such campaigns this spring. Word has also come from other states, indicating that the scope of the activity is widening and many plans are being formulated to make them more effective from year to year. Though in this city not a

NO PAY ON SUNDAY

A Chicago judge, in discharging two citizens arrested for refusing to pay for drinks they had ordered in a saloon on Sunday, said: "You do not have to pay for drinks you get in saloons on Sunday. If the saloons were open, they are open in violation of the law. Here is a solution of the question of Sunday excise observance which might be expected to prove effective if strictly applied. Yet it can hardly be said that it would conduce to an orderly Sunday."

A MAKESHIFT

A little boy of five was invited to a children's party. The next day he was given an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors had contributed either a song, a recitation or music for the pleasure of the rest.

"Oh, poor little Jack," said his mother, "how very unfortunate you could do nothing."

"Yes, I could, mother," replied the young hopeful. "I stood up and said my prayers!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

CONSTIPATION OR COMFORT?

There can be neither comfort nor good health where constipation exists. Most people suffer from this cause at intervals, many are chronic victims. The old-time remedies for this very common complaint are nauseating doses of some powerful purgatives that leave the condition worse than before.

In the new laxative, Pinklets, is presented a dainty, sugar-coated granule, that is free from unpleasant effects, does not upset the stomach nor gripe but simply gives nature the needed assistance. Once used Pinklets and you will never return to salts, oil and harsh purgatives.

Write the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockton, N. Y., for a free sample, or get a full size 25-cent bottle of Pinklets from your own druggist.

great deal of enthusiasm was apparent during the preliminary stages of the movement. It is to be hoped that the efforts of those who are planning for a spring revival of externals will be rewarded. No city can be satisfied with one great cleaning annually and maintain its self respect, but at the same time, every city will be the better for a special co-operative effort at a time when the season gives every impetus to renewed zeal for civic cleanliness.

Two very sad accidents occurred in this city last Saturday, each resulting in the death of a child. In North Chelmsford a little fellow was drowned in a canal while on his way to meet his father, and in South street a child was scalded to death by falling into a pail of boiling water. Such things we must always have, but where children are concerned, there should be ceaseless vigilance.

Now that the English admiralty has declared the landing of an army at the Dardanelles to be successful, we may expect a renewal of the attack on the forts that line the waterway to Constantinople. It is doubtful if the Turkish capital can be taken without serious loss but evidently the allies are prepared for any loss in the attempt at success.

With Governor Walsh and Ex-Governor Foss complimenting Charles Sumner Bird, there is no danger that the next campaign will be devoid of interest. While two distinct branches of Massachusetts republicans have difficulty in agreeing it is pleasant to see two such distinguished gentlemen finding a common ground of mutual admiration.

The new law providing that all employers shall supply pure drinking water to their employees will be accepted by the employers with pleasure if they were sure that the water drinking will replace drinking of another kind. Still the law looks like one of those unnecessary humanitarian measures that aim at Utopia for the millennium.

"My boy, have you never read any book which would tell you what to eat, what to drink and what to avoid?"

"Why, bless you, ma'am," replied the young gentleman, with his mouth full of cake, "I eat and drink what I can, and avoid bustin'!"—London News.

PREVENT SPRING FIRES

The greater number of these fires occurring on Sundays and holidays shows that they have their origin in human agencies. It is, therefore, to be prevented. And they should be prevented largely by the consideration of the people who ride or stroll forth. Property that is destroyed makes a total which runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars each spring and fall. It is one of those wastes of property which the community too lightly tolerates, and which a waste which makes all the community poorer as a whole and every member of it bears some of the burden regardless of whether he happens to be the owner of the property destroyed.—Worcester Gazette.

DEFECTIVE

A farmer in looking his car over one day, thrust a lighted match into the gasoline tank. The ensuing explosion laid him up for several weeks. On the first day that he was able to be about he visited the storekeeper who had sold him the stuff and demanded compensation.

"Why should I pay you anything?" asked the merchant. "It was your own fault. You knew it was gasoline."

"That's all right, but this accident was caused by defective gasoline."

"Yes, sir. I've been sticking matches into gasoline that I've bought here before, and this was the first lot that

HERE'S QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Rheumalsts Routs Constipation
Constipation doesn't linger when Rheumalsts takes action. This medicine cleans out the bowels and restores the normal action of the bowels. It is the safest, most pleasant and quickest laxative known. Undigested, fermenting, putrefying foods which cause constipation, headache, dizziness and biliousness, are quickly removed.

Rheumalsts dissolved in water makes a delicious carbonated drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons, and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then take Rheumalsts instead of drug-forming, heart-dragging, cathartic pills and laxative tablets.

Rheumalsts acts quickly and gently on the bowels, liver and kidneys, without griping or nausea. It can be used for infants as well as adults. It is a urtic acid solvent as well as a saline laxative.

Ask your druggist for about five ounces of Rheumalsts. Take two teaspoonfuls in one-half glass of water before breakfast each morning.

Rheumalsts is not expensive and it is prepared by the famous Rheumalst Bath Company, Minneapolis, Minn.

There's enough in a can for four persons—six to eight big fish. They are packed in three sauces; tomato, mustard and soused, to suit your taste.

They are unusual in flavor and unusual in size. Each fish is five to seven inches. They are called Sardines only because Uncle Sam says they belong to the Sardine family.

When you ask for them say "Booth's" Sardines. If you don't your grocer will think you mean the ordinary kind. There is no substitute. Insist on Booth's.

ROOF-CLEANING CRUSADE

Something new to worry about has been suggested by the citizens' street cleaning bureau in Chicago. Dirt and rubbish removed from the streets of downtown buildings filled, it is said, 14 wagons, as much as would be swept up in a day from four and a quarter miles of downtown streets. It is proposed to have the street cleaning department sweep the roofs also. Most of the buildings, it is believed, have not had their roofs cleaned since they were put on, and much of the dirt that fills the air and litters the streets is thought to be blown off these roofs. The promoters of the roof-cleaning idea have undertaken the campaign with all the enthusiasm of discoverers. They say to sweep the streets and leave the roofs dirty is like the householder who sweeps the dust under the sofa.

EASY AS FLYING

There are some people who like to figure everything out on a percentage basis. For instance as a basis for home appropriations, a savings bank recently published the following table of expenses of running a well conducted home: Housekeeping, 13 per cent; housekeeping, 12 per cent; educational, 10 per cent; luxuries, four per cent; savings, 10 per cent. The percentages are based on the income. For example, if a man had an income of $1000 a year, he might spend for food 30 per cent of it, or $300. For a house he might spend 25 per cent of it, or $250; for clothing he might spend 13 per cent of it, or $130; for housekeeping, he might spend 12 per cent, or $120; for education he might spend six per cent, or $60; for luxuries, four per cent, or $40, and for savings, 10 per cent, or $100. These expenditures would vary much according to the circumstances of a family. If it had a little farm in its back yard, or chicken coop, it might secure its food for less than $300. The rent might be had at a lower rate than $250 a year. The ideal $15 a month domestic would cost but $15 a year. Costs of clothing vary much, so do costs of education. The allowance of $40 a year for luxuries may be large or small, according to what people consider luxuries. For instance, a man may call a clear a luxury, and a woman may think it a luxury. Or some people call a summer vacation a necessity, while others upon it as a luxury. A saving of 10 per cent of an income is probably a much better saving than is made by the average person. It will be noticed that this estimate of the cost of living makes no provision for the payment of doctors' bills. It may be that these bills, and other necessary charges, not otherwise provided for, come out of the savings.

HONOR
(An interpretation of the times)
A pack of dogs were sunning and napping.
Well-fed, satisfied, glad dogs; Suddenly up sprang snarling and snapping.
Bitter, vitiated, mad dogs.
Some one had dung them a musty bone.
And the chorus had cried, "It is mine."
Quarrelling and snarling, they leaped to fight.
Howling and growling, their teeth baring, they fought for the bone.
Till each had lost of his quivering flesh.
More mad than the bone had held when they fought, for he it known, it is dogish honor to fight for a bone.
A goose flew into a neighbor's yard

And left an egg as a calling card.
The egg is mine, for my goose made it.
"This mine, for on my land she laid it."
A look, a word, a threat, a wrangle, a suit at law, a legal tangle, and still the antagonists litigated. While the lawyers smiled and the judges prated.
Though it is the dirtiest lore, or juiciest, could not decide which goose was gooseiest.
Yet still they fought, for he it known, 'Tis a point of honor to "guard one's own."

The Powers of the Earth discussing whether They might not eternally dwell together With peace, good humor and good digestion, Were suddenly stirred by a grievous question.
"Dear cousin of ours, we are more than brothers. Have you noticed our navy? There are no others."
"Good friend, our affection is deep and holy."
Do you think these guns are for ornaments solely?
O, dogs will be dogs when it comes to a bone.
And meadow be geese, as a goose has said.
And it's national "honor" to go to war. Over something that isn't worth fighting for!
—Edmund Vance Cooke.

GRADUATION DAY DRESS

The proper garb for the sweet girl graduates on graduation day is being discussed with annual earnestness. One class is anxious, has decided to leave the matter to the choice of the young ladies and their parents, which is wise. The main purpose in prescribing this particular, can merely be a saving. If the instruction throughout the school course has not taught democracy, then a rule of dress for graduation day will amount to much.—Fall River Herald.

COPPER IN WAR

One explanation of the tremendous foreign demand for copper is found in Charles Lloyd George's declaration that as much ammunition was used in March in the battle of Neuve Chapelle as in the whole of the Boer war. Each battle lasted two years and the matter of course the fighting was different; but the statement shows how modern warfare has advanced since a comparatively recent period. Copper is needed for ammunition, and the fighters can't begin to get all they want of it. That is why England is buying practically all our copper and making not only 24-cent but 35-cent metal a probability.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

MR. FOSS FORGOT

In urging Mr. Bird to seek a republican nomination, on a prohibitory platform, Mr. Foss seems to forget that it was Mr. Bird who led the fight in the last progressive convention against the acceptance of the prohibition idea advocated by Joseph Walker and Henry Clay Peters.—Boston Herald.

GOOD EXAMPLE

If you are not living with the idea that your example can help this to become a better world, you are not living up to your full possibilities. The saint was to help the world to become better is to be better yourself as a starter. Then scatter a few choice grains of kindness and good cheer and helpfulness among those with whom you come into contact and you will begin to learn what life really is.—Burlington Free Press.

THAW CASE

Justice Hendricks decides that Harry K. Thaw may have a jury trial on the Thaw case. Now Attorney General Woodbury proposes to invoke the appellate courts to prove his belief that Justice Hendricks had no right to so decide. Laws within laws, and then laws within those laws? No wonder the average citizen is thoroughly disgusted with our system of criminal procedure and is ready to join with the lawyers who have a wealthy client in their clutches.—Portland Express.

ALL ATTACKS REPULSED

SIR JOHN FRENCH REPORTS GERMAN DRIVEN BACK AT MANY POINTS

LONDON, April 27.—The following report was received from Field Marshal Sir John French today: Yesterday all German attacks north-east of Ypres were repulsed. In the afternoon our troops took the offensive and made progress near St. Julien and to the west of that place. The French co-operated on our left and further to the north they retook Hout. In the course of yesterday's fighting our artillery took full advantage of several opportunities for inflicting severe casualties on the enemy. On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report. In addition to the destruction of Courtrai, German positions in the communication last night, our aircraft bombed successfully stations and junctions at the following places: Tourcoing, Roubaix, Ingelmunster, Staden, Langemark, Thielt and Roulers.

MOISTURE SITUATION SERIOUS

Official published figures, says the Hampton county improvement league, show that there is only about 50 per cent. of the normal amount of water in the soil so far this season, and present indications are that the moisture situation for the coming season will be extremely serious. Thus it behooves everyone to make every effort that is possible to conserve the moisture that is in the soil already. There are hundreds of acres of land in this country that were plowed last fall which have not been touched with the harrow yet. This means that there are tons and tons of water being lost by evaporation. The only way to conserve this moisture is by forming a surface mulch by harrowing and cultivating. This should be done immediately. All of our corn and potato land, which has not been treated with the plow and harrow, is in danger of being lost as to prevent further evaporation. When we realize that each ton of dry matter produced from the corn crop requires 300 tons of water, there will be needed a tremendous amount of moisture to produce our large crops.

POSTAL CARD FROM FRANCE BEARS FRENCH AND BRITISH COLORS

Roderick E. Jodoin, the well known Merrimack street optician, is in receipt of a very interesting postal card from a member of the French army in Europe. Bro. Gonzalvus, a former teacher at St. Joseph's college, this city, who left Lowell last fall to join his regiment in the great European conflict. Bro. Gonzalvus in military circles is known by his family name, J. B. Beaudier and he is a member of the 27th company of the 9th regiment, now located at Chambrey, Savoie, on the Italian frontier. The postal card is a new innovation in France. On the left corner of the card is a handsome emblem consisting of the French and British colors. Underneath the flags are pictures of General Joffre of the French army and General French of the British forces. Above the flags is the inscription "Je Porte Bonheur" (I bring you joy), and below the inscription, "Honneur aux Allies" (Glory to the Allies). The card is the official postal card for the British and French soldiers stationed on the French territory. The card is dated April 4, and the writer wishes to be remembered to all his acquaintances in Lowell, especially to his former pupils at St. Joseph's college. The brother states since his arrival in France he has been stationed in the southern part of the country, where he received military instructions. In the latter part of March he was transferred to Cham-

The dead are: Richard Fryer, 54, his 17 year old son Amos Fryer, his daughter, Mrs. Earl Bearden and her husband. Bell's wife had divorced him and gone to live with her father. While Mr. and Mrs. Bearden were at the supper table, Mrs. Fryer said, Bell came to the window and killed Bearden with a shotgun. Mrs. Bearden fled from the house and was shot down. Her father and brother went to her assistance and both were killed.

J. C. AYER PLANT CLOSED

OUT OF RESPECT TO JOHN J. BRINE WHOSE FUNERAL TOOK PLACE THIS MORNING

The funeral of the late John J. Brine, superintendent of printing at the J. C. Ayer company, took place this morning from the home of the deceased in Hoyt avenue with impressive funeral services at the Immaculate Conception church, a large congregation attending the church services. The plant of the J. C. Ayer company shut down in all departments this morning out of respect to the deceased, and the entire force, headed by Dr. Charles H. Stowell, manager, attended the services in a body. The deceased was one of the most valued employees of the Ayer company, for through his exceptional ability and conscientious efforts he had materially to its success during his incumbency of 18 years. The mourners included many out of town friends, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brine, Winchester, Mass.; Mrs. Wymann, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Lovell, Arlington, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gray, Boston; Hon. and Mrs. John M. Maloney, Ayer, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. New York, N. Y.; Miss Susie McNamara, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. George Keating, Ayer, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McNamara, Beaumont; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch, Woburn; Miss Alice Brine, Watertown; Mr. Timothy Johnson, Somerville; Mrs. Ruth Perham, Somerville, and others. Some of the most impressive of the services were sung by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O. M. I., deacon, and Rev. James J. McMartin, O. M. I., subdeacon. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Walker rendered the Gregorian mass. At the offertory, Mrs. Walker sang the impressive "Domine Jesu Christe," and in the evening at 6.30 o'clock took for his subject "The True Source of Power." Both sermons created a lasting impression upon the congregation, several of whom have expressed themselves as highly pleased with the past assigned to them by the recent conference. Rev. E. P. Herrick, who has been assigned to the Parker Street church, is the son of Rev. A. F. Herrick, who for many years was a well known Methodist preacher. He has a brother, Rev. A. H. Herrick, who has just been appointed to the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church, Bradford. Rev. Mr. Herrick was educated at Wesleyan university and Boston university; School of Theology. Among his pastorate have been Waltham, Ashbury Temple, Springfield, Grace church, Leominster and Lowell, Wether street. He is just leaving Chelsea First church where he has been for five years.

SUN BOWLING TEAM WON

DEFEATED BOSTON-AMERICAN QUINSET BY 100 PINS—NOTED HIGH MAN

The Sun bowling squad wound up its winter campaign in "one of the greatest battles" ever waged on local alleys when it decisively defeated the team from the local Boston-American agency last evening by 100 pins. From the cracking of the first gun until the last rapid fire delivery had been dispatched against the hickories, the news-papers representatives kept up an unremitting fusillade that swept away the pins like leaves before the storm. The battle opened most auspiciously for the Sun boys in the first string when they put 81 more pins out of action than did the Americans. In the second charge against the wooden phantoms they maintained their aggressive action by sweeping down 52 more than their opponents; while in the third attack they cared up and allowed the enemy to come off with a mere 11 pins. For the victors, the Sun boys for the first string were high man with a "320" score, a "114" for the vanquished Captain Katz led with a "293" and a "112." Behind these high scorers, the effectiveness of the Sullivan clergymen on the firing line for the Sun was most pronounced. The official statement:

BOSTON-AMERICAN—Katz, 293; Paddy, 275; Dowling, 251; Higgins, 245; total, 1265.

GOLD DUST

hundreds of tasks daily

"Let the Gold Dust Twins do your work" is much more than a popular phrase. It is based on truth, an actuality, for Gold Dust really works.

The millions of women who use it for dishwashing and scrubbing know this. But Gold Dust should be used for cleaning and brightening everything. It is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

The small quantity required is quickly taken up by hot or cold, hard or soft water—forming a perfect cleaning solution. The valuable antiseptic cleaning agent it contains helps to make things sanitariously clean, as well as bright and new-looking.

LADY LOOKABOUT

Having once or twice passed through the downtown streets in an automobile, I have the keenest sympathy for the pedestrian who collides with a pedestrian. One really must ride through the main streets a few times before he can realize how thoughtless and how careless a person crossing the street can be. I will not mention the person who rushes blindly from the curb into the street without a glance in either direction. His, and often her, name is legion. There is another class of pedestrians who they have exhausted every precaution of safety when they have looked in one direction before leaving the sidewalk. Almost invariably, if they are crossing from the right side, they look to see if anything is coming their way from their right, or the left side of the street. Now the law compels vehicles to shun the left and keep to the right. Acting in obedience to this law, naturally the vehicles shun that side when it is their left. The individual forgets to look the other way, and he seldom knows the menace he is to drivers who are approaching from that direction.

On the other hand, autoists need to exercise every precaution. They must not only look out for themselves but for every pedestrian on the street. Many of them do not do this. Never have I seen such speed in the heart of a city as I have seen in Lowell this spring. Sounding a horn does not give a machine right of way, yet many operators appear to think it does. The wonder is that there are not more accidents. Circumstances seem to combine to invite them.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California, Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour. Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

LETTER NO. 3 FROM THE TURNER CENTRE CREAMERY

A great many people are asking our drivers and salesmen why is milk pasteurized and what is the process. Cows as well as people have their ailments. Oftentimes when apparently well, they are the victims of some disease which makes their milk unsafe. Then, too, the germs of which feed their way in the milk. Pasteurization is a heating process that destroys dangerous germs or bacteria. So many diseases and epidemics have been traced directly to milk that in many places pasteurization is required by law.

Intelligent people everywhere are asking for pasteurized milk because it is safe. We have the newest and best pasteurizers made. You will find our milk to be free from disease germs and "odd" flavors. Give it a trial.

COPS GETTING INTO CONDITION

Police League Representatives Will Try to Land Pennant

League Will Start May 18th, Lowell at Lawrence

MANAGER QUINLAN

The Massachusetts police league will open on May 15 this season and the first contest of the year will find the Lowell team battling with Lawrence in the latter city.

Already the local cops are clamoring hard on the bit. They have been taken out and exercised considerable of late by Manager Billy Quinlan, when they were in uniform they call him William H. or Mister Quinlan, and act like a bunch of two year olds.

Up at the South Common is where the cops have been practicing up to date and the kids will be glad when they pick out some other spot for their diamond exercise. The youngsters from that district haven't had a look-in when they wanted to play "scrub" for who's going to take a chance of getting pinched?

Manager Quinlan has made several innovations this season, one of which is worthy of mention. Realizing that "cornered" feet are not the best sort of underpinning with which to stride, bases Billy has made a contract with Joe Donohue of the Crescent rink whereby each cop will be furnished with a pair of roller skates during the spring practice, anyhow. It hasn't been definitely decided yet whether or not a cop will be forced to have a skate on in order to play the regular season. It will perhaps be a case of "go as far as you like but use your own judgment."

The cops' club looks very good this year. Arthur Drevett, captain of last season's squad has reduced his waist measure to 34 inches and looks to be in the greatest condition of his career. Jack Sullivan, the team's star base line coach, has been taking education lessons and has gotten over his erstwhile shortness of speech. Folks say that Jack won't be tongue-tied this season.

All the old regulars will be out again this year. A unique method is being used by some of those who find it hard to get down to weight. Whenever they make a pinch they just unbutton their hold and then see how long it will take the pincher to pinch the pinched. It's some training, too. One of the most promising candidates for the team is P. B. Clark. At least he seems to be a promising candidate for his comrades sure do go hunting for P. B. they say.

Those who are out for the local police team are as follows: Donovan, Nichols, Drevett, Cruz, Lynch, Sharkey, Guthrie, Kelley, Connors, Conney, Winn, Clark, McCarthy and Sullivan. The league schedule follows:

May 15—Lowell at Lawrence, Lowell at Lawrence, Somerville at Chelsea, Quincy at Newton.

May 25—Lawrence at Cambridge, Newton at Somerville, Chelsea at Quincy, Boston at Lynn.

June 1—Lynn at Lawrence, Lowell at Somerville, Quincy at Boston, Cambridge at Chelsea.

June 8—Somerville at Lynn, Lawrence at Newton, Boston at Cambridge, Chelsea at Lowell.

June 15—Lowell at Lynn, Newton at Quincy, Lowell at Lawrence, Cambridge at Somerville.

June 22—Boston at Lowell, June 22: Lawrence at Chelsea, Somerville at Quincy, Lynn at Newton.

The Warren club will play the baseball aggregation representing the Temple club at Mountain Rock, May 30th. Smith and Finney will be the battery for the Warren club, while Garity and Sinkwin will do the honors for the Willow Dale boys.

Billy Donohue, over in Belvidere, who is manager of the Chestnut Stars, is anxiously awaiting word from the managers of some of the first 11 or 12 year old teams of the city for Saturday afternoon dates. Billy has a telephone number which can easily be found by working up the telephone directory.

The Young Chippewas, champions of the twelve year old championship of the city, stopped the opening greenwoods, Saturday and administered a defeat on this aggregation of ball-tossers. The final score was 10 to 5 and George Brooks the opposing pitcher was chased to the woods early, after the Chippewas touched him up for six hits in the sixth inning.

The South Ends showed up rather poorly in their game with the C. Y. M. L. diamond athletes on the South common last Saturday afternoon, the only feature of the game being a whirlwind finish in the ninth inning in which the South common boys tied the score and won out in the tenth by a batting rally. The weather was a little too frigid for the large crowd which showed up to witness the opener, and as a result very few remained after the third inning. The South Ends will play the Lincoln's next Saturday on the common.

ENDS BIG BASEBALL WAR "SNUBBER" GREENHALGE CATCHER

Report That National Agreement, With Judge Landis' Advice, is Being Reconstructed

PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Substantiation for the rumors that the baseball war would be at an end shortly was obtained from one of the big men in baseball here today. He virtually admitted that the man who brought about the settlement was Judge K. M. Landis, before whom the Federal league's suit to dissolve the national commission and organized baseball as a trust was tried.

Since Jan. 24 the baseball world has anxiously awaited Judge Landis' decision, which, it was thought, would surely be handed down before the opening of the season two weeks ago.

When the Federal league first brought the suit it was hoped by followers of organized baseball that Judge Landis would decide that he had no jurisdiction to try the case under the Sherman anti-trust law. But, as the weeks rolled by with no decision, it became apparent that Judge Landis realized he had a serious problem on his hands and evidently believed that the case was within his jurisdiction.

Several times when taking evidence both sides if they were sure they knew what the end of the suit might lead to. On Jan. 23, in questioning A. J. Gates of the Federal league, Judge Landis said: "Do you realize that a decision in this case may tear down the very foundations of this game, so loved by thousands, and do you realize that the decision might also seriously affect both parties?"

Several similar remarks were made during the trial by Judge Landis, who is an ardent baseball fan. It is believed that Judge Landis realized that it would be better for both sides to reach an agreement and with his advice reorganize and reconstruct the national agreement so that a like situation would never again present itself.

It is understood that the Federal league is to give up its clubs in Chicago and St. Louis, with Phil Ball having a large block of stock in the St. Louis Cardinals, while Charles Weeghman is to be the power in the National league in Chicago with the Taft interests in the background. The latter club will be moved to the new Federal league park on the north side, despite statements from Charley W. Murphy that the Cubs must play in the West Side as long as they are indebted to him.

Three major leagues will still be maintained. Two other cities where but one major league club is located at present will be included in the third league circuit. Several cities are available, but it is likely that Cincinnati and Detroit will be the cities to replace St. Louis and Chicago in the Federal league. In this way every major league city will be represented by two clubs with the exception of Washington, while conflicting dates will also be avoided in Buffalo, Newark and Kansas City.

CHAMP SNUBBED PROS TAKE GAME

Mayor Curley Not Impressed Over Cane Presentation

Mister Jess Willard, who just now is wearing the crown of the world's champion jaw-buster, and the Boston "sports" who staged his $1, $2 and $3 per seat "appearance" at the Arena on Patriots day, were the recipients of a large sized snub from Mayor Curley.

Although he had arranged an extensive program of addresses and visits for the night of the Willard exhibition, the mayor yielded to heartrending entreaties that he show up at the Arena. The schedule called for the presentation of a gold cane to Sluggo Willard by the mayor.

True to his promise, the mayor arrived at the Arena shortly after 9 o'clock. His intention was to hand over the cane to the champion, and then make a getaway. This bent on doing a quick job, the mayor hastened with the several members of his official party to the box which had been reserved for him. Once seated the mayor made a quick survey. Nothing that looked like Willard dotted the horizon. The only sign of activity came from the ring where two men were making strenuous efforts to crunch each other's bones.

For several minutes the mayor waited in patience. Then he yanked out his watch and half arose in his chair. At this juncture "Rennie" Osthus, one of the promoters, dashed to the front and anxiously conferred with him. Curley Osthus made an attempt to smile reassuringly as he explained that Willard was "on his way." But there was no sign of merriment on the part of the mayor. He did not mince words in telling Osthus that he had other events to attend before the night was finished.

And he admonished him that if Willard was to have the honor of official attention from the mayor of Boston, he would have to get a decided hustle on. Five minutes had elapsed without any news from the absent Willard. Then Announcer Osthus from the ring belated a few words to the effect that Willard had separated himself from the clamor of a downtown hotel, and was on his way to the Arena. The mayor waited for no further tidings. Without stopping for any goodbyes he beat it for his waiting limousine, and was soon on his way to a more important social gathering.

When Willard appeared finally, the lack of mayoral presence before a Boston gathering "some" event developed on the only John L. Sullivan. The latter did the best he could. But there was no mayor, and incidentally no gold-headed cane. Inasmuch as the exhibition was a frost from a financial viewpoint there is a suspicion that the walking stick was kept under cover for the purpose of converting it into cash after the show.—Practical Politics.

Local Backstop Should Have Good Season This Year

Greenhalge is Only Veteran Behind the Bat in Lowell Camp

Jimmy Greenhalge, commonly called "Snubber" by his teammates and the fans, is the only veteran that the local club has on its catching list this season. Greenhalge joined the Lowell club in 1913 when a schoolboy.

"Snubber" ought to have the best season of his career this year. He is old enough now to realize the responsibilities that go with a catcher's job. And speaking of responsibility, the stocky little catcher is now a benedict, so that it is reasonable to suppose that Greenhalge will have a double incentive for hard work.

Ever since joining the Lowell club he has been a hard, aggressive worker in every ball game and never stopped trying until the last inning had been retired. The main fault with his work last season was his carelessness due to lack of responsibility. Like many another young ball player Greenhalge did his thinking after making a mistake. But this season should show him to be a far steadier catcher.

Greenhalge is a savage hitter. As a pinch hitter he drove in many a run last season. He has a fine eye and can hit any sort of delivery. Given a good season this year it is all right probable that another season Green-halge will be given a tryout higher up the baseball ladder.

NEW PURCHASES

Local Magnates Go Shopping—Myers and Green Secured

In an effort to make the Lowell club as fast if not faster than any other aggregation in the New England league circuit President Roach and Manager Barrows yesterday completed arrangements whereby Tex Meyers, Devin, and Paddy Green, the star twister of that club, will come to Lowell. These two players are to report here before the opening of the New England league season.

Green, at the conclusion of the 1914 season, was considered the best pitcher in the Eastern association. Myers is a former Tri-State player who was bought by the New London club when Owner Plant, the Eastern association's millionaire, decided that he would win a pennant for his township. Myers lives in Louisville, Ky. and is expected here Thursday.

It will be a pretty race hereafter between Myers and Powers. Myers has the experience but Powers looks faster and even though a green youngster has the earmarks of a real ball player. Powers is also a pitcher as he demonstrated down in Lynn.

With Rock, Green and Myers of the Lowell club signed up by the local management competition will be keen in every department except and outfield, and behind the bat. There isn't a chance for anyone to break into the outfield, having acquired Greenhalge and Miller are the only two catchers that we have.

Layoff for Stimmy
Simpson consulted an M. D. yesterday about the injury to his side. It was so sore that he didn't put on a suit.

After a careful examination the doc assured Stimmy that he still possessed all of his original ribs but that one of them was sprung a little and would be very sore for a few days. He advised that the left fielder keep quiet and take things easy for a while. Simpson is probably all right for the opening game in Worcester Friday.

Dec, Carr and McCleskey
Shorty Dec, Eddie Carr and Jeff McCleskey are coming along in fine style. These last few days have put more life into their work than has been seen at all. A week or two of weather such as today and the club would hit its mid-season stride.

The Lowell infield is very much undecided at present. Nobody knows just who will play where. Jeff McCleskey seems to be certain of his job at second base however.

At short, third and first the guardians of these positions are not certain. Powers may play first, Myers may play first, but may play short or third. Carr may play third. Rock may play short and there you are! The exact lineup of the Lowell club will probably not be decided for several weeks.

PICTURES OF BIG FIGHT

FOUR U. S. SEN. TOWNE TO APPEAR FOR INJUNCTION AGAINST COLLECTOR OF THE PORT

NEW YORK, April 27.—In connection with the announcement of Charles A. Towne, former United States senator from Minnesota that he will on April 29 apply to the United States district court at New York for an injunction restraining the collector of the port from refusing to admit moving picture films of the recent Willard-Johnson championship fight it is stated here that such action will be welcomed by the department of justice. The validity of the law forbidding the importation of prize fight pictures is recognized never has been fully tested. Solicitor General Davis recently assured attorneys for the film companies that the government would resist hearing of such an action as Mr. Towne purposes to institute in behalf of L. Lawrence Weber, owner of the moving picture rights of the fight who desires to bring the pictures into this country for sale but for exhibition by himself. Mr. Towne said it would be admitted that they are films of a prize fight, not of a boxing bout.

PEELER PATRON SOLD
Peter Goyette of Draught, a prominent member of the Lowell football club, has purchased Peeler Patron, the whirlwind of the grand circuit about seven years ago. M. T. Senecal, the owner of the horse for a year or more, made the sale yesterday.

CITY BOWLING LEAGUE

With but one more week left for the City Bowling league for the last games will be rolled tonight. The White Ways are sure of first place and the Crescents have capped off second place, but the fight for third money will be bitterly contested until the end for the Bowaways and Carr's teams are tied and tonight's games will probably settle this position. Jamaica Plain Station of New Haven Road Robbed of $25.58

BOSTON, April 27.—Another daylight robbery, one of the boldest thus far recorded, was added to Boston's rapidly increasing list yesterday afternoon when a ticket office in the Jamaica Plain station of the New Haven was robbed of $25.58.

The robbery, which was evidently the work of someone familiar with conditions at the station, was accomplished during the 20-minute absence of Assistant Ticket Agent Henry C. Sawlor, who was taking mail from the 3.45 outward bound train in the post-office.

The men, believed to be two in number, made their entrance and getaway without being seen, although Telegrapher George Finkelshtein was busy at his wire in the main office on the opposite side of the station, and Station Agent Charles H. Thurston was cleaning lamps alongside the tracks.

It is thought that the thieves came from Boston or some way station, on the train, and knowing Sawlor to be busy with the mail, dropped from the rear and, running across the tracks, forced the door of the office, which was fastened with two locks.

When the 3.45 outward bound local arrived at the Jamaica Plain station yesterday afternoon, Station Agent Thurston being busy with the lamps, young Sawlor looked his office door and crossed to the train to take the mail bag, which he carried to the postoffice but a short distance away.

Here he waited a few minutes for a bag of mail destined for the 4.25 inward bound train, reaching his office at 4.10. He found the door wrenched open and split for about 2 1/2 feet, with one of the locks torn out. The cash drawer was open, and the compartments in which the money was kept, missing.

Sawlor immediately notified Agent Thurston, and an investigation revealed the fact that the thieves had dropped the empty till at the foot of a flight of steps leading to Bartlett square.

BIG RECEPTION

FOR NEW MAYOR

All Chicago Joins in Big Celebration at Inauguration

Parade and Carnival—Thompson Promises to Make Streets Safe

CHICAGO, April 27.—William Hale Thompson, republican, who succeeds Carter Harrison, democrat, five times mayor of Chicago, took his oath of office last night and yesterday afternoon was welcomed by a downtown street parade and carnival that far outshone any previous Chicago inauguration ceremony.

Thompson defeated Robert M. Sweitzer, the democratic mayoralty candidate, by 148,000 votes, the largest plurality ever polled here.

From a stand erected before the city hall, Mayor Thompson yesterday afternoon reviewed the parade in which 7500 automobiles and 75,000 persons participated. Records of transportation companies indicated that more than 350,000 persons swarmed into the Loop district less than one mile square. It required nearly three hours for the parade to pass the reviewing stand.

The inauguration committee had designated it a "prosperity parade" and it was much more of a carnival parade than a political procession.

Although the election by which Thompson had been made mayor had swept almost a complete republican ticket in office, there were hundreds of well-known democrats among the marchers.

Marchers were followed by manufacturers and even by races, there being several hundreds in the Chinese division.

A huge wagon brightly decorated was in the lead among the city exhibits and bore a placard recalling that the new mayor had made announcement that during the four years of his office he was to stay on the wagon.

Mayor Thompson's final speech as a private citizen was to reiterate his campaign pledges as to the prominent exodus of criminals.

"My only instruction to Capt. Charles H. Healey, the new police chief, was that he must make the streets of Chicago safe to citizens and visitors," he said.

The inauguration ceremonies last night were accompanied by fireworks on the lake front and inaugural balls in the downtown hotels. In his address to the city council on taking office Mayor Thompson promised and appointed a special committee to bring action toward reducing prices for gas consumers. In closing, he said:

"The plurality of 148,000 votes by which I was elected cannot be explained by the paramount importance of one or several local issues. The fact is the voters emphatically expressed their dissatisfaction with the economic conditions existing under the present national administration and protested as vehemently as they could against the legislation enacted at Washington which has been followed by hard times."

GERMAN RAIDER

IS INTERNED

Captain of Kronprinz Wilhelm Decides Not to Dash to Sea

Collector Hamilton at Newport News, Va., Informed

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 27.—The German auxiliary cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, which will be interned at the Norfolk navy yard for the remainder of the war, was a pier today filling her coal bunkers. Work of coaling was to be completed late today and the cruiser taken, probably tomorrow, to Norfolk for internment.

The Wilhelm will be interned at the request of her commander, Capt. Thierfelder. Official notice of his intention to intern was given the collector of customs, Hamilton, late yesterday.

Capt. Thierfelder later explained that he had intended to attempt a dash through the lane of British and French warships which have been lying in wait off the Virginia Capes, but that the illness of many of his crew would make that impossible before the expiration of the time limit fixed by the American government for repairs to make his cruiser seaworthy which is said to have been midnight of April 30.

Following her internment at the Norfolk navy yard the Wilhelm's officers and men will be given the freedom of the cities about Hampton Roads as was the case of the crew of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The Wilhelm came into port a little over two weeks ago after a long voyage through southern seas during which she destroyed 14 merchant ships which with their cargoes were valued at $7,000,000.

KEY TO TREASURE HOUSE

HOW BEST AID TO WONDERFUL INFORMATION MAY BE SECURED—GET A DICTIONARY

What vast and mighty treasures of words full of rich meaning lie locked up in our language—hidden away from common use, and enjoyed only by the learned few. It is as if, possessing the immense wealth of Mexico, mined, smelted, and ready for the mint, we turned scornfully aside, revelling in a voluntary poverty.

A dictionary constitutes the treasure house of a language. As a people, we needlessly deprive ourselves of the helps at our command. In our daily tasks, not one of which can be performed without the use of words, we possess only the most primitive tools, when we might be equipped with the keenest and most efficient. If the dictionary he the barred and holed treasure house we have mentioned, then the coupon we print daily in this paper is its key. For we have thus made it possible for everyone to own a modern, first class dictionary. The book is brought down to date with new words, 1,300 pages being devoted to the dictionary, and a great fund of information adapted to the daily needs of a busy man or woman. The work is beautifully illustrated in colors and half-tones. The flexible real leather cover, adds to the beauty.

MOOSE INSTALL OFFICERS

The regular meeting of Lowell Lodge, Local Order of Moose, was held in Odd Fellows hall, 118 Essex street, last evening and a feature of the evening was the installation of the recently elected officers. George D. Crowell, deputy supreme dictator, presided over the installation and he was assisted by the following: Charles W. Richards, deputy supreme dictator; George S. Holt, deputy supreme vice dictator; John E. MacCallum, deputy supreme chaplain. With the strains of the Moose orchestrated, C. K. Nobles, leader, the impressive ceremony was performed. The following officers were installed: Past dictator, W. E. Turnbull; dictator, J. B. Curtis; vice dictator, Edward St. Ledger; chaplain, William H. Wilson; inside secretary, Joseph P. Kelly; outside guard, John P. E. Tannay; trustee for three years, P. J. McCanney; for one year, Edward Goodson; treasurer, John M. Howard; secretary, John E. MacCallum; Elmer D. Plunkett; dictator-elect, Curtis was presented a large bouquet of flowers, while Past Dictator W. E. Turnbull received a engraved gavel. After the installation, refreshments were served and an entertainment was given by Brother King, R. J. Flynn and Harry Supple.

SURPRISE PARTY

An enjoyable surprise party was held last Saturday evening on Mr. Simon Weston of 63 Brookline street, when quite a party of friends called at his home and presented him a handsome Morris chair. The present was made by Mrs. Joseph Davenport. The evening was spent in games and a musical program was carried out to satisfaction. The program was contributed by: Michael Davies, Robert Dawson, Simon Weston, Michael Barrett and Frank Mills. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

TO HAVE PRETTY HAIR

If your hair is not soft and pretty, give it daily attention, just as you would a plant to make it grow healthy and beautiful. Luxuriant hair—soft, fluffy, thick and lustrous—is really a matter of care. If it is too thin, stimulate the hair roots and bring out the new hairs. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. To get rid of all dandruff, simply freshen up the scalp.

AN INEXPENSIVE TONIC, called Parisian Sage, sold at all drug counters or by Carter & Sherburne, softens the scalp, nourishes and invigorates the hair roots, immediately removes all dandruff and makes the hair fluffy, lustrous and abundant. One application will stop itching head and cleanse your hair of dust and excess oil. Parisian Sage makes the hair seem twice as abundant and beautiful. It is soft and lustrous and pretty hair will surely increase charm and beauty.

GIVEN LINEN SHOWER

Miss Alice Caron, who is to be married tomorrow to Arthur R. Aubrey, was last night tendered a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Josephine Perry, 4 Lane court. The young woman was showered with valuable pieces of linen and best wishes.

A luncheon was served and the following musical program was carried out in a very satisfactory manner: Piano selections, Miss Eva Bouchard and Mrs. Laura Weed; violin selections, Miss Marion Curtis; vocal selections, Mrs. Perry, Miss Helene Caron, Miss Eva Bouchard, Mrs. Louis Cote, quartet selections, Miss Eva Bouchard, Miss Helene Caron, Miss Marion Curtis and Mrs. Leonard Cormier. The party broke up at a seasonable hour, all present extending their best wishes to the future bride and their heartfelt thanks to Mrs. Perry for her cordial hospitality.

LIGHTNING KILLS

BOY IN TAUNTON

Captain of Kronprinz Wilhelm Decides Not to Dash to Sea

Collector Hamilton at Newport News, Va., Informed

BOSTON, April 27.—One boy killed and thousands of dollars' worth of property destroyed was the toll taken yesterday afternoon by a severe electrical, rain and hailstorm in eastern Massachusetts.

Damage Due to Storm

Taunton—Clinton A. Syvertsen, aged 13, of 179 Highland street, killed by lightning.

Wellesley—Greenhouse demolished with loss of $5000; half of telephone subscribers cut off from central station.

Needham—Five buildings damaged; scores of trees uprooted; chimneys blown over; wires out of commission. Dedham—Living room blown 20 feet from foundation; fire alarm and telephone service crippled; much damage to greenhouses.

Newton—Horn fired by lightning; shade trees, uprooted and pilot of police injured when windshield of auto smashed.

Light Rain in Hub

Boston escaped with a very light rain, but in some of the suburbs, especially on the south side of the city, a drenching rain poured down from five to 15 minutes. Generally, too, hail fell in quantity and some towns reported the ground covered as from snow. The electrical accompaniment was most vivid and disastrous outside of Boston.

Although there was no rain in Taunton two bolts of lightning fell in that city, one of them killing a 13-year-old boy while he was playing with a companion in a pine grove near his home. In Concord a horse was killed, a pony paralyzed and several valuable trees uprooted.

In Dedham a torrent of rain and hail accompanied by a 50 mile an hour gale badly crippled the telephone and fire alarm services, trees were uprooted and one building was blown 20 feet away from its foundations.

Needham was another town which reported heavy damage many chimneys being blown down and the telephone and electric light wires being put out of commission.

Hot Wave to Continue

In Boston the thermometer rose a high 84 degrees yesterday, registered at 6 o'clock, and was within one degree of the heat record for April 26, established in 1872, the year the weather bureau was created. The record for hot weather in April was reached April 19, 1914, when the thermometer registered 85.

From midnight Sunday the thermometer rose steadily, yesterday reaching 84, and many who had come in town prepared for a cool day suffered considerable discomfort.

The slow southwesterly breeze of 1 to 3 miles an hour gave little relief to those on the street.

According to the local weather bureau officials last night today will be much the same as yesterday. The spell is expected to continue today and tomorrow and the temperature may get one or two degrees higher than yesterday.

Hot throughout the East

Boston was not the only place in the country where it was hot yesterday. The entire North Atlantic coast and the Ohio valley was in the grip of the hot wave. Washington, D. C., reported 84 Sunday and yesterday; Harrisburg 83, Richmond, 84; Norfolk, 82, and Raleigh, N. C., 82, all new April heat records for those cities.

Chicago had a maximum temperature of 83 and Detroit 86 and west of these cities conditions were reported normal. The normal temperature for Boston at this time of year is 49 degrees.

The hottest part of the country yesterday was the Potomac Valley, while the coolest spot was Eastport, Me., with a temperature of 38.

Boston was the hottest place in New England, but Nantucket, with a temperature of 44, was not far behind Eastport.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL BUSY WITH HEARINGS

Frank Malorey Objects to Form of Paving Block Contract—Mr. Cawley Protests

At the regular meeting of the municipal council held this forenoon, Frank Malorey was given a hearing on his protest against the form of specifications in connection with city contracts for edgewise, circle stones and paving blocks. Mr. Malorey claimed that the specifications and conditions surrounding the contracts as presented by the purchasing agent eliminated the small dealer and he claimed unjust discrimination. The council also gave a hearing on the petition of Edward Cawley whose bid for cement was rejected by the purchasing agent because Mr. Cawley did not specify any particular brand, though Mr. Cawley was the lowest bidder. The meeting was called to order at about 11:15 o'clock. The first business taken up was a petition from the Lowell Electric Light Corp. for a permit to construct underground conduits in Gorham street from Appleton to Summer street and also for the erection of 12 poles in Gorham street.

DRUG USERS GOING INSANE

Many Treated at State Hospital in Tewksbury—Terrible Craving for Stimulant

Deprived of their supply of narcotics by the recent federal laws, a rapidly increasing number of drug users are being driven insane by their craving for stimulant and this sad fact is being nowhere disclosed with greater emphasis than in the state infirmary at Tewksbury. The situation is not marked in Lowell hospitals but at the state hospitals the number of patients is increasing every day. At Tewksbury there is a number of patients in whom deferred mental diseases have developed since they have been deprived of drugs, but it was stated at the hospital today that the number of new cases was not as great as might be expected in view of the sudden clamping of the new law. "I presume that a great many of them had a good supply of drugs on hand," said one of the doctors, "and it wouldn't surprise me if we would get an unusual number of cases later on. One day last week we had four cases."

GREAT BRITAIN'S POLICY

LONDON, April 27.—Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, explained in the house of commons this afternoon Great Britain's policy in the matter of the treatment of German sailors captured on board submarines. Answering a question on this subject Mr. Churchill said: "We cannot admit that the reprisals which Germany has taken against numbers of our own officers can be allowed to deflect us from a policy which we regard as humane and just in itself." Continuing he said: "It is necessary publicly to brand this form of warfare and prevent it taking its place among the methods opened to belligerent nations." The speaker then went on to explain that no special conditions have been applied to the crews of German submarines because they fought as such but only to those engaged in "wantonly killing non-combatants, neutrals and women on the high seas."

LAND FIGHTING IN DARDANELLES

Berlin Claims British Attacks Broke Down With Heavy Losses—Italian Ambassadors Called Home—British Trawler Blown Up

The German rush in Flanders has halted, at least for the moment. Official communications from the German, French, British and Belgian war departments today bring out this point, although it is not clear whether the allies have accomplished anything of importance further than to check the advance of their opponents. The official announcement from Berlin shows that the Germans are now on the defensive along their new line north of Ypres. The statement is made that British attacks broke down with extraordinarily heavy losses. Allies Regain Territory Both the French and British claim that part of the lost territory has been re-taken. A despatch from Field Marshal Sir John French, British commander-in-chief, says the British made progress in the vicinity of St. Julien. It is also said the French regained possession of Het Sas. The Paris announcement reports that the French have made further progress. It is said further that the French have recaptured Hartmann's Weller-kupt in the mountains near the eastern end of the line which the Germans wrested from them two days ago. Italy on Eve of Decision The Italian ambassadors at Berlin, Paris and London have been summoned home for a conference with the Italian foreign minister. Rome interprets this move as an indication that Italy is on the eve of an important decision concerning her foreign policy. Austro-Germans Lost 20,000 Unofficial Geneva despatches say the

FISH AND GAME SIGN PERMITS AGAIN

Substitution of Single Commissioner for the Board Recommended

BOSTON, April 27.—The substitution of a single fish and game commissioner for the present board of three commissioners is recommended by the commission on efficiency and economy in a report submitted to the governor and council and the legislature today. The report charges that the administration of the fish and game department has been lax, that the cost of the farms and fish hatcheries has been excessive and that the expense accounts of the commissioners have contained improper items. The commission criticizes the relations of George W. Field, chairman of the fish and game commission with the management of the state game reservation at Sharon. The report says: "The conditions under which the Sharon reservation is maintained are open to severe criticism. The state's acts are so intermingled with the private business of Dr. Field, whose sister owns the land used for the state reservation, as to render satisfactory administration impossible. We recommend that the station at Sharon be discontinued and all of the state's property transferred to the reservation at Norfolk." The report urges an improvement in accounting methods and recommends that the chief deputy in charge of the enforcement of the fish and game laws should actually superintend the work of the state district deputies instead of occupying a desk at the state house. Francis A. Tyrell is chairman of the commission on economy and efficiency of which the other members are Thomas W. White and Russell A. Wood.

KITCHENER SAYS BRITISH PRISONERS HAVE BEEN MALTREATED BY GERMAN CAPTORS

LONDON, April 27.—War Secretary Kitchenier told the house of lords today that British prisoners had been insulted, maltreated and even shot down by their German captors. He made a statement to the house on this subject in which he spoke in part as follows: "I have been forced with reluctance to accept as indisputably true the maltreatment by the German army of British prisoners. The Hague convention has been flagrantly disregarded by German officers. Our prisoners have been stripped and maltreated in various ways and in some cases the evidence goes to prove that they have been shot in cold blood. Our officers, even when wounded, have been wantonly insulted and frequently struck."

Mr. Eastman said that inasmuch as the indebtedness existed before the commission believed it better to allow stocks and bonds to be issued in place of it. It was essential, he said, that a statute be enacted to prevent a recurrence of the situation, which is permitted under the charter granted the company by the state of Connecticut.

7 MEN KILLED

Dynamite Explosion in Trench at New Ken-sico Dam—11 Injured

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., April 27.—Seven Italian workmen were killed and 11 injured today when there was a premature explosion of dynamite in the cut-off trench at the new Kensico dam. The charges had been placed and the men were getting ready to go to safety when the explosion occurred, throwing out 40 tons of rock. Four of the injured are so seriously hurt that it is thought they will die. The men who were killed were working 30 feet underground at the bottom of a shaft. The blast which ended their lives was fired ten feet above their heads and loosened tons of earth and rock which buried alive those not killed outright. Some one, it is believed, accidentally crossed the wires which led to the charge of explosives, already set, thus firing it.

NEWS OF THE LEGISLATURE

Bar Admission Bill Passed—Hotel Register Measure and Liquor Traffic Law Recalled

BOSTON, April 27.—By a vote of 18 to 15, with three pairs, the state senate passed the bill to amend the act relating to the admission of candidates for admission to the bar. Senator Bates offered an amendment which would compel applicants to do work equivalent to three years of a high school course, instead of two years, as the bill requires, but the amendment was rejected, 15 to 17.

The rollcall on passing the bill to be engrossed was as follows:
Yea—Bagley, Beal, Bean, Cummings, Eldridge, Fitzgerald, Gifford, Green, Higgins, Jackson, Langelier, Leonard, Marchand, McGonigle, McLane, Sheehan, Teller, Timilty—18.
No—Bartlett, Bates, Bazeley, Cavanagh, Clark, Ellis, Farnsworth, Fay, Hays, Hobbs, Kimball, Mason, Norwood, Tufts, Wells—15.
Paired—For: Sullivan, Doyle, Garst; against: Martin, Gordon, Perley.

Income Tax Debated

When the senate reached the proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to impose an income tax at different rates on different kinds of property, Senator Gifford moved the substitution of a resolution providing that: "Full power be granted to the general court to impose and levy reasonable assessments, rates and taxes and to make reasonable exemption, and that the legislature may authorize a municipality to fix from time to time a rate on property other than real estate and money of not less than $5 nor more than $10 on every $1000 of value of such property."

Senator Tufts opposed the Gifford amendment. He said the amendment reported by the committee on taxation was recommended by the taxation commissioner and that its adoption would be the first step toward solving the problem of proper taxation in the state. The Gifford amendment was refused substitution by a vote of 3 for to 0, and the resolve as reported from the committee was ordered to a third reading on a voice vote.

Back Track by the Senate

The senate took the back track on two important matters. It recalled the governor the bill forbidding dealers in intoxicating liquors to ship them into no-license communities. The bill was recalled because there is doubt whether its provisions do not prohibit the transportation of liquor through a no-license city or town even if the dealer is sending the liquor to a license community.

It is understood that the friends of the bill are willing to have the act amended so as to make it clear that a dealer may ship liquors into a license city or town. An attempt will be made to amend the bill also so as to provide that a dealer who violates the law will not lose his license until the second offense, the bill now drawn says that a license shall be null and void on the first violation of the act.

After the bill had been recalled, Senator Farnsworth asked unanimous consent to move reconsideration of the vote by which it was enacted. But Senator McLane objected and the motion to reconsider was thus prevented. On motion of Senator Gordon, the clerk of the senate was instructed to hold the bill until the senate acted further on it. Unless Senator McLane can be persuaded to withdraw his objections, the bill must be sent to the governor. It is assumed that he will veto it in its present form.

Hotel Registry Bill Recalled

On motion of Senator Ellis, the senate reconsidered the vote by which it had enacted the bill requiring guests at hotels to register their own names and compelling the proprietors of hotels to see that all persons who resort to their establishments are registered. It has been suggested that the bill as now drawn would compel every member of a party at a private dinner in a hotel to register. Attempts will be made to amend the bill so as to meet the objections to it.

Senator McLane gave notice that when the Boston & Maine railroad bill is reported he would offer an amendment to provide that: "No person being a director of any other railroad corporation owning or operating a railroad in this commonwealth shall at the same time serve as a director of the Boston & Maine railroad company." Neither the Boston & Maine railroad nor the Boston & Maine Railroad company shall purchase any material or supplies from a director of the said corporation nor from the director of any other railroad corporation owning or operating a railroad in this commonwealth.

Senator Pay also offered amendments, the substance of which is that the public service commission shall be satisfied that the directors of the new Boston & Maine railroad are acting in good faith before the commission grants the certificate of public utility for the operation of the new company and that the commission shall have before it the actual contracts made by the directors before issuing the certificate required by law.

Urges Clean Milk Bill
Dr. Charles F. Withington, president of the Massachusetts Medical Society, last night sent out letters to each member of the house of representatives, urging the passage of the clean milk bill, which comes up today.

The letter says that the physicians of the state consider it very important that the legislature should pass legislation which will stop the sale of milk from filthy places and this bill is expected to remedy this serious defect. The letter says it would be also of great service in emergencies, to local boards that have not adopted dairy regulations.

Report on Insurance
Governor Walsh yesterday sent to the legislature a message, accompanying a report of the commission created last year to investigate practices and rates in insurance, especially workmen's compensation insurance. The governor declares it is evident from a study of the report that the commission has discharged its duty well and has succeeded in establishing the following facts:

"That there is no competition in the making of rates for insurance against the liability of employers on account of industrial accidents, but that the rates are in fact, by agreement between the companies, fixed by a single expert in the employ."

"That these rates are in many cases too high, owing chiefly to the allowance of excessive and ungraded commissions for securing new business."

"That a great advantage in regard to the prevention of accidents is to be expected from the provision of schedules of rates with premiums in favor of establishments where safety devices are installed and where due precautions against accident are taken."

"That the proper adjustment of rates will be a long continued process, requiring frequent revisions as actuarial experience in this new field of insurance is accumulated from year to year."

"The commission submits strong reasons for its belief that the fixing of rates cannot safely be left to competition, but must be entrusted to some centralized organization. It is urged, therefore, and I think wisely urged, that the creation of such an organization by the companies be authorized by the legislature, and that provision be made for its due supervision and control by the state."

The governor recommends the passage of the measures prepared by the commission, with such minor changes as may seem advisable.

MEMBERS OF PILGRIM ENCAMPMENT HOLD CELEBRATION—E. C. WELLES ELECTED

The members of Pilgrim Encampment, I. O. O. F., celebrated the 96th anniversary of Odd Fellowship in this country last evening, the affair being held at their hall in Bridge street. The first event of the evening was a business meeting in the course of which E. C. Wells was elected chief patriarch to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of George A. Willey, who is to remove to California.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION
The Westminster Presbyterian and the North Ballerica Baptist societies were taken into the Lowell Christian Endeavor union at a meeting which was held at the Lawrence street Y. M. C. club. The meeting was largely attended and was presided by the Rev. J. E. McGowan, pastor of the Westminster church. The reports of various committees were heard. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. Hefford, pastor of the church, who extended a cordial welcome to those present.

Burrill Sweet spoke on committee work, and Miss Jeanette Mornington, chairman of songs. Rev. Charles T. Doyle spoke on the work of the union, and the meeting closed with benediction.

WHAT THE FRENCH MAID SAID

KEEPING FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

"Now just look at that lettuce," almost sobbed Marjorie, as Marie walked into the kitchen to find her young friend, trying vainly to rejuvenate a wilted head of lettuce.

"Lettuce should be crisp and cold to be fit to use," ventured Marie. "Perhaps you didn't take care of it properly when it was delivered." Just as soon as possible after the grocer or butcher brings your vegetables or fruits, they should be put away into a cool place, which means the ice box in all city homes. Lettuce may be separated, washed, wrapped in oiled paper and laid close to the ice. This insures a cold, crisp, delicious salad.

"Vegetables should never be soaked in salt water for freshening purposes, for the salt acts directly upon the vegetable minerals, drawing them out and leaving a wilted, flavorless vegetable as a result. Cucumbers, as an example, when fresh should be crisp and are perfectly delicious."

"The rooty plants, such as beets, turnips and carrots are good when very young; the old ones grow tough and heavy in wood fibre and are not fit for summer foods. Green corn spoils quickly and should be cooked while very fresh, especially after the husk is removed. Corn sours in a few hours, and it cannot be freshened by soaking it in cold water, as some housewives seem to imagine, for when the corn loses its sweetness it is because change in the sugar constituent has caused fermentation in the grain and from that instant corn is a useless vegetable.

"Berries are often ruined by being bottled and allowed to stand in water or by being held under a stream of running water. The water soaks into the berry through the unprotected end and the fruit loses its rich flavor. Strawberries should be poured on a large platter and put into the ice box. When ready to prepare put them into a bowl of cold water and lift up and down until the sand, etc., is washed off, then hull, cut off the bruised spots and serve.

"A good way to keep the juice in any fruit which has been cut and some part remains, such as grapefruit, orange or lemon, is to cover the exposed end with a piece of oiled paper and lay out side down. If cantaloupe is cut and allowed to stand for any length of time with cracked ice in it, the flavor is entirely destroyed. If special chilling is desired, pack in cracked ice," finished Marie.

A QUARTER CENTURY AGO

A few weeks ago I republished in this column a poem entitled "Sweet Merrimack" from the pen of Mr. Thomas M. Fahy, of this city, the verses originally appearing in The Sun of a quarter of a century ago. The composer, Mr. Fahy, had long since laid down his pen and had ceased to court the Muses. But he read the reproduction of his ancient effort in the Quarter Century Ago column and the feeling came over him that poets sometimes come back, as well as other geniuses.

As a result Mr. Fahy who now resides at 32 Sutherland street, sends in the following:

"Quite recently you reprinted some verses of mine entitled 'Sweet Merrimack' and their perusal after so many years awakened memories of days gone by, when I used to write an occasional 'I'll not say you, but rhyme; and the thought occurred to me could I write once more at this late day, to use the vernacular, could I come back. And the thought led to action, with the following result:

THE KNOT HOLE IN THE FENCE

In my golden days of boyhood, in the happy long ago,
When my heart was utter stranger to all misery and woe;
On each pleasant day of summer as the sun shone warmly down,
I would lie up to the ball-grounds on the outskirts of the town.

But I neither in the bleachers nor the field, nor in the clubhouse,
Ah! no! I knew a little scheme worth doubly two of that—I would watch the game progress from my point of observation.

through a knot hole in the fence.

Every player of the home-team was a hero in my eyes,
As they peered around the diamond and captured all the flies;
But when I saw the pitcher, were my looks of envy bent,
I would rather, in those days, be "Red" than be the president.

And when our team was leading, oh how happy would I be;
Filled with bright anticipations of a noble victory.

But when their rivals pass them, it would cause me dread suspense,
Then anxiously I'd hover round that knot hole in the fence.

Many rich folks of the city used to patronize the game,
To the grounds in stylish coaches they came;
And from my humble knot hole, I could see each haughty face,
In the grand stand, stern and silent.

Like a jester on a case,
And nothing in creation could arouse their dormant mirth.

Though the bleacher fans oft shouted till they fairly shook the earth,
So I drew the conclusion that their joy was less intense
Than the ragged little urchins', at the knot hole in the fence.

But seldom is there pleasure not accompanied by pain,
And my Nemesis was a cop, "Bull" Hoodigan, by name. He viewed a game in contemplation sweet,
His cudgel would descend with force upon my trousers seat.

But he seldom caught me napping though often he would try.

Because on all his movements I maintained a watchful eye, I would keep one eye upon him though the task was quite impossible.

As I had to keep the other on that knot hole in the fence.

In those good old days long vanished I could also play the game. At centre with the "Purple Socks" I yearned for future fame.

And for youngsters of our inches, we could play uncommon ball. But our name was not appropriate for we wore no socks at all.

"Plug" Flanagan, our manager once found me next a time. And threatened to release me if I missed the game next time; Because when sorely needed I was not in evidence.

But at the ball grounds peering through that knot hole in the fence.

Since those happy days I've prospered and am fairly well-to-do; I own a thriving business and a city block or two.

I am still a fan, and always was, through every care and strife. For baseball fever can't be cured; it sticks to you through life.

And often as I watch a game, my thoughts will backward flow, To those priceless joys of childhood which I never more shall know.

I would give all my possessions for those hours of innocence. When a care-free kid, I loitered round that knot hole in the fence.

The Druggists' Licenses
Today there are 45 licensed drug stores in Lowell. Twenty-five years ago, with no license in town there were 33 applications for druggists' licenses but only 35 were fortunate in getting them. Nowadays the license commission rarely have occasion to question an application for a druggist's license for the "boozie" drug store in Lowell is apparently a thing of the past, while in days gone by they were numerous.

It might also be said that the old-time "speak-easy" and the "boozie" drug store have also disappeared. Through the unlicensed drug store could use liquor in compounding legitimate prescriptions it could only have a very limited quantity on hand, while the licensed place could have a considerable quantity on the premises without endangering its license, and licenses for drug stores could be granted.

Whether the city had declared for no-license or not. Before the coming of the so-called "sandwich law" by which a hotel keeper could legally serve liquor with food, a sandwich constituting food, it was impossible to get liquor in legal manner on Sunday without considerable expense, and as the licensed places took the greater chance in violating the law and were watched more closely, they observed the law quite rigidly with the result that the "speak-easy" and the "boozie" drug store came into being.

But the sandwich law had much to do with putting the "speak-easy" out of business, the average man preferring to pay a few cents more and have his libation in comfort, to being obliged to gulp it down behind closed doors, and gulp down an inferior article into the bargain, while of course police activity in rounding up "speak-easies" was also a contributing factor in its decline. Twenty-five years ago and even more recently a Sunday never passed without from one to several successful raids upon "speak-easies" by the police, whereas nowadays one seldom hears from them, though the police are as hot after them when they come into existence as they ever were.

In the year of no-license 25 years ago drug stores sprang up on every corner, for all that was required was a store and a man with a registered pharmacist's certificate. It was customary for a man who desired to conduct one of these places to engage a registered man who was willing to take a chance, by paying him a great salary than his position would demand ordinarily, and start in business. If the place was caught the registered man would be hauled into court and fined, the man behind, paying the fine, then the state board of pharmacy generally suspended the certificate of the offending registered man and in the event of a second conviction revoked his certificate and he was out of the business.

When the applications for sixth class licenses came up in the board of aldermen 25 years ago, Hon. John E. Drury, then a member of the board, opposed the granting of any druggists' licenses on the ground that as it was the desire of the people of Lowell that no liquor should be sold for a twelve-month their wishes should be respected.

He expressed the belief that the board should withhold licenses from druggists, as from any other people and that by so doing they would prevent the sale of liquor as a beverage and would secure a great source of temptation. He believed that the best interests of temperance and prohibition demanded that no licenses to sell liquor be granted. The law had decided as he understood it, that a druggist had the right to use liquor in compounding medicine, legitimately, and the board of aldermen had no right to interfere with them in so doing. He believed that a strict enforcement of the no-license law meant that no licenses should be granted to anybody. Further discussion brought out the fact that the law required that one or more licenses of the sixth class should be granted for the sale of liquor for medicinal purposes. Mr. Drury lost his fight and 39 licenses were granted, several of which were caught "doing business" during the year.

Things Were Picking Up
That all comes to him who hustles is strikingly exemplified in the case of Edmund B. Conant, Lowell's nationally famous auctioneer who jumps all over the country making big sales and incidentally advertising Lowell, without the aid of an appropriation from the city. Only a few days ago The Sun had an article on a recent sale made by Mr. Conant in Louisville, Ky., and only 25 years ago the old Sun had the following:

"Mr. E. B. Conant has found a lady's pocketbook, which the owner may have by identifying her property."

Division 28's Anniversary
A few days ago The Sun reported the 25th anniversary celebration of Division 8, A. O. U., which was observed with a banquet. On Friday of this week, Division 28, A. O. U., will go its sister division seven years better, by observing its 32nd anniversary. On the occasion of its seventh anniversary, held 25 years ago, Division 28 Drury lost his fight and 39 licenses

Iron Worker Praises Duffy's

Here's a case of a structural iron worker who suffered severe stomach trouble, but thanks to Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey he is almost ready to resume his hazardous calling:

"For many weeks I was laid up sick in bed in the hospital with stomach trouble which gradually wore me away to mere skeleton. The hospital treatment did not seem to improve me, so my doctor said I would not get well and told my people to take me home, as there was nothing any one on this earth could do for me. When I reached home my doctor ordered me to be fed on a table-spoonful of Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey every two hours. After taking Duffy's for over one week, without another morsel of food entering my system, I began to have a longing for something to eat, and to my surprise found I could keep a little oatmeal gruel on my stomach, and gradually I regained my former appetite and felt better. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is the cause for my present good state of health, and my doctor says I will soon be able to go back to my trade of structural iron worker. I am not afraid of the truth and hope others will benefit from the use of Duffy's the same as myself." Thomas Satchell, 215 Tully St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

DUFFY'S Pure Malt Whiskey

may be relied upon in extreme cases where other foods are rejected. When taken as directed just before meals, it assists in keeping healthy the essential functions of digestion because it induces activity in the flow of gastric juices so the food you eat will digest naturally. This action on the digestive process is of great importance as it brings to all the tissues and organs of the body the nutrient necessary to their sustenance and indirectly to the whole system strength and vigor. It's a medicine for all mankind, and you, too, can

STATUE OF RIO BRANCO

BRAZILIAN MINISTER TO GO TO URUGUAY AND ARGENTINA TO UNVEIL STATUE

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 27.—Dr. Lauro Muller, Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, set out with his suite last night on a journey to Uruguay and Argentina. Primarily their purpose was simply a visit of courtesy to Uruguay which has honored the late Baron de Rio Branco, formerly Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, by having a statue of Rio Branco placed behind the boundary line between the two countries. Dr. Muller will unveil this statue.

Yielding to the urgent requests of the governments of Argentina and Chile, however, Dr. Muller has been obliged to extend his itinerary which now will bring about an exchange of visits by the ministers of foreign affairs of Argentina, Chile and Brazil, whose action in the recent crisis between the United States and Mexico is regarded as indicating the necessity of a stronger and more definite union.

FIRE IN SECOND AVENUE

FIREMEN ARRIVE IN TIME TO PREVENT DESTRUCTION OF JOHN BLESSINGTON'S HOUSE

A brisk fire was discovered at 4.15 o'clock this morning in a dwelling at 53 Second avenue, occupied by John Blessington, superintendent of streets, and only quick action in getting the alarm to the fire station and the prompt response of members of the 10 prevented the whole building from being gutted. The fire started in back of the wood box in the kitchen and worked its way through the partitions to the second floor of the house. When the firemen arrived the dwelling was filled with smoke and the flames were creeping toward the attic but by ripping out a portion of the wall the fire-fighters succeeded in checking the blaze before it got beyond control. Considerable of the furniture was also damaged by fire and water.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

OFFICIALS EXPECT THAT COLLECTIONS WILL EXCEED ORIGINAL ESTIMATE OF $80,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Administration officials were optimistic today over prospects that the income tax this year will yield an amount considerably in excess of the original estimate of $80,000,000. This optimism was based upon full preliminary estimates to the treasury department from internal revenue collectors throughout the country which places the sum to be collected from the individual and corporation tax at $87,035,000. Officials are confident, however, that the returns will exceed that sum by several millions.

THE SICKABED LADY

A simple but efficacious steam remedy for cold in the head and hoarseness, says nurse, is to inhale steam from a sponge dipped in boiling water. Cover the sponge with boiling water, wrap a towel around it so that you can hold the ends of the towel instead of the sizzling sponge, bury your nose and mouth in the covered sponge and breathe through nose and mouth. When the sponge loses heat, remove the towel and pour on some more boiling water.

Cold compress is an excellent and easy cure for sore throat. Wrap cloths wrung out in iced water around the throat and renew as soon as they grow warm. A nice remedy for anyone with bad lungs, or a bad cold is to take a piece of flannel, long and narrow; lay on table; put on dry mustard, rub into the flannel. Fold together, pin on to the under-shirt. It never burns unless you wet it in some way. It helps where everything else has failed.

One-half cup hot water, teaspoon paregoric, teaspoon sugar, teaspoon glycerine, if taken at night will keep person from coughing at night. Good for small children and babies, as it is harmless.

Nurse says moles may be removed by the use of caustics or by electricity. It would be best, however, to have a specialist in this work remove them, as serious consequences may be the price if you attempt their removal on your own responsibility.

If you will get some muriatic acid and put a drop on warts three or four times a day they will gradually disappear. You can use a toothpick to apply it with.

The first thing to do to banish pimples, nurse advises, is to look to your diet. Eat less pastry and sweets and drink more water. A daily bath in which salt has been sprinkled liberally, and an hour's exercise in the open air are good. In addition to this treatment apply a bit of the following lotion to the pimples every day: One dram precipitate of sulphur, one dram tincture of camphor, and four ounces of rose-water.

All of us, says nurse, have occasionally a sick person in the house. A few of us, unfortunately, a chronic invalid. The problem of the meal tray can be comfortably solved in these days. Of course, the oval tray with handles at the ends and a little railing that prevents the sliding of dishes is most desirable.

A friend of hers had a tray made by a tinsmith for a very small sum. This is both tray and table, as there are folding legs of heavy wire that allow the tray to fit across the lap without resting on it. This tray has a rim entirely around it and a broad handle across the top, basket fashion. The handle is made to fold out of the way around the sides of the tray when not in use. Painted light blue it is pretty as well as convenient.

Another bed tray of wood has the top shaped like a lapboard to fit around the invalid. A railing runs around three sides, containing an opening at the ends to serve as handles. There are four little folding feet or legs to raise it from the invalid's lap.

When counted gulps of water and deep breathing fail to cure hic coughs, says nurse, this remedy will be found very effective. Take the largest possible mouthful of cold water and hold it in the mouth and stop both ears tightly with the fingers. Then, with the ears tightly stopped, swallow the water at a gulp. Presto! they are gone.

Toothache that is caused by some acid penetrating a cavity may frequently be relieved by placing the mouth with a little bicarbonate of soda and water. A drop or two of turpentine in the cavity of an aching tooth will ease it. If gums are sore, bathe with the same.

To prevent the skin from discoloring after a fall or blow, take a little dry starch, moisten it with cold water, and lay it on the injured part.

Onion is an excellent tonic for the nerves, says nurse. A steady diet of onions for a few weeks will make a nervous dyspeptic new person again. Other vegetables good for cases of nerves because they enrich the blood, which nourishes the nerves are peas, beets, carrots and artichokes. Thin persons should eat plentifully of these vegetables if they would make rich, red blood.

For a torpid liver there is nothing better than a diet of dandelions, using the water they were boiled in for making into a syrup to be taken also. Celery eaten regularly will be very beneficial to those persons having a gummy tendency or who are troubled with rheumatism, while those who suffer from sleeplessness should eat freely of lettuce late in the day, because the milk contained in the leaves is a sedative that calms the nerves and creates a drowsiness. Radishes and watercress are purifying in their effect, and as they are cheap they should be served very often.

Nurse says when the inevitable alarm arises and the question is, has Jack scarlet fever, measles or only plain gripe, separate him at once from the other children. Take no chances; prompt action will often save severe cases. Remove the curtains from the window, the valance from the bed, roll up and take out the rugs, leave only enough furniture in the room for convenience. The room is then ready for the patient.

It is important that until there is absolute assurance that it is not a contagious case that there should be as little communication as possible between that room and the rest of the house. So it is a good plan to have on hand and always ready a heater of some sort.

Electricity, gas, denatured alcohol, kerosene, all are good fuels, and the choice among them merely a matter of convenience. In connection with the heater have an enameled ware tea kettle, the squat, flat kind with a large bottom. This should hold about three pints. Hot water for all emergencies is thus provided. This equipment should also include, a small enameled ware saucepan, in which milk or broth may be heated. These implements are strong and so light that they can be used without noise. An important point in a sick room.

TEMPERANCE PARADE POSTPONED
The Flying Squad, ever on the alert for a parade of church and Sunday school societies. There was a strong sentiment against holding the parade on Sunday, especially on children's day. It was voted that, if a parade is held, every church organization in the city be invited to take part, and also the business community. The temperance organizations and all other societies interested whether officially pledged to the temperance movement or not. The parade will be held in the fall, possibly on Columbus day. The original plan was to hold the parade on children's day.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KEITH'S THEATRE

Headed by a comedy sketch entitled "The New Leader," presented by Al Lewis & Co., the bill proffered at B. Keith's theatre this week is one of the best of the season. From the opening act, which displays some clever juggling, until the News Pictorial, nearly a full program of a better variety of vaudeville would be hard to find.

"The New Leader" is an act filled with laughs and the comedy is new and snappy. At the opening a stage manager is attempting to rehearse for a show without an orchestra leader. After the rehearsal has gone along for some time with little progress on account of the absence of a leader, a violinist is secured from a motion picture house and he willingly occupies the conductor's chair.

The rehearsal continues. The leader, a German, chatters in a very humorous way and his talk proves amusing. A high salaried woman singer then appears in the act and she is followed by her husband, a monologist with whom she had some trouble and did not know he was on the bill. In running through a few of his songs, the monologist grows angry and he is signally released by the stage manager. A "sister" act by Misses Mann and Lee is a complete success, and nothing goes well with them and the curtain lowers with the new leader discharged.

The leading part is played by Al Lewis, who is easily one of the most natural of comedians. The "sister" act is also a feature of the evening, which in itself is a complete vaudeville show.

"The Musical Comedy Boys," Lou Locket and Jack Waldron, are two of the cleverest dancers that have been seen at Keith's this season. Appearing in dress suits, the pair dance together and also contribute special dances separately. Locket is acrobatic and does considerable difficult dancing with his partner, Waldron, is very graceful.

Three men and two women appear in "The Song Festival," which is an excellent act furnishing good entertainment. The singing is the quietest in the evening while the scenic effect during the act is really striking. Irish numbers are first given, then they swing to English and Scotch songs while the act closes with the singing of songs of Civil war days.

James Mullen and Alan Coogan have a supply of new songs and jokes and they put them over in a pleasing manner. The pair also dance very well and their act is sure to move a favorite during the remainder of the week.

THE OWL THEATRE

Wonders will never cease. They say there is nothing new under the sun, but it is not so with the motion picture industry. Not satisfied with securing the biggest stage success, and converting them for the "movies," the film companies are securing daily, the most famous and best domestic foreign stars in the theatrical business. A master stroke was done a few months ago when William Fox secured the services of Betty Nansen, a Royal actress from Copenhagen, and a friend of Henrik Ibsen. She was the creator of Ibsen's best hectic roles and as such acquired much fame. She was applauded many times by kings and emperors. But today, the motion picture brings her to the work. In "The Black Box," a celebrated scandal in which she appears today, she is cast in a dramatic role that gives full play to her emotional acting, and she makes the best of it. Five other films complete the show.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

THE CHIN LEE CO.

New Restaurant Opened With Splendid Banquet Last Evening

To celebrate the opening of its splendid new restaurant, the Chin Lee Co. gave a banquet last evening to about 140 prominent men of Lowell and incidentally proved that for epicurean dishes, toothsome dainties and courteous service, the new chop suey resort is unsurpassed. The banquet was unique in many features and its excellence awoke a spirit of enthusiasm in the speeches and cheers with which the evening closed. The menu included: soup, sweetbread, lobster chop suey, chicken chop suey, turkey, and other Chinese and American dainties such as only a Chinese cook can prepare in perfection.

In the early evening, Mr. Burton H. Wiggin, the well known contractor and builder, under whose direction the new restaurant was remodelled, and who was master of ceremonies for the occasion, explained that some of the kitchen equipment was late in arriving and asked that all present would exercise patience. The interval of waiting was filled in by a most eloquent address on the friendship that exists between China and America, made by Mr. Niehng, nephew of Wu Ting Fang, former Chinese ambassador and a graduate of Harvard. There was music by Cushman's orchestra, which played throughout the evening, and some splendid vocal selections by the choir of the Western Street Baptist church, which consists of 25 voices, under the direction of Walter W. Carr.

Before the banquet proper, the large crowd present went through the various sections of the new restaurant.

and expressions of admiration were heard on all sides. The Chin Lee Co. recently bought out the Young China Co. and determined to make the restaurant the finest of its kind outside of New York. They claim, and with good reason, that it is the finest Chinese restaurant in New England. The walls are tiled in the most approved fashion and the floors are carbolized. Several new booths have been added, and many quaint and rich Oriental touches of decoration including gorgeous embroideries and gold traceries. Almost $10,000 was spent in the renovation. There are 35 booths and the Chin Lee company can easily accommodate 250 persons at a time. The windows are large and airy, the lighting fixtures are the latest in design, and in every respect the new restaurant is a model of efficiency and luxury. The plumbing was done by the H. R. Barker Co.; the electric work by W. C. Hinkley; the painting by the Lowell Wallpaper Co.; the floors by the American Mason Safety Tread Co., all under the personal supervision of Mr. Burton H. Wiggin.

Among those present last evening were the leading city officials and business and professional men of Lowell. There were also many out-of-town guests, one of the most popular being the beautiful Chinese-doll daughter of Mr. Niehng. The tables were handsomely decorated with roses of all colors. At the close of the banquet, which lasted until 10:30 p. m., Mr. Wiggin called upon the following for a few remarks: Joseph Smith, Representative Victor E. Jewett, Representative Arthur A. Howard, Lawrence Cummings, Frank K. Stearns, Hon. John E. Drury, Supt. Redmond Welch and Commissioner Newell E. Putnam.

Highest tributes were paid by all to the Chin Lee company for its generosity, hospitality and initiative. For the coming week, Cushman's orchestra will play at the new restaurant every evening from 5:30 to 9 p. m. There is little doubt that the new venture will prove a financial success, judging by last evening.

Before the banquet proper, the large crowd present went through the various sections of the new restaurant.

The Chief Advantage of Crawford Boilers

over other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size." A fact worth noting.

These Boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and save fuel and labor.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these Boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

THE LADY'S WORKBAG

A most effective finish for a linen pillow, in which you wish to use the insets of fillet crochet medallions, would be a plain edge of fillet crochet mesh, about five blocks wide. The cushion should be finished first, so that the exact measurements could be ascertained, then the edge should be crocheted to fit the cushion and sewed to it where the back and front are joined.

Arrange the medallions, one in the center and one at each corner of the center, connecting the four outer motifs with an insertion of plain two-mesh fillet crochet.

The plain fillet mesh is seen in the newest crochet trimmed pieces as a finish and is used for scarfs, as well as pillows.

One of the very newest novelties in needlework is embroidery worked on fillet crochet lace. It consists of French knots arranged in clusters for the flower forms and leaves in lazy-daisy stitch.

A design of fillet crochet having rather large conventional motifs is usually selected. The French knot flowers and the leaves are embroidered directly on the solid block motif. A variety of harmonious colors, such as blue, pink and lavender for the flowers with green for the leaves, will give charming spots of color on the lace, producing a particularly quaint and unusual effect.

It is used to decorate dresser scarfs, lingerie pillows and ornamental towels. The idea is a practical one, as the finished work can be laundered, although it should be carefully done, which, however, is a requirement of all needlework.

To secure the thread in machine sewing, the thread is liable to rip if not tied; instead turn the goods around and stitch backward for half an inch.

For mending table linen save the long threads which have been drawn from linen for hemstitching and wind on a spool; put aside until the tablecloth needs darning.

Sew two small fasteners on the waist, one flat part on each side, and the round part on the bow, then when put on snap them together. You will find them much better than pins and the waist can easily be washed with them on.

Net, which has been so popular as a trimming and in needlework, is now being introduced as a new method for developing initials. Large initials look especially good embroidered in this way and the old English style lends itself particularly well to this work.

The letter is marked on the linen and a piece of net is based on the back, perfectly smooth and completely covering the letter. A running stitch, following the outline of the letter, is then taken. This stitch serves as a padding for the French stemming, the stitches of which should be taken through both the linen and the net underneath. After the work is completed, cut the linen close to the French stemming, leaving the net to take its place. Great care must be exercised so as not to cut the net when snipping the linen.

Another way of working the initials when using the net is to run a couple of rows of padding around the outline of the letter and then buttonhole with a narrow close stitch. It would be best to experiment on a bit of old linen until the method of making is clearly understood.

In making a graduated lace flounce for a petticoat or other underwear, cut the first strip of lace to fit the garment. Then, in stitching, hold the first piece a little taut, and the second a little looser, and so on until the required depth is finished. Thus, the flounce will fit smoothly to the garment with just a little ripple at the bottom.

When putting a hem in a garment, if a piece of cardboard is cut the required width, it may be slipped along and the task quickly and evenly accomplished, as it saves the constant handling of the tape measure and there is no chance of the hem being uneven, as the car board is rigid.

Now that the long sleeves are in style it is often necessary to protect them in some way. A very pretty pair of oversleeves can be made from a large fancy bordered handkerchief. Divide the handkerchief by cutting it diagonally across from corner to corner. Make a band along the edge large enough to slip over the hand, and gather the bias edge into it. Make a seam four inches long connecting the inner edges. Adjust over the sleeve and fasten with a fancy pin.

Whenever a new dress or article is made from any pattern, it is a good plan to tie on the pattern, after you are through using it, with a strip left from the material. In this way, much confusion may be avoided, because the material with which it is tied will at once indicate for what the pattern was last used.

In cleaning and pressing ribbons and silk to use again, one usually finds that the use of a hot iron destroys their crispness. The following simple process will freshen and brighten the materials besides preserving this very necessary crispness. Invert a large tin plate inside over a burner of the gas stove, and turn the flame very low.

Dip a piece of old muslin in water and wring; shake well, fold into four or six thicknesses and press firmly and smoothly over the plate. Then gradually draw the ribbon across the slowly steaming brush, brushing vigorously all the while with a soft brush. This cleans the material, and smooths out the wrinkles unexpectedly well. When the pad becomes too dry, dampen again.

Broderick's, Lincoln, Tues. night.

A HOME RECIPE That Stops Dandruff

If you are troubled with excessive dandruff either dry or oily, the following recipe which can be easily prepared at home from simple materials will be of great benefit, as by its use thousands of people have driven dandruff from their scalps forever.

Mix together in an 8 oz. bottle, 6 oz. of a good quality of Bay Rum, 2 oz. of Lavender de Compose and 1/2 oz. drachm Menthol Crystals. Shake well and allow to stand for an hour before using.

You can get all the above ingredients from any druggist. The best way to apply is at night and morning, rubbing into the scalp with finger tips or a medium stiff brush. The one 8 oz. bottle should be in most cases sufficient to clear the head of all dandruff and occasional use thereafter should effectively prevent its return. This treatment is also excellent for making the hair grow and to keep the hair from falling out and, although not a stain or dye, will often restore natural color to gray, streaked or faded hair.

How to Dry Clean SUITS and DRESSES

You know how spots and stains will set on your clothes no matter how careful you are—how dull will look into them and make them look shabby. It means a job for the dry cleaner before you can wear them again—losing time—losing money.

Dry clean them yourself with Putnam Dry-Cleaner. It's quicker—easy—just as effective—more economical. It will clean and restore without altering the shape, changing the color, wrinkling or shrinking the fabric. Makes the dress or suit look like new again at a really trifling cost.

Putnam Dry-Cleaner is an invaluable household article. It will clean lace, silk, gloves, curtains, neckties, hats, and a hundred other articles. Makes you independent of the professional dry cleaner and saves you the price of his charges. Don't accept imitations.

Insist on getting Putnam Dry-Cleaner. Your druggist carries Putnam Dry-Cleaner—25c. 50c. bottle. If you don't see it, write us—we will send you a bottle, postage, for 25c.

FATHER ORDAINS SON

BISHOP LAWRENCE OFFICIATES AT SON'S ORDINATION—LOWELL MINISTER RECEIVES CHURCH RITES

LAWRENCE, April 27.—In the presence of a large congregation and several members of the Episcopal clergy, the Right Reverend William Lawrence, Bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Massachusetts conducted a most unusual service Sunday morning at 10.05 o'clock when he ordained his son, Rev. William Appleton Lawrence, curate of the Grace Episcopal church on Jackson street, into the full rites of the ministry of the Episcopal church.

At the same time he ordained his son, Bishop Lawrence also gave the rites of the church to Rev. John W. Suter, curate of St. Anne's Episcopal church, Lowell, a member of the same class at the Cambridge Theological seminary as the younger Mr. Lawrence. Since their ordination last June both young men have been serving as curates and have fulfilled their duties so well that the usual period of one year was cut down almost three months.

Bishop Lawrence was assisted in the solemn rites of ordination by Rev. Samuel Babcock, suffragan bishop of the diocese; Rev. Carlton P. Mills of Boston, in charge of the Sunday school work of the diocese; Rev. Appleton Grannis of Lowell, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church and Rev. Arthur Wheelock Moulton, rector of Grace Episcopal church, this city.

During his stay in this city, Bishop Lawrence confirmed a large class at Grace church. The confirmation services took place at 9.30 o'clock in the morning. He delivered a short address to the class largely upon their duties as members of the church.

The services of the day opened at 8 o'clock with the administration of Holy Communion to the parishioners. At 9.30 o'clock the confirmation service took place and was followed at 10.45 o'clock by the ordination rites. Following the latter ceremony, Bishop Lawrence delivered the sermon of the morning. The usual evening service took place at 7 o'clock with the parishioners renewing their baptismal vows.

Why Become Prematurely Old Because of Neglected TEETH?

NAP-A-MINIT Enables Me to Put Them in Perfect Condition Without Pain or Discomfort at for Less Expense Now Than Later On

A great many people look ten years more than their age, just because of missing, decayed and broken teeth.

Bad or missing front teeth make them sensitive, they lose their inclination to smile—for no smile can be attractive unless the teeth are sound and white.

Look about you and you will see young people prematurely aged with shrunken, wrinkled cheeks; the result of missing back teeth. Perhaps you yourself are one of these prematurely old young people. Think this over, seriously and you will realize that your social and business success depends largely upon your appearance and nothing in the world can so greatly improve your appearance as a fine set of white, sound, healthy teeth, the ones nature gave you if possible or failing in that, one or more of our porcelain teeth—the one substitute that so closely imitates nature as to absolutely defy detection.

INDUSTRIAL AND STORE NEWS

Miss May Harrington of the A. C. Pollard store spent Sunday in Nashua, N. H.

The Carpenters' union, local 49 will meet tonight in the union quarters in the Russell building.

The Violet Girls will hold forth in their annual dancing party tonight and the affair promises to be highly enjoyable.

Anthony Doyle of the American Hide & Leather Co., spent Sunday house cleaning at his camp on the banks of the Merrimack.

Thomas Hartley of the Waterhead mills was present at the formal opening of the Silver Lake camp which was of an elaborate nature last Sunday.

James Burns of the American Hide & Leather Co., makes quite a showing at the wheel of his Buick roadster. He also enjoys a ride, once in a while.

Peter Corcoran, of the Bon Marche store, says he will be in fine condition tomorrow night for the dancing party to be conducted by the clerks of the store. Raoul Souler is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

George Nichols, of the American Hide & Leather company, will captain the basketball team being organized by the employees of the plant. George will also do stuh duty for the aggregation which he says is out to heat them all.

Bill Lane, the athletic plumper, employed by Mullins & Co., has purchased a four cylinder automobile and he is now learning to drive the pesky critter. Bill will soon be seen burning up the roads between this city and his camp at Willow Dale with the members of the club hanging on to the rear mudguard.

Loomknives Union

The Loomknives union held a very important meeting last night in Carpenters Hall with a large attendance.

President Peter Coutu, who has gone into the bakery business, tendered his resignation which was accepted, and a rising vote of thanks was given him for faithful service. Mr. Coutu has been in the labor movement for several years and was regarded as a most conscientious worker. His absence will be deeply felt by the organization. President John Hoban of the Textile Alliance, who is also secretary of the New Bedford local of loomknives, gave a lengthy but highly entertaining talk on the strike in the Whitman mills in New Bedford, and Organizer Thomas F. McMahon also addressed the members. Considerable minor business was transacted.

Boot & Shoe Workers' Union

The Boot & Shoe Workers union held a largely attended and interesting meeting in the union quarters in Russell building last night and considerable business of importance was transacted. Organizer Daniel E. Whelan presided and called the meeting to order promptly at 8 o'clock. The national leaders were invited. Four new members were initiated and seven applications for membership were referred to the investigating committee. The matter relative to sending a local delegate to the convention of the Boot & Shoe Workers union in Buffalo, N. Y., was discussed and favorable action taken. In all probability the delegate will be elected at the next regular meeting of the body. After the business session addresses were made by Organizer Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers and several of the members spoke on the good of the union.

BIG CONCERT

Sale of Subscribers' Seats Opens at Keith's Tomorrow

The subscription list for the John McCormack concert will be closed tomorrow and the public sale of seats will be put on at the box office of Keith's theatre on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. From Saturday until Thursday, the date of the concert, Keith's box office will be open from 10-1 and from 4-7 every day.

The subscriptions have proven to be much larger than expected and for this reason the public sale will commence earlier than was at first intended in order to give everyone an opportunity to procure seats.

An effort is being made to secure a ballad concert for this city. Although Mr. McCormack is very effective in his classical Italian numbers it is thought that the audience which will greet him in Lowell would prefer to hear him in his specialties which first brought out the wonderful lyric qualities of his voice. Such has been the case in the majority of the cities where he has entertained.

Postcards were sent out yesterday to the subscribers who first signed their signatures to the blanks. These cards when taken to the box office of Keith's theatre tomorrow will secure the number of tickets stamped upon the card. The location of these seats can be chosen by the subscriber. On Thursday and Friday the later subscribers will have an opportunity of picking out their seats. Post cards must be brought to the window of the box office.

RUNAWAY GIRL HOME

BOSTON, April 27.—Anna E. Smith, 15 years old, daughter of Frank H. Smith, 212 Adams street, West Newton, who ran away from home on Friday last, after drawing $125 of her father's money from the West Newton Savings bank, and who was apprehended in New York Sunday morning, was brought back to Newton yesterday afternoon by Inspector Edward F. O'Halloran.

On her arrival at the Newton police station the girl was given to the charge of the police matron, Mrs. Edna Mason, and was detained as a runaway child. She spent the night at the station, and whether the father will prefer a charge against the girl he was unable to say last night.

The only explanation the girl would give of her action in leaving her father's home was that she wanted to see the sights and "have a good time."

ACID STOMACHS ARE DANGEROUS

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach, and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medical treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bisulphate of magnesia, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after meals, which not only neutralizes the acid, but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause distress must be taken with impunity. The acid is followed with a little bisulphate of magnesia, which can be obtained from Liggett's drug store, and should always be kept handy.

K. OF C. MINSTREL SHOW

MEMBERS OF LOWELL COUNCIL GAVE CONCERT AT TRAINING SCHOOL

About 40 members of the Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, who are to take part in the minstrel show which will be given in this city Wednesday evening, were the guests of Supper Corlew of the Middlesex County training school, 125 North Christford street, last evening. Under the general direction of William F. Thornton, they gave a splendid minstrel entertainment to the boys of the training school, and they certainly had a most enthusiastic audience. The entertainment which was entirely voluntarily, lasted from 8:15 to 10, and in its unfolding some of the most noted singers of the city were applauded to the echo by the boys who were insistent on encore after encore. At the close of the performance, the Knights were treated to a hearty lunch by Supr. Corlew of the administration building.

Besides the typical minstrel features solos were sung by James E. Donnelly, Andrew A. McCarthy, Joseph Egan, Charles E. McCarthy, John F. Roane, Jr., James P. McNulty, and others; the end songs were by George C. Sullivan, Edward F. Slattery, Jr., Walter F. Holden, Frank L. Ginty and

Frank P. McCartin. Andrew J. Molloy was interlocutor. The accompaniments were played by John P. Broderick who had general charge of the music.

The members of the minstrel troupe had no end of fun out of their enthusiastic audience, and they declared that it was a pleasure to sing before such lively lads. The steps of the end men, Ginty and Sullivan, stirred up the boys in fine style, and they were very responsive to the songs of James E. Donnelly, especially the "Lauder number 'Tis Nice to Get Up in the Morning, But It's Better to Lie in Bed.' That struck home, and then some."

The minstrel show which will be presented in Associate hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, in which no detail was omitted that would add to the entertaining quality of the performance. Consequently, Lowell people may well expect something of a real high class tomorrow night. The end parts are all well taken by clever artists of the council, all of whom are well known in Lowell.

The performance will begin at 8 o'clock and will be followed by general dancing from 9 o'clock until 11. An evening of genuine pleasure is assured all who attend.

ALLEGES FALSE ARREST

MAN ARRESTED FOR BREAKING AND ENTERING SUES CONSTABLE WHO ARRESTED HIM

The case of Fred W. Blaisdell vs. Frank H. Farmer, both of Tewksbury, came up before Judge Stevens in superior court this morning. The case was one of tort in which the plaintiff claims that he was falsely arrested by the defendant for breaking and entering a camp in Tewksbury, near Silver Lake, which is owned by a Martin Trokas of Somerville. The plaintiff says in his declaration that Mr. Farmer, who is a constable in the town of Tewksbury, maliciously devised without reasonable cause to make a complaint against him for invading and marring the building owned by Martin Trokas. A warrant followed the complaint, he says, and he was arrested and locked up in the Lowell police station, where he remained one day awaiting trial. A few days later his case came to trial in the lower court and he was acquitted.

He claims that the arrest and prosecution were false and malicious, and that as a result of it he has been compelled to undergo a great deal of labor, trouble and expense and that he has suffered greatly in his credit, business and reputation. He asks $5,000 damages.

The defendant's answer is a general denial.

Albert F. Flint represents the plaintiff while Howard, Qua & Rogers are looking after the defendant's interests.

According to the testimony given by the plaintiff, who was the first to testify, he was a fire warden in Tewksbury and had a certain area of land to look after. On the day of his arrest he said, he was coming through the woods near the camp mentioned, when he noticed boys in the camp smoking cigars. He went into the camp, he said, for the purpose of putting them out, as he was afraid they would set fire to the place. A short time after he was arrested by Constable Farmer while he was in his barn, on a charge of breaking and entering. The rest of his testimony had mostly to do with what the boys were doing inside the camp and what the condition of the camp was when he first entered it. It was a drawn out affair and maps were frequently consulted by lawyers for both the plaintiff and defendant.

Martin Trokas, the owner of the camp, was the second witness to testify and he was on the stand but a few minutes when the noon recess was announced. He testified that he did not favor prosecuting the case at the time Blaisdell was arrested because he said he did not know who broke into the camp. He also described the condition of the camp when he came from Somerville to Tewksbury in response to a telephone call by Constable Farmer, who informed him that somebody had broken into it.

The location of the property, which is well known as the Glidden residence, is most desirable. It is situated about 15 minutes' walk from the Boston and Maine depot, and on the car line. The surroundings are attractive in every respect, the neighboring residences being for the most part, large roomy houses, beautifully constructed and with abundant lawn and garden room. There is a spacious yard connected with the property recently purchased by Dr. Laurin and a driveway. The two apartments are reached by separate entrances.

The interior of the dwelling is most artistically arranged. Several massive pieces of furniture, including large beveled glass mirrors, a large, hand-carved and polished dining-room cabinet, and other rich furniture remain in the property and will be for the use of tenants. The ceilings and walls retain the original artistic decorations and these are most pleasing to the eye. The lower tenement consists of five large rooms, with pantry and bath and laundry. Each of the rooms has a spacious bay window of an especially attractive type and the windows themselves are of plate glass. The plate glass is also inserted in the cut-out panels of the parlor and living rooms of the cherry with a wonderful finish. The upstairs apartment has eight rooms, a pantry and bath, including two private rooms on the third floor. The furnishings and equipment of the upper tenement are no less attractive and tasteful than those on the first floor. The floors throughout are of hard wood and highly polished. The house is practically ready for occupancy.

Another two-apartment dwelling has just been completed for Dr. Laurin facing on Wilder street and situated next to the Glidden estate. This, too, is a modern, beautifully appointed house, the lower apartment having six rooms, pantry, bath and laundry, and the upper seven rooms with pantry, bathroom, and laundry accommodations. The parlors, living rooms and chambers are very tastefully decorated, with a beautiful color arrangement. Large windows admit abundant light. The location of this apartment house is, like the other, most desirable. The work on the interior is highly commendable, the floors and woodwork being beautifully polished. In each dining-room is a large combination gas and electric stove.

In both houses there is electric equipment throughout. There is a switch in practically every room, which is most convenient. The doors and woodwork are of the massive, solid, dignified type that delight the discriminating home seeker, and the rich, hand-painted ceilings and borders and the great, hand-carved wall cabinets, mirrors, etc., add greatly to the attractiveness. There is in the Glidden house a large white marble fireplace.

Dr. Laurin has already shown a number of delighted people through these houses and welcomes visitors. An inspection of the properties will prove a genuine treat.

TWO BEAUTIFUL HOUSES

EACH OF TWO APARTMENTS IN FINE LOCATION COMPLETED FOR DR. LAURIN

An excellent opportunity for apartment seekers who desire modern, convenient and finely appointed quarters, and particularly, a beautiful location, is offered in the residence, formerly that of Charles Glidden, situated at 1131 Middlesex street, at the corner of Wilder street. Dr. Theophile Laurin of 546 Middlesex street purchased the property some time ago and has remodeled the magnificent dwelling into an up-to-date two-apartment house.

CALAMITY HOWLERS SILENT

One of the most singular and significant changes that has come over the American public for the past few months is the letting up in the criticism of the democratic administration on economic grounds. It was inevitable that such an energetic, active and altogether able regime should have attracted severe partisan criticism, but in the early days of the war criticism overreached itself, and now the press and public of all parties are united in predicting prosperity and attributing the damaging effects on American business to the great war, where it rightfully belongs.

The reason for this change is not far to seek. Those who so bitterly attacked President Wilson and his supporters do not now love him, but they are more anxious about their own selfish interests than they are about the nation's political future. Though business and financial leaders have been known before now to do everything possible to cause a panic in order to discredit an administration, no party will deliberately invite conditions that make for permanent injury to their cause. It has dawned on political and business leaders alike that if they create distrust and misgiving in the minds of the American people, the business and political interests of the republicans will suffer possibly as much as those of the democrats. Consequently we now hear little or nothing in condemnation of the tariff bill, and the acts that are being exploited in opposition to the administration avoid anything having to do with our national business affairs.

We still hear occasionally, however, from the rabid party critics who view every national contingency with a prejudiced mind and who see nothing but evil in the policies of a democratic administration. One such critic declared a few days ago that "it is now a race between prosperity and 1916," and there is little reason to doubt that he and his kind would be glad to see prosperity delayed long enough to lessen the chances of democratic victory. He will find himself in a minority in his wish that prosperity may not come too soon, for the great masses in the country not only hope but expect that the full tide of prosperity will be upon us before the close of the present year.

There are many indications that we are already embarked on the sea of national prosperity. Manufacturers, finance, commerce are all showing sound returns. We have an enormous trade balance in our favor and it is constantly mounting. The orders of the belligerents for food, clothing, ammunition and other supplies are still pouring in in large quantities, our textile industry is running most satisfactorily, the pressure of unemployment has been relieved and reports from all sections indicate very much improved conditions. The steel-making industry is operating at about 75% of capacity and there is a decided increase in the production of pig iron. Building operations reflect confidence, and all business indications point to speedy improvement. Were it not for lack of shipping, the closing of some foreign markets because of the war and the shortage of dyestuffs, it is probable that our trade would be far ahead of an ordinary normal year.

The First National bank of Boston makes the following statement in its New England letter for April: "The improvement in business sentiment in New England during the past month has been very noticeable. The continued slight improvement in general trade, coupled with easy money conditions, has given great encouragement to the average business man. A decrease in unemployment, a slightly larger output of goods, and an upward trend in prices, seem to point the way toward more normal and profitable business." This conservative statement voices a feeling that even the most partisan papers are now expressing. Everywhere, the attempt to make political capital out of the nation's difficulties seems to have fallen into disfavor.

If the issue in 1916 is to be successfully fought on some act of the administration, whether of commission or omission, something besides the economic conditions of the country will have to be agitated. The trade arguments are all on the side of the democrats for the war has demonstrated that the dream of the high protectionist is impracticable. With practically no imports and no competition we have seen that depression and not prosperity was the order of the day. Yet in the possible developments of the war, it is futile to forecast the events of 1916.

CITY PENSIONS

Though the Massachusetts public has been outspoken in condemnation of indiscriminate pensioning for the past few years, we still see occasional requests for pensions in all our municipalities that are wholly undeserved. The belief has apparently grown among certain classes of public employees that after a number of years passed in comparatively enjoyable tasks at a fair salary and with more advantages than are enjoyed by the average worker, they are to be supported by the community for the remainder of their days.

Commenting on the situation in Boston last Monday, the Boston Herald has something to say which is of interest to all cities and towns of the state. An excerpt will show the soundness and justice of our contemporary's views:

Not only Boston but the other cities of the Commonwealth are today facing a situation which admits of only two alternatives. Either the existing pension regulations must be consolidated into an equitable system and placed upon a contributory basis, or else the municipalities must prepare to bear an additional strain on their tax rates within a very few years. To abolish civil pensions altogether would be the practical remedy. To continue the present shoddy arrangements, with all their unfairness and anomalies, is out of the question. Neither the city authorities nor the legislature can permanently tolerate disorganization in favor of some employees against others. All this was made plain in the report of the state commission on civil pensions, which strongly urged the adoption of the contributory principle. But as yet nothing has come of this recommendation. The problem is one which demands serious attention.

There is nothing exaggerated in this statement, and it is well that all Massachusetts communities should face the two alternatives that the Herald announces. Either the evils of the pensioning system must be eliminated or the public must get ready to pay for the pensions which they tacitly approve in an abnormal tax rate. The increase in pensions is one of the most direct causes of an increase in government, and the pruning knife must be used unsparringly if our people are not to be grievously taxed for the supporting of public employees in undeserved ease.

Pensions cannot altogether be abandoned and they should not be, but no public employee should be granted a pension who has not been incapacitated in the performance of his duty, or who has not contributed towards such a pension. Families of deceased public servants are also entitled to pensions in some cases, but many of the pensions granted are nothing less than outrageous looting of the public treasury.

HELP SUFFERING POLAND

The Lowell public will be given an opportunity on May 1 to come to the aid of distressed Poland, and it is to be hoped that the response will be prompt and generous. Of all the lands that have felt the ruinous hand of war, none have been smitten so heavily, with the possible exception of Belgium, and some reports indicate that conditions in part of Poland are worse than in Belgium. The waves of war have ebbed and flowed backwards and forwards over great spaces of Poland, destroying vegetation, ruining industry, blotting out towns, sucking cities and scattering families like chaff before the wind. German, Austrian and Russian alike have left the mark of war's horrors on a land that has fought valiantly and long for liberty, and in the present turmoil its aspirations are unheeded and the suffering of its people is the first consideration. Added to the horror is the fact that thousands of Poles, partially akin, fight in opposing armies and men that should have one nation and one flag back at each other for the glorification of other races and nations.

Not in charity but in generosity shall the answer of America be to the appeals of Poland, as voiced by Paderewski and the other notable men of Polish extraction. America cannot easily forget the services of Kosciuszko, Pulaski and their followers who bled to give aid to Washington, nor can they be indifferent to the fate of a brave people who struggled so long for liberty but whose aspirations were defeated by the power of militarism. Neither can America forget the great painters, writers and other notable men and women of Polish extraction.

who have enriched the world by their ability and genius. The appeals of Poland come very close to the great heart of America and now she appeals for aid in the hour of the worst affliction in her whole history.

PUBLIC MARKET

Though the people of Lowell have already demonstrated their approval of the public market idea, the legislature has now passed a law that would make it possible for any city of 10,000 or more to establish such a market without more ado. Thus the public market comes to us doubly sanctioned, but there is little apparent interest in the project. This being so, it is natural to assume that there would be but little public interest in the market itself and that consequently it would not prove the benefit intended. To reduce the cost of living, the market would have to be popular with producer and consumer alike, and without the patronage of the public, it would be a complete failure. Where public markets have been established, they have had varying degrees of success or failure, depending on the attitude of the respective communities in which they were located, but there is little to indicate great enthusiasm for the public market here. There are possibilities of reduction in the cost of living, in the public market idea, but if the public does not wish to test them, it is useless to make the experiment.

A GROWING MOVEMENT

According to reports received by Joseph H. Baker, secretary of the clean-up and paint-up campaign committee of Boston, about 350 cities and towns of New England will have such campaigns this spring. Word has also come from other states, indicating that the scope of the activity is widening and many plans are being formulated to make them more effective from year to year. Though in this city not a great deal of enthusiasm was apparent during the preliminary stages of the movement, it is to be hoped that the efforts of those who are planning for a spring revival of externals will be rewarded. No city can be satisfied with one great cleaning annually and maintain its self respect, but at the same time, every city will be the better for a special co-operative effort at a time when the season gives every impetus to renewed zeal for civic cleanliness.

Two very sad accidents occurred in this city last Saturday, each resulting in the death of a child. In North Chelmsford a little fellow was drowned in a canal while on his way to meet his father, and in South street a child was scalded to death by falling into a pail of boiling water. Such things we must always have, but where children are concerned, there should be ceaseless vigilance.

Now that the English admiralty has declared the landing of an army at the Dardanelles to be successful, we may expect a renewal of the attack on the forts that line the waterway to Constantinople. It is doubtful if the Turkish capital can be taken without serious loss but evidently the allies are prepared for any loss in the attempt at success.

With Governor Walsh and Ex-Governor Foss complimenting Charles Sumner Bird, there is no danger that the next campaign will be devoid of interest. While two distinct branches of Massachusetts republicans have difficulty in agreeing it is pleasant to see two such distinguished gentlemen finding a common ground of mutual admiration.

The new law providing that all employers shall supply pure drinking water to their employees will be accepted by the employers with pleasure if they were sure that the water drinking will replace drinking of another kind. Still the law looks like one of those unnecessary humanitarian measures that aim at Utopia or the millennium.

SEEN AND HEARD

Don't forget to swat the fly.

If burglars who stole a boarding house's Sunday dinner are it we are opposed to further punishment.

NO PAY ON SUNDAY

A Chicago judge, in discharging two citizens arrested for refusing to pay for drinks they had gotten in a saloon on Sunday, said: "You do not have to pay for drinks you get in saloons on Sunday. If the saloons are open, they are open in violation of the law. Here is a solution of the question of Sunday excise observance which might be expected to prove effective if strictly applied. Yet it can hardly be said that it would conduce to an orderly Sunday."

A MAKESHIFT

A little boy of five was invited to a children's party. The next day he was giving an account of the fun, and said that each of the little visitors and contributed either a song, a recitation or music for the pleasure of the rest. "Oh, poor little Jack!" said his mother, "how very unfortunate you could do nothing."

"Yes, I could, mother," replied the young hopeful. "I stood up and said my prayers!"—Philadelphia Ledger.

CONSTIPATION OR COMFORT?

There can be neither comfort nor good health where constipation exists. Most people suffer from this cause at intervals, many are chronic victims.

The old-time remedies for this very common complaint are nauseating doses of some powerful purgatives that leave the condition worse than before. In the new laxative, Pinkettes, is presented a dainty, sugar-coated granule, that is free from unpleasant effects, does not upset the stomach nor grip but simply gives nature the needed assistance. Once used, Pinkettes and you will never return to salts, oil and harsh purgatives. Write the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Scranton, N. Y., for a free sample and get a full size 25-cent bottle of Pinkettes from your own druggist.

come to the rescue. A pot of tea, a few slices of bread and a can of these most appetizing, delicious big fish make a lunch that is unexcelled.

There's enough in a can for four persons—six to eight big fish. They are packed in three sauces; tomato, mustard and soured, to suit your taste.

They are unusual in flavor and unusual in size. Each fish is five to seven inches. They are called Sardines only because Uncle Sam says they belong to the Sardine family.

When you ask for them say "Booth's" Sardines. If you don't your grocer will think you mean the ordinary kind. There is no substitute. Insist on Booth's.

ROOF-CLEANING CRUSADE

Something new to worry about has been suggested by the citizens' street cleaning bureau in Chicago. Dirt and rubbish removed from the roofs of downtown buildings filled it is said 14 wagons, as much as would be swept up in a day from four and a quarter miles of downtown streets. Now it is proposed to have the street cleaning department sweep the roofs also. Most of the buildings, it is believed, have not had their roofs cleaned since they were put on. And much of the dirt that fills the air and litters the streets is thought to be blown off these roofs. The promoters of the roof-cleaning idea have undertaken the campaign with all the enthusiasm of disbelievers. They say to sweep the streets and leave the roofs dirty is like the housekeeper who sweeps the dust under the sofa.

EASY AS FLYING

There are some people who like to figure everything out on a percentage basis. For instance as a basis for home appropriations, a savings bank recently published the following table of expenses of running a well conducted home: Food, 35 per cent; housekeeping, 12 per cent; educational, six per cent; luxuries, four per cent; saving, 10 per cent. The percentages are based on the income. For example, if a man had an income of $1000 a year, he might spend for food 35 per cent of it, or $350. For a house he might spend 25 per cent of it, or $250; for clothing he might spend 13 per cent of it, or $130; for housekeeping, he might spend 12 per cent, or $120; for education he might spend six per cent, or $60; for luxuries, four per cent, or $40, and for saving, 10 per cent, or $100. These expenditures would vary much according to the circumstances of a family. If it had a little farm in its back yard, or chicken coop, it might secure its food for less than $300. The rent might be had at a lower rate than $250 a year. The ideal $10 a month household would cost but $150 a year. Costs of clothing vary much, so do costs of education. The allowance of $40 a year for luxuries may be large or small, according to what people consider luxuries. For instance, a man may call a cigar a necessity, and a woman may think it a luxury. Or some people call a summer vacation a necessity, while others do not upon it as a luxury. A saving of 10 per cent of an income is probably a much better saving than is made by the average person. It will be noticed that this estimate of the cost of living makes no provision for the payment of doctors' bills. It may be that these bills, and other necessary charges, not otherwise provided for, come out of the savings.

HONOR

(An interpretation of the times)

A pack of dogs were snoring and napping.

Well, satisfied, glad dogs; suddenly up sprang snarling and snapping.

Some were vilified, mad dogs.

Some one had rung them a rusty bone.

And the chorus had cried, "It is mine, to fight."

Quarrelling and snarling, they leaped to fight.

Howling and growling, their teeth bared.

Till each had lost of his quivering flesh.

More meat than the bone had held when fresh.

Yet on they fought, for, be it known, It is dogish honor to fight for a bone.

GRADUATION DAY DRESS

The proper garb for the sweet girl graduates on graduation day is being discussed with annual earnestness. One class, it appears, has decided to leave the matter to the whims of the young ladies and their parents, which is wise. The main purpose in prescribing a standard of dress that shall not be too expensive for the graduates of limited means is to teach democracy. But in itself such a lesson, applied in this particular, can scarcely be a spasm of the instruction that the school course has not taught democracy, then a rule of dress for graduation day will not amount to much.—Fall River Herald.

COPPER IN WAR

One explanation of the tremendous foreign demand for copper is found in Chancellor Lloyd George's declaration that as much ammunition was used in March in the battle of Neuve Chapelle as in the whole of the Boer war which lasted two years and nine months. Of course the lighter guns were different, but the statement shows how modern warfare has advanced since a comparatively recent period. Copper is needed for ammunition and the British can't begin to get all they want of it. That is why England is buying practically all our output and making not only 20-cent but 25-cent metal a probability.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

POWERFUL BOMB FOUND AT CONSTANTINOPLE

PARIS, April 27.—A powerful clock-work bomb was found hidden yesterday in the ministry of war at Constantinople, according to a despatch from London. It was timed to explode at a hour when the council would be in session. The meetings of this body are attended by Enver Pasha, minister of war, Field Marshal Von Der Goltz and Gen. Liman von Sanders.

An investigation is said to have disclosed that the bomb was placed in the room by a sweep, who had come to clean the chimney and who then disappeared. Several minor officials connected with the ministry of war have been arrested on suspicion of being accomplices. The police believe the plot was directed against the Germans. Members of the Young Turks are said to have decided at a meeting to which no Germans were admitted to adhere to a waiting policy but to favor the conclusion of a separate peace with the allies if Germany failed to provide assistance sufficient to repulse an attack on the Dardanelles.

House of Correction Sentences for Lead Pipe Swipers

Charged with stealing lead pipe and other bathroom paraphernalia from property belonging to the Wheelock estate, Miles P. Ralls and William J. Dalton, both about 17 years of age, were found guilty and given sentences to the house of correction by Judge Knight in police court this forenoon. Ralls, who pleaded guilty to two complaints, was ordered to serve a six months' sentence while Ralls was given four months on one complaint. William D. Regan appeared for Dalton, Ralls was without counsel.

The two youths were arrested about two weeks ago by Lieut. Maher while attempting to dispose of a large quantity of lead, copper, etc. When confronted at the police station they admitted stealing the lead and said they intended to sell it to junk men.

One of the buildings visited by the lieut. is located in Swallow place and here it is alleged, they ripped off the valuable metal from five bath rooms and old damage amounting to $75, according to plumbers. Dalton also told of visiting a house at 62-21 Adams

SIR JOHN FRENCH REPORTS GERMAN DRIVEN BACK AT MANY POINTS

LONDON, April 27.—The following report was received from Field Marshal Sir John French today:

"Yesterday all German attacks north-east of Ypres were repulsed. In the afternoon our troops took the offensive and made progress near St. Julien and to the west of that place."

"The French co-operated on our left and further to the north they retook Hat Sas."

"In the course of yesterday's fighting our artillery took full advantage of several opportunities for inflicting severe casualties on the enemy."

"On the remainder of the front there is nothing to report."

MOISTURE SITUATION SERIOUS

Official published figures, says the Hampshire county improvement league, show that there is only about 80 per cent. of the normal amount of water in the soil so far this season, and present indications are that the moisture situation for the coming season will be extremely serious. Thus it behooves everyone to make every effort that is possible to conserve the moisture that is in the soil already. There are hundreds of acres of land in this country that were plowed last fall which have not been touched with the harrow yet.

"This means that there are tons and tons of water being lost by evaporation. The only way to conserve this moisture is by forming a surface mulch by harrowing and cultivating. This should be done immediately. All of our corn and potato land which has been plowed should likewise be harrowed to stop the slow and harrowing as to prevent further evaporation. When we realize that each ton of dry matter produced from the corn crop requires 500 tons of water, there will be needed a tremendous amount of moisture to produce our large crops."

POSTAL CARD FROM FRANCE
COLORS

Roderick E. Jodoin, the well known Merrimack street optician, is in receipt of a very interesting postal card from a member of the French army in Europe. Rev. Bro. Gonzalvus, a former teacher at St. Joseph's college, this city, who left Lowell last fall to join his regiment in the great European conflict.

Bro. Gonzalvus in military circles is known by his family name, J. B. Escahier and he is a member of the 27th company of the 57th regiment, now located at Chambery, Savoie, on the Italian frontier. The postal card is a new innovation in France. On the left corner of the card is a handsome emblem consisting of the French and British colors. Underneath the flags are pictures of General Joffre of the French army and General Foch of the British forces. Above the flags is the inscription "De Part Bonheur" (I bring you joy) and below the inscription, "Honneur aux Allies" (Glory to the Allies). The card is the official postal card for the British and French soldiers stationed on the French territory.

The card is dated April 1, and the writer wishes to be remembered to all his acquaintances in Lowell, especially to his former pupils at St. Joseph's college. The brother states since his arrival in France he has been stationed in the southern part of the country, where he received military instructions. In the latter part of March he was transferred to Chamberry, in the Alps mountains on the frontier of Italy, where he says he awaits orders to go to the front to take the place of his brethren who are being killed. "We keep constant watch on the frontier," continued the writer, "and we are filled with enthusiasm and a great desire to cross bayonets or exchange a few shots with German soldiers."

Bro. Gonzalvus speaks of the bravery and efficient service of the Canadian soldiers, a large number of whom have lost their lives on the battlefield, and he concludes by saying he believes the war is not soon to end.

FORMER LOWELL PASTOR

REV. E. P. HERRICK ASSUMES HIS DUTIES AT PARKER STREET CHURCH, LAWRENCE

LAWRENCE, April 27.—Rev. E. P. Herrick, formerly of Chelsea, assumed his new pastorate at the Parker Street Methodist church here yesterday, delivering two eloquent sermons at the morning and evening services respectively. The church was crowded with parishioners at both services to give the new pastor a royal welcome and special music was provided on both occasions by the church choir, under the direction of Mr. Thorne.

Rev. Mr. Herrick, who succeeds Rev. John Mason as pastor of the church, expressed himself last night as greatly pleased with his new field after his first day here. He said that the congregation seemed to be in excellent working order and he hopes to accomplish great things during his stay here.

In the morning at 10:30 o'clock Rev. Mr. Herrick preached an eloquent sermon on "The Great Salvation" and in the evening at 8:30 o'clock took for his subject "The True Source of Power." Both sermons created a lasting impression upon the congregation, several of whom have expressed their desire to be highly pleased with the pastor assigned to them by the recent conference.

Rev. E. P. Herrick, who has been assigned to the Parker Street church, is the son of Rev. A. F. Herrick, who for many years was a well known Methodist preacher. He has a brother, A. H. Herrick, who has just been appointed to the pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church, Bradford.

Rev. Mr. Herrick was educated at Wesleyan university and Boston university, School of Theology. Among his pastorate have been Waltham, Ashbury Temple, Springfield, Grace church, Leominster and Lowell, Worthen street. He is just leaving Chelsea first church where he has been for five years.

SUN BOWLING TEAM WON

DEFEATED BOSTON-AMERICAN QUINTETS BY 106 PINS—NOTES HIGH MAN

The Sun bowling squad wound up its winter campaign in "one of the greatest battles" ever waged on local alleys when it decisively defeated the Boston-American quintet by 106 pins. From the cracking of the first sun until the last rapid fire delivery had been directed against the bickering Boston representatives kept up an unrelenting fusillade that swept away the pins like leaves before the storm.

The battle opened most auspiciously for the Sun boys for in the first string they put 84 more pins out of action than did the Americans. In the second charge against the wooden pins they maintained their aggressive onslaught by sweeping down 59 more than their opponents, while in the third attack they eased up and allowed the enemy to come off with a seven pin lead.

The Sun was high man with a "330" and a "114" for the vanquished Captain Katz led with a "293" and a "112." Besides these high scores, the effectiveness of the Sullivan clanmen on the bowling line for the Sun was most pronounced. The official statement:

LOWELL: SUN—Pilotte, 238; Driscoll, 244; Frank Sullivan, 250; Joe Sullivan, 259; Total, 1351.

BOSTON-AMERICAN—Katz, 238; Ready, 217; Gooding, 241; Higgins, 243; Erdie, 243; Total, 1215.

J. C. AYER PLANT CLOSED

OUT OF RESPECT TO JOHN J. BRINE WHOSE FUNERAL TOOK PLACE THIS MORNING

The funeral of the late John J. Brine, superintendent of printing at the J. C. Ayer company, took place this morning from the home of the deceased in Hoyt avenue with impressive funeral services at the Immaculate Conception church, a large congregation attending the church services. The plant of the J. C. Ayer company shut down in all departments this morning out of respect to the deceased, and the entire force, headed by Dr. Charles H. Stowell, manager, attended the services in a body.

The deceased was one of the most valued employees of the Ayer company, through his exceptional ability and conscientious efforts he had contributed materially to its success during his membership of 15 years.

The mourners included many out of town friends, among whom were Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brine, Winchester, Mass.; Mrs. Wyman, Cambridge, Mass.; Mrs. Lovell, Arlington, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gray, Boston; Hon. and Mrs. John M. Maloney, Ayer, Mass.; Mr. John W. Benson, New York, N. Y.; Miss Susie McNamara, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. George Keating, Ayer, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. McNamara, Broomfield, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch, Woburn; Miss Alice Brine, Watertown; Mr. Philip Brine, Cambridge; Mrs. Philip Johnson, Somerville; Mrs. Ruth Perham, Somerville, and others.

Solemn high mass of requiem was sung by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., assisted by Rev. Owen P. McQuaid, O. M. I., deacon, and Rev. James J. McCartin, O. M. I., subdeacon. The choir under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Walker rendered the Gregorian mass. At the offertory, Mr. Walker sang the impressive "Domine Jesu Christi," and after the offertory Mr. William L. Gookin rendered Leybach's "Fle Jesu." The solo in the "Libera" was sung by the choir from the church a male quartet, consisting of Mr. Cornelius Quinn, for singing of Mr. Cornelius Quinn, for many years associated with the deacons of the J. C. Ayer company, Mr. John J. Dalton, Mr. William L. Gookin, Mr. David P. Martin, sang "De Profundis." Mr. Quinn sustaining the solos. As the funeral procession was being re-formed Mrs. Walker rendered "Lead, Kindly Light," and "Nearer, My God, to Thee," on the organ.

The remains were escorted by a delegation from the Knights of Columbus, consisting of Grand Knight Joseph F. Roark, Supt. of Schools Hugh J. Molloy, P. J. Guthrie, Lawrence Cummings, Daniel H. Walker, Walter F. Connolly and John V. Donohue.

The casket was borne by former Commissioner James E. Donnelly, Edward J. Gallagher of The Sun, Martin H. Reddy of The Sun, John H. Griffin, Dennis J. Flynn and George A. Gray of the Boston Post.

The interment was in the family lot in St. Patrick's cemetery where the service at the grave was read by Rev. Dennis A. Sullivan, O. M. I., and the funeral was in charge of Undertaker Peter H. Savage.

A wealth of floral tributes testified fragrant to the esteem in which the deceased was held, and among them was a massive pillow from the widow and children; a wreath from the mother of the deceased, Mrs. James Brine, of Watertown, Mass., and others of varied and beautiful design from the following: Mrs. Martin Halloran, Misses Margaret and Mary Halloran, Mr. and Mrs. Philip L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wyman, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lovell, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brine, Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Lynch, Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gray, J. C. Ayer company, employees of printing department of J. C. Ayer company, Benson family, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. William Fairbanks, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, Mrs. Costello and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Gallagher, Eugene Toomey and James Galvin, Misses Susan and Margaret McNamara, Mrs. P. O'Connell and family, Patrick J. Concannon and John H. Griffin, Mrs. Margaret Maloney and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Byrne and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hart, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Mulcahey, Mrs. J. M. Maloney of Ayer, John Hancock Life Insurance Co., Boston; William G. Stretton, Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty and family, Mrs. Mary Winn and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Cronin, Mr. and Mrs. John McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McNamara, Anna T. Gallagher, Mrs. Mary and Willie Howard, Miss Catherine Winn, and Mr. and Mrs. John Halloran.

LADY LOOKABOUT

Having once or twice passed through our downtown streets in an automobile, I have the keenest sympathy for a pedestrian who collides with a motorist. One really must ride through the main streets a few times before he can realize how thoughtful and how circumspect a person crossing the street can be. I will not mention the person who rushes blindly from the curb into the street without a glance in either direction. His and often her name is Legion. There is another class—its members think they have exhausted every precaution of safety when they have looked in one direction before leaving the sidewalk. Almost invariably, if they are crossing from their right side, they look to see if any accident is coming their way from their right, or the left side of the street. Now the law compels vehicles to shun the left and keep to the right. Acting in obedience to this law, naturally the vehicles start that side when it is their left. The individual forgets to look the other way, and he seldom knows the menace his side to drivers who are approaching from that direction.

On the other hand, motorists need to exercise every precaution. They must not only look out for themselves but for every pedestrian on the street. Many of them do not do this. Never have I seen such speed in the heart of a city as I have seen in Lowell this spring. Sounding a horn does not give a machine right of way, yet many operators appear to think it does. The wonder is that there are not more accidents. Circumstances seem to combine to invite them.

Old Abe Eagle

I smiled to myself a short time ago when I saw that famous Old Abe eagle carried through the Civil war, and whose stuffed skin holds a position of honor in the state house. I believe in Albany, proves to be a lady eagle. This must be a shock to the anti-feminists, for anti-feminism is strong in the air. Only this week a body of Indians waited on a representative of the state house in Lowell, but I am sure a barber shop in our own municipal building would be a boon to many of our politicians. When the time comes for women to hold political office, every municipal building will have beauty parlors. There is not a doubt of it!

Monk and Cigar Stand

Boston's city hall is to have a cigar stand. It is difficult to know just what objection can be raised to this plan, yet there is much to be heard. I cannot say just how much I stand in need of Lowell, but I am sure a barber shop in our own municipal building would be a boon to many of our politicians. When the time comes for women to hold political office, every municipal building will have beauty parlors. There is not a doubt of it!

Her Favorite Songster

Again the little song sparrow is with us. Of all our feathered songsters of richer and more beautiful voice, robin, oriole, bluebird, thrush,—it is the sweet little tune of the song sparrow I love the best. Something within me responds to his happy optimism, and something in the song awakes memories, saddest of all because they bring back the carefree days of childhood. Again I feel the warm sun of spring; again I see three brave birds frightened into flight by the old plow-horse's back, the father holding the plow-handles and encouraging the children to hang on; a flock of hungry hens tumbling over each other in their zeal for worms, following the plow; I see the happy mother, her eyes shining with joy, looking on the picture from the door of the tiny cottage, while from the topmost branch of the old pear tree—how well I remember its fruit which always gave us blueberries—sits a little song sparrow, singing as though his tiny throat would burst. Often I have seen an old plow-horse, often I have eaten his honeycombed ears; often I have smelled the freshly turned earth and felt the warm sun, but it is the sound of the song sparrow's voice that adds the magic touch and takes me back over the years.

Payne Rent

I felt sorry for the Pawtucketville storekeeper mentioned a few weeks ago in The Sun. For ten years he had been paying rent for a store and tenement. The landlord wanted the store, and the man was asked to vacate. Before he left he asked for a receipt for the rent he had paid during the ten years. He was given a receipt for $2500—that scrap of paper was all he had to show for the money he had paid his landlord. How much better off that man would have been if he had paid his rent into a place of property of his own. This is a concrete illustration of what real estate men and bankers are always preaching, yet it is only when we hear of something of this kind first hand that we are impressed. Yet just at present some property owners say the man who pays rent is better off than he who owns the tenement.

Lucky Stone Trial

It was amusing to read in the "Lucky Stone" trial held in Boston last week, of the simple faith in charms entertained by persons of education and position. Superstition and fantasy seem to be really elemental in the human race, and I do not believe any one is wholly without them. Nearly everyone, even those he deifies, takes a sort of negative pleasure in indulging in little foolish tricks and customs and where is the harm? There is none unless we permit ourselves to become obsessed of them. Literature abounds with fantasy. Hawthorne, Poe, Irving and even Kipling have indulged freely in it, and surely it is far more lovely and fanciful than the realism of Hugo and Zola.

"Birth of a Nation"

The controversy in Boston during the past week between the authorities and a theatrical manager over the presentation of a film objectionable to a certain element of the population, should have been wholly unnecessary. Kindly feeling toward humanity in general should be sufficient to suppress a film, the presentation of which would bring pain to many, and tend to reopen old wounds which, after fifty years, apparently yet are unhealed. Judging from the newspapers, the story depicted by the film, "The Birth of a Nation," does not convey a lesson, nor a message. It does stir up prejudice unfavorable to a people who have labored against odds to become respected citizens, and none can deny that on the whole they have been successful. I feel that by indulging in narrowness and intolerance, by closing our eyes and our sympathies to the frailties, the struggles and the aspirations of an individual or of a class, we are retrograding and not progressing along the lines of advancement.

CHILD GETS SICK CROSS, FEVERISH IF CONSTIPATED

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach or bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

LETTER NO. 3 FROM THE TURNER CENTRE CREAMERY

A great many people are asking our drivers and salesmen why is milk pasteurized and what is the process. Cows as well as people have their ailments. Oftentimes when apparently well, they are the victims of some disease which makes their milk unsafe. Then, too, the men who milk the cows and handle the milk may have some disease the germs of which find their way into the milk. Pasteurization is the process that destroys dangerous germs or bacteria. So many diseases and epidemics have been traced directly to milk that in many places pasteurization is required by law.

Intelligent people everywhere are asking for pasteurized milk because it is safe. We have the newest and best pasteurizers made. You will find our milk to be free from disease germs and "off" flavors. Give it a trial.

GOLD DUST

—it actually works at hundreds of tasks daily

"Let the Gold Dust Twins do your work" is much more than a popular phrase. It is based on truth, an actuality, for Gold Dust really works.

The millions of women who use it for dishwashing and scrubbing know this. But Gold Dust should be used for cleaning and brightening everything. It is the only washing and cleaning powder needed in any home.

The small quantity required is quickly taken up by hot or cold, hard or soft water—forming a perfect cleaning solution. The valuable antiseptic cleansing agent it contains helps to make things sanitariously clean, as well as bright and new-looking.

BUSY SEASON—MANY CARS SOLD THIS WEEK—AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE NEWS

One of the most important additions to take place at the Boston Auto Supply Co. is the recent installation of a gasoline tank. The tank itself is situated in the rear of the shop and a pipe leads from it to the pump which is situated in the front doorway. The tank and pump were purchased from the Eastern Oil Tank Co. of this city. The pump is of the self-measuring type and it registers not only the number of gallons which is pumped for each customer but also indicates the remaining contents of the tank. The pump may be operated in two ways for it has a faucet from which gasoline can be drawn into a five-gallon measure and it also has another outlet through which by means of a tube extension the gas can be pumped directly into the car. The pump is entirely enclosed in a massive metal envelope which is of a bright red color and cannot but attract the attention of every automobilist who passes by.

Arthur Bachelder can tell an interesting story of his thrilling experience in Reverse last Sunday.

This is the busy season for the Donovan Harness Co. This company is receiving many orders for upholstery and auto tops.

At the end of each day there are 1500 new Ford cars in existence. On these hot days call upon one of the dealers advertised on this page and you will "get there" safely and with comfort.

The motorcycle will be represented strongly in the coming Fourth of July parade. It is the intention of Dr. Gibson, who is secretary of the F. A. M., to write to all the motorcycle clubs of New England which are affiliated with the F. A. M. to parade in Lowell on that day.

Joe McGarry of the Boston Auto Supply Co. is having quite a run on "day and night" auto goggles and locks for Ford cars. These locks are a clever convenience which is attached to a Ford car renders the car "unstealable."

In addition to a large number of motorcycle sales, the Lowell Cycle shop is delivering a big number of bicycles. So busy has this shop been that it has been necessary to work late into the night in order to keep the work ahead from piling up. This shop is one of the busiest of its kind in the city.

On May 1st at 1 o'clock a big auction sale of used cars will be held at Jean's salesrooms, 31 Shattuck street. These auction sales of automobiles are proving very popular among those who wish to sell their cars quickly. In these sales there are many attractive bargains to be had and one who is contemplating the purchase of a used car will do well to attend.

During the past week Mr. Rochelle of the Lowell Motor Mart has made the following sales of Ford cars: John F. Linsland, Buttrick road, touring car; Tom Smith, Gorham street, touring car; U. S. Cartridge Co., touring car; C. A. Hosmer, Oakland street, touring car; R. F. Carson, Tewksbury, touring car; Anthony P. Hogan, touring car; Omer Descheneaux, Tyngsboro, touring car.

Sawyer's shop on Warren street has one of the most experienced men in New England in their trimming department and the high grade work turned out in the line of tops, envelopes, slip linings, etc., easily speaks for itself.

Harley-Davidson first and second, time 1:24.17 1-5, breaking all previous records for 300 miles is in brief, the story of the recent race at Venice, Cal. Otto Walker of Oakland, Cal., won the first prize of $500 with an added $100 for his record-shattering performance, and Leslie (Red) Parkhurst of Milwaukee crossed the line 15.25 seconds after, winning the second prize of $500.

The Harley-Davidson victory with imported motors was all the more remarkable because Walker and Parkhurst defeated all kinds of machines, the race being open to everything. Harley-Davidson on March 17, over the same course and when it was in better condition, won in 4:24.09 2-5 without a stop. Walker stopped five times, twice for changing his spark plugs and three times for gasoline and oil.

Averaging 65 1-2 miles per hour, elapsed time, the 300 miles, means that Walker attained speeds of better than 90 miles per hour on the straight-aways. The Venice course has three right angle turns and two turns of a greater radius. Walker's time with five stops was only 7-4-5 seconds slower than Harley-Davidson. Both Walker and Parkhurst made better time with their imported Harley-Davidsons than Carlson, Ruckstell, Marquis, Hearne and other dare-devil automobile drivers in the March 17 race over the Venice course.

HOUSE-CLEANING THE CAR
Spring is here, and just as it is customary to clean house, why not "house-clean" the automobile. Give it a good looking over and cleaning up after the hard winter service in the cold, snow, and mud, and get ready for warm weather and the touring season.

If you have driven your car during the cold weather you have undoubtedly been using anti-freeze in the radiator, and putting more oil than necessary in the engine. The oil in the motor clutch, transmission, and rear axle has probably been thinned down and the engine has, without doubt, been run with a very rich mixture due to the cold weather, with the result that the cylinders are probably more or less carbonized.

By "house-cleaning" your automobile, is not meant that it should be torn down, and every part gone over in an elaborate and expensive manner, but any car should be cleaned up and put in condition and adjustment for the summer months.

1. Give the car a thorough cleaning, inside and out. Clean underneath and wash the mud out of the frame channels. Clean up the engine with an oil rag, removing the mud, dirt, excess grease, etc. Clean out the compartments under the seats, brushing any dirt or dust which may have accumulated out of the tonneau and driver's compartment. Clean out the door pockets. In a word, remove all mud, dust, and excess grease from all parts of the car.

2. Drain the cooling system, removing the drain plug from radiator, water pump, or radiator intake pipe, according to the model. If it is a pet cock, remove it entirely so as to give free drainage, and flush out the entire system with a hose. It is well to put the hose in the filler of the radiator, wrap a rag around it, and force water in under a slight pressure so as to get all the sediment washed out of radiator and water jackets. After this, close the drain hole and fill the system with clean water.

3. Drain the oil out of the crank case, clutch case, transmission case, and rear axle, and wash all of these parts with good, clean gasoline or kerosene. If you use gasoline, be careful of fire, and throw the dirty gasoline away, so that there will be no danger of its becoming ignited. Do not pour gasoline down the sewer. Kerosene is the safer and better of the two, because while it does not cut the grease quite as well as gasoline, it is safer to handle and leaves the bearings, or whatever it may come in contact with, partly lubricated, as it is somewhat of a lubricant itself.

4. After thoroughly washing these various cases, put the drain plugs back, insuring that they are screwed in tightly, so that they will not work out, and fill the various compartments, with fresh, clean lubricants. The crank case should be filled to the upper try cock with any first class cylinder oil or an oil of the following specifications: Viscosity (Tagitabue) at 70 degrees Fahr., Not below 220; at 100 degrees Fahr., Not below 220; Gravity at 60 degrees Fahr., Not below 220; Flash point, Not below 400 degrees Fahr.; Cold test, Not below 30 degrees Fahr. The steering gear should be thoroughly gone over to make sure that the various joints are free from back lash and that all joints and moving parts are thoroughly lubricated. If it is not necessary to clean out the steering gear, but it is a good thing to force in three or four grease cups full of fresh grease.

5. If the cylinders are badly carbonized, after the car is "house-cleaned," it can be taken to a garage and the carbon burned out with oxygen flame. An outfit for doing this work is to be found now, in practically every town, and village in the country. If a flame is not available, it will then be necessary to open up the head and clean the carbon out. If the cylinders are but slightly carbonized, give them a generous treatment of kerosene the first thing, and let it stand until you are ready to run the car again. Then for several nights thoroughly soak each cylinder with kerosene, letting it stand over night, and you will find that the carbon will gradually disappear.

6. Thoroughly clean and adjust the spark plugs. Look them over carefully to insure that the porcelain is not cracked.

7. If the valves are in bad shape, have them reground, but if they are in fair condition, let them alone.

8. Look over the ignition system for loose terminals, examining the wires for chafed spots. Be sure to tighten up any loose terminals and if you find a wire chafed, it would be well to wrap it with a piece of friction tape, which may be obtained from any automobile electrical supply house. Only a small piece of tape may be needed, but it would be well to buy a roll, because it is a good thing to carry in the tool kit for emergency purposes.

9. Go all over the car, and feel every visible nut, bolt, and screw with a wrench or screw driver, and if any loose ones are found, tighten them up. Pay attention to the spring clips, because they are very likely to have worked loose, and to require tightening. Be sure that the body bolts are tight.

ly washed and polished. Have the metal work all gone over, cleaned and polished. Clean your carpets, slip covers, etc. Then put your tools, spare tubes, a few clean rags, and any other articles which you may carry, into the car.

To go over a car as outlined above is more or less troublesome, but at the same time, if one enjoys caring for his own automobile, it is a real pleasure to clean and tune it up, and make ready for the summer. If not, the car should be given over to the above number by some good service man, and the money which it will cost will be well spent. You will be repaid many times; by going into the summer with a better-running and more satisfactory car, by the added length of life which this clean-up will give to your car, and the fact that when you get out on a long drive, you are thoroughly ready for it mechanically.

As we are almost into the touring season, remember that your automobile is a piece of machinery, and must be kept in good shape.

Prisoners on highways. Bills have been introduced into the Massachusetts legislature to provide that prisoners may be employed in large numbers upon the highways of the state.

Last year an amendment was passed permitting prisoners to be used by counties, cities and towns on the roads, the same to be worked under the custody of the local sheriffs. The bills seek to broaden the scope of this work and to place it under the supervision of the state highway commissioner, as recommended by the national committee on prisons and prison labor.

The people of Massachusetts have heard through the committee of the success which has attended convict work in the score of states. In Colorado's wonderful roads, worth $2,500,000 and built by prisoners for less than $50,000; also that West Virginia is saving over 53 cents per cubic yard by having her prisoners build roads; and that Iowa is able to pay her prisoners $2.50 per day for their road work.

Massachusetts never lags behind the other states in any upward movement, and the national committee on prisons and prison labor has been assured that this year will see the legislation enacted which will bring her in line with other progressive states in the matter of convict road work.

SACRAMENTO WINS
Yes, it's been definitely decided. Sacramento will get the 1915 national convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists—just as had been predicted. And anyway everyone agreed that the west was entitled to the 1915 meet, especially since no convention of the association has ever been held west of the Rockies.

The date of the assembly will be July 21 to 24 inclusive. This will give motorcyclists who wish to ride their machines to the convention, ample time to reach the coast after attending the annual 30-mile championship at Dodge City on July 3.

AERIAL TUMBLING
Visitors to the San Francisco fair say that for the last exploits in aviation no one in the country is a match for Art Smith, who is a sensation at the big show. His exhibition of "aerial insanity," as he calls it, has astounded exhibition visitors from all over the country. Smith holds the record for looping the loop, with 22 consecutive loops.

He starts at a height of 7500 feet and then turns loop after loop like a tumbler-pigeon until he is just above the ground.

Nor are the loops his only contribution to the astonishment of the crowds. A kite in a zale of wind couldn't act more insanely. Right over the crowds and not more than five hundred feet high, he rolls over sideways, somersaults forward and backward, and then rolls downstalls.

MEDICAL FAKERS HELD

THEY FLEECED MANY FOR ALLEGED TREATMENT WITH EXPENSIVE DRUGS

NEW YORK, April 27.—Henry J. Schlerson, one of those arrested last Wednesday in the round up of medical museum men and alleged quacks, made a long statement yesterday to District Attorney Perkins and Assistant District Attorney Wilmet and promised all assistance in his power to clear up the quackery case.

Taking his statement was part of a busy day's work for Mr. Wilmet and George W. Whitehead, counsel for the New York Medical society, who until present prosecutions have ended and other arrests been made will have headquarters at the district attorney's office for a day or two. Schlerson's statement is considered very valuable. His office here was at 315 Madison avenue, and he was accused under the public nuisance section and as practicing medicine without a license. Schlerson admitted he is not registered as a physician in this state. He insisted his patients had been treated in accordance with the best medical practice, yet said he knew the inside of the game carried on by men less scrupulous and promised to tell all he knew.

PERJURY CHARGE

Hotel Clerk on Trial—Identified Jas. W. Osborne as "Oliver"

NEW YORK, April 27.—Franklin D. Safford, hotel clerk of Plainfield, N. J., was placed on trial today charged with perjury in identifying James W. Osborne, a former assistant district attorney of New York county, as the "Oliver Osborne" who registered at the hotel with Miss Rao Tanager. The alleged perjury was in connection with a suit filed by Miss Tanager, since discontinued claiming $50,000 damages from Mr. Osborne for breach of promise of marriage.

Miss Tanager and two of her sisters, Nora and Rose, all under indictment in the case, were spectators at the trial.

A man told Mr. Whitehead he had gone to "Dr. Brown," believing he had rheumatism, and had been examined with an X-ray and told he had "lead" bones. He said he paid $25 down, got some pills and after that made no more payments.

Another man told Mr. Whitehead he had gone to "Dr. Ward's" place for treatment, paid $35, and $3 a week for two years without getting a dismissal. A poor woman said she had agreed to pay $35 for a course of treatment.

GIVEN SEVEN MONTHS

HEAD OF JEWELERS' ART-SCHOOL JAILED FOR USING MAIL TO DEFAUD PUPILS

NEW YORK, April 27.—Conrad Schicklering, president of the International Jewelers' Art school, who was recently convicted of using the mails to defraud hundreds of pupils by promising to make them expert diamond setters in three months and to get them positions, was today sentenced by Federal Judge Farrington to seven months in the New York county penitentiary.

MORE HELP NEEDED
Free Trips to England and Return For Skilled Workmen Willing to Fill Places in Armament Firms

LONDON, April 27.—Free trips to England and return are foreshadowed for skilled workmen in the United States and in the colonies of Great Britain who are willing to fill the shortage among the armament-firms in the British Isles.

Francis D. Acland, financial secretary of the treasury, announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the government was taking steps to obtain such help in the production of munitions of war. Free transportation would be arranged, he said, if suitable labor was discovered without displacing the men already effectively engaged in these countries.

CAMPAIN AGAINST CANCER

RUHLAND, Vt., April 27.—The officials of the Vermont Medical association announced today that because of the high death rate from cancer in Vermont a state-wide educational campaign with speakers of national reputation would be instituted.

got medical training in the Maryland Medical college and subsequently passed examinations which admitted him to practice in Massachusetts, Vermont, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

Schlerson said he came here in 1912 and had employed three of the persons arrested last week. He will add to his statement, Frank Moss is his counsel.

Although their proprietors are under arrest, patients besieged the institutes and medical office yesterday. The girls were sent to the district attorney's office to learn why she could not continue treatment to "make her heart pump right." Although she earns only $5 a week, she said she had contracted to make $25 for a course of treatment and had paid $25.

A man told Mr. Whitehead he had gone to "Dr. Brown," believing he had rheumatism, and had been examined with an X-ray and told he had "lead" bones. He said he paid $25 down, got some pills and after that made no more payments.

BARNES-ROOSEVELT CASE
Continued

"Did you value Senator Platt's advice?" asked Mr. Barnes.

"I am unable to say," replied the colonel.

Questioning Col. Roosevelt on the last letter read yesterday Mr. Barnes asked:

Enjoyed Being Governor

"Is it true you enjoyed being governor?"

"Thoroughly," said the witness smiling.

The spectators and jury roared with laughter.

"Did you seek Senator Platt's advice as a boss?"

"No,"

"Did he advise you to accept the nomination?"

"Don't say 'advise,' sir," said Mr. Roosevelt.

"Well, as a result of your interview with Boss Platt did he so advise you?"

Colonel Roosevelt's counsel's objection to the question was sustained.

Mr. Barnes picked up the package of letters.

Col. Roosevelt asked for and received a pencil and paper.

Platt Suggested Purroy

The first letter read was from Senator Platt to Col. Roosevelt, dated Feb. 3, 1900. In the letter the senator postponed an engagement because of the illness of Mrs. Platt. The senator also wrote:

"Perhaps Henry Purroy would be a wise selection for the charter commission."

Among the spectators in the room today was Charles Sprague, author of the book "A Road of Prosperity," in which Col. Roosevelt was freely criticized. Chancellor Day sat close to the witness chair and watched Col. Roosevelt as he answered questions.

The following letter, written by Senator Platt, dated Feb. 5, 1900, was read:

Letter from Platt

"I have hardly had time to give the consideration it deserves to your letter of Feb. 1 and the matters involved therein and am inclined to take more time for making the republican view of the presidential question is a very important one and a great deal depends upon it."

"Mrs. Platt's condition is considerably improved and it looks now as though I should be able to get to New York soon, at which time we can personally discuss the vice presidential and other questions."

"Did you discuss the question in pursuance of that letter?" asked Mr. Barnes.

"I did," replied the colonel.

Then this reply from Col. Roosevelt, dated Feb. 7, 1900, was read:

"Your very kind note has just been received. I note that you expect to be in New York on Saturday. If so I shall not try to lunch with you, but if convenient I will call on you at the Fifth Avenue hotel at 3 o'clock. My train gets in at 1.30 and so I do not suppose I could get to the hotel in time to take lunch with you. Will you wire me on receipt of this note?"

"P. S. I saw Kerns and told him I had written you that I would not take the vice presidency, but I wanted nothing said until I had a chance to talk matters over with you. I would a great deal rather be anything, say professor of history, than vice president."

A letter Colonel Roosevelt wrote to Senator Platt, Feb. 11, 1900, was read. It related to legislation of a local character which the colonel wrote was "entirely conservative and proper" but which "Tammany, under the leadership of Senator Thomas P. Grady, is endeavoring to defeat."

Carried Out Promises

Senator Platt was asked to "communicate with Mr. Odell on the subject at once." On this legislation Col. Roosevelt wrote "I have merely been carrying out the promise I made you." The promise it developed on examination of the witness turned on the fact that the governor (Roosevelt) had refused to sign a bill on the matter but agreed that "if a proper one was passed I would sign it."

In reply Senator Platt wrote: "I will telegraph Odell at once and urge him to limit the republican bill, and unite in favor of the bill. If you can find that any further endeavors are necessary on my part I shall be only too glad to carry out any advice or suggestion in this behalf."

In the next letter Col. Roosevelt discussed legislative matters and the commission which was appointed to revise the New York charter.

"Friends in New York Anxious"

Then this telegram dated May 7, 1900, from Senator Platt to Colonel Roosevelt was read:

"Our friends of New York Central are very anxious to have you sign senate bill 763 exempting from the franchise tax grade crossings of steam railroads."

"I hope you can consistently do so. Senator Depey is very anxious."

The following was Col. Roosevelt's reply:

"I received your telegram and one from Ford yesterday. It was too late for me to act as I had already published a memorandum stating not merely that Ford was against the bill but that the state tax commissioners opposed the bill."

"I did not receive your telegram until yesterday (Sunday). It was then altogether too late to get at the commission and again go over the matter with them. I am exceedingly sorry if any hardship has been caused either to the New York Central or the Long Island railroad but it was a matter where I really had to act according to the advice of the commission unless it could be shown that they were in the wrong."

Several other letters were read.

Wanted Wakeman Ousted

Col. Roosevelt was apparently trying to find a job for Mr. E. S. Wakeman under William P. Wakeman, federal appraiser at New York. Senator Platt said Wakeman had no chance while Wakeman was in office, but that (Platt) wanted to have Wakeman removed.

Senator Platt said he would see the president about removing Wakeman when he returned from a trip west.

Col. Roosevelt objected to Mr. Barnes' repeated reference to "advice" given him by Senator Platt. The witness suggested the word "consultation" be used instead.

On Nov. 16, 1901, the colonel wrote his first letter on White House stationery. Subsequently letters by Senator Platt were addressed to "My Dear Mr. President."

On Nov. 16, Senator Platt wrote:

"I had supposed you wanted me to confer with Senator Low on the subject of New York's make up of his (Low's) cabinet." Three days later President Roosevelt wrote to the senator that he had advised Mr. Low about seeing Senator Platt.

"I thought," Col. Roosevelt said in reply to a question, "that it would be well for Mr. Low to see the senator."

The next letter written by Mr. Platt told of holding a "satisfactory" meeting with the mayor-elect.

Mr. Barnes asked:

"In all the vast correspondence that passed between you and Platt while you were governor, William P. Barnes' name is not mentioned, is it?"

"I didn't hear it," replied the colonel.

Mr. Ivins then took up the cross-examination.

"What percentage of your administrative acts as governor did you discuss with Senator Platt?"

"I can't tell. Probably in the majority of cases."

"Do you remember the letter about Murray?"

"Yes, distinctly."

"Look at your autobiography from pages 64 to 70."

"I object," said counsel for Colonel Roosevelt.

The objection was sustained.

Mr. Ivins objected and then took an exception.

Other efforts of Mr. Ivins to bring in the Murray matter met with objection by counsel for the defense, which the court sustained.

"Well," said Mr. Ivins finally, "were you alive?"

"What?" said Col. Roosevelt.

"Were you alive to the political situation," went on Mr. Ivins, "at the time set forth in your autobiography?"

Another objection was sustained.

Mr. Ivins produced two letters. The first was dated from Oyster Bay Sept. 17, 1906, addressed to Mr. Barnes. In it the colonel said that after the election he wanted to see Barnes in Washington. He complimented Mr. Barnes for making the Hughes renomination unanimous.

"Look at this letter." Was it written before or after your election?"

"It was written before."

The letter was the one already in evidence. In which Col. Roosevelt told Mr. Barnes: "We are to be congratulated for the whole business, national and state."

Mr. Ivins then produced a series of letters which passed between Col. Roosevelt and Mr. Barnes between 1906 and 1910. Col. Roosevelt looked at the letters and asked whether they were authentic. Col. Roosevelt said they were.

A recess was taken at that point.

PAPERS BY LOWELL MEN

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF COTTON MANUFACTURERS TO DISCUSS TEXTILE TRADE

BOSTON, April 27.—When the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers convenes next Wednesday and Thursday at the Copley-Plaza many important addresses on cotton industry will be delivered.

The meeting will begin at 11 a. m. on Wednesday. After the usual routine, the reading of annual report, the awarding of the Association Medal, President Albert Green Duncan will deliver his annual address. This will be followed at the first session by papers by Calvin D. Paige, Southbridge; Paul T. Cherington, assistant professor of marketing, graduate school of business administration, Harvard University; Joseph P. Gray, president, Boston Manufacturers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co.; Oscar Elias, president, Union Bag & Cotton Mills, Andover, Ga.

Wednesday afternoon will be left without formal exercises in order that members may devote that time to recreation or to other engagements.

The committee on meeting will endeavor to arrange transportation by automobiles to the works of textile machine shops in the vicinity if notice is given to them in advance.

Wednesday evening the association will have its annual dinner in the ballroom. On Thursday it will meet at 10.30 a. m. when addresses will be delivered as follows:

Ellis Cunyngnam Church, consulting engineer, New York city; A. Cobb, Ph.D., United States department of agriculture, Washington; Frank Nash, consulting engineer, Manchester, England; William D. Hartshorn, Methuen; Daniel E. Douy, general manager, U. S. Conditioning and Testing company, New York; George C. Stone, C. E., Lockwood, Greenleaf & Co., Boston; Edward C. Wason, president, Barnhart Construction Co., Boston.

Lunch will be served at 1 p. m. in the grill room which will be reserved for the members and their guests, either for table de hôte at one dollar, or a la carte.

At the fourth session, Thursday, at 2.30 p. m., papers will be read by Prof. Byron Cummings, University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Utah; Arthur C. Hesse, Ph.D., New York city; Edward C. Chapin, Boston; Louis A. Olney, Lowell Textile school, Lowell; William A. Mitchell, chairman, recent Mass. Cotton mills, Lowell.

The committee on resolutions, to whom all resolutions offered are automatically referred, consists of George A. Praper, chairman; Grosvenor Ely, James R. MacColl, R. M. Miller, Jr., and William A. Mitchell.

MASSACRE OF ARMENIANS

STATE DEPARTMENT MAKES REPRESENTATIONS TO THE TURKISH GOVERNMENT

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The state department late today made representations to the Turkish government regarding reported massacre of Armenians in Turkey, urging that steps be taken for prevention of further outrages. Secretary Bryan acted upon request of the Russian government, submitted through Mr. Bakhmeteff.

SMALL PRICE CHANGES

NEW YORK, April 27.—Irregular price changes prevailed in today's early stock market dealings but these were limited to fractions, except in a few speculative specialties. United States Steel, which was under special pressure at yesterday's close, opened with a lot of 2500 shares at 57 1/2, a quarter point lower. The Pacifics as a group registered nominal declines. Likewise Reading and New Haven. Missouri, Kansas & Texas paid almost two points. In other parts of the list the movement was somewhat confusing. Trading lacked the public interest of recent sessions.

Dealings in the first hour were the lightest for that period in over two weeks, barely aggregating 200,000 shares. Towards noon there were frequent pauses but the market manifested greater firmness. Steel, which was watched with unusual interest in expectation of a report on the quarterly report to be issued later in the day was strong, recovering much of yesterday's decline.

Steel acquired increasing prominence with the progress of the dull season advancing a point. Other industrials, including Am. Can. also were strong but the rest of the list was featureless.

Unfavorable foreign advices were followed by declines of from one to two points in the final hour. The close was irregular.

President Bowen Makes Interesting and Encouraging Report—Election of Officers

The annual meeting of the Lowell Y.M.C.A. was held last evening in the association building on Merrimack st. and the reports showed that the association met all current expenses during the past year and that great progress was made. The directors now believe that they can operate the building and pay all bills without calling for subscriptions as in the past. The building was taxed to capacity by members when President Bowen called to order. Music was furnished by the Ladies' Glee Club and there were brief speeches by several members of the association. Awards of prizes to winners of athletic events were made by Rev. J. G. Grace of North Tewksbury.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. A. Bowen; vice president, Samuel H. Thompson; treasurer, Walter H. Hoyt; clerk, William H. C. Wright; auditors, J. G. Grace and Norman Scott; board of trustees, John P. Sawyer and Dudley L. Page; directors, Walter H. Hoyt, Robert Friend, Louis A. Olney, Hon. Herbert E. Fletcher, Frank E. Kimball, Luther W. Fowler and J. B. V. Coburn.

The President's Report
President Bowen's annual report in part was as follows:
After an early evening musical entertainment in the lobby of the building the meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall by President Bowen. Mr. Bowen's report was first given as follows:

Mr. Bowen's Report
The second full year's work in the new association building which closed March 31, 1915, has been marked by steady progress and improvement.

The debt fund campaign initiated to some extent with both membership and current expense contributions during the past year, many having given so generously to the debt fund as to be unable to continue their usual annual payments toward the current operating expenses to renew their membership. Notices for quarterly payments were sent out every three months and final payments because the Jan. 15, 1915. There are some pledges still unpaid, but as payments are coming in almost every day it is hoped that the full amount may soon be secured so that dedication exercises may be held with the building free of all debt, either by construction or furnishings. A little over $2000 should be collected on these pledges to pay in full the furnishing bills with money from debt fund pledges.

The Trust Funds
The treasurer of the trustees reports an addition to the trust fund of the Association of $3120.60 from the Dwight L. Dimock estate, making the endowment for current expenses $12,10.60 at the present time. The trust funds held by the association at present are as follows:

SLEEPYTIME TALES

BY VIRGINIA VALE
FOR THE LITTLE READERS OF THE SUN

THE RED UMBRELLA

Once upon a time Kate had a birthday and one of the things that was given her was a little red umbrella. She had always wanted one of her own and now to have one, and a red one, made her very happy. How he hoped it would rain that very afternoon and then, if it did, perhaps her mother would let her walk home with some of the children who had been invited to her birthday party.

On the second thought she didn't wish it would rain that afternoon or her mother had promised that they could have their supper under a big elm in the yard and, if it rained, that would spoil that. No, she would hope for it to rain tomorrow and then she could take it to school and show it to her teacher.

While Kate was saying good-bye to her little friends, her brother Bobby thought he would look at his sister's birthday gifts and, as his eye caught the red umbrella, he took it and tried to open it but his little hands were not big enough and he didn't know just how, so in trying he punched a hole in the nice red silk.

What should he do? He knew quite well he ought never to have touched it and now to have broken it was more than he could stand, so he began to cry as hard as ever he could. Of course that brought both his mother and sister and, when his sister saw what he had done to her birthday gift, she too began to cry.

Kate sobbed as though her heart would break and her tears fell on the red umbrella and made a big red stain. When her mother saw the stain she cried: "I am very glad I saw that for the man who sold me the umbrella told me that it would not stain and I am going to take it back to him."

So they all started for the store and the man gave them a new one for the old one and Kate was allowed to carry it home all herself. "So on see Kate it is all right, even if brother did break it, for if he hadn't he might never have known that the color would run, or at least not for long time," said her mother.

Now Kate holds the umbrella not only over herself, but over her little brother as they go to school on rainy days.

LEGAL NOTICES

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Office of the Secretary, Boston, April 26, 1915.

Notice is hereby given, that, on the seventh day of April, in the year nineteen hundred and fifteen, Irwin L. Prentiss, of Lowell, was duly licensed and commissioned to be a public warehouseman within and for the city of Lowell, that he has given bond in the sum of five thousand dollars for the faithful discharge of the duties of a public warehouseman, and that he has taken and subscribed the oaths necessary to qualify him for the duties of said office.

ALBERT P. LANTRY, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Middlesex, ss. Probate Court.

To the heirs-at-law, next of kin and all other persons interested in the estate of David P. Riteout, late of Dunstable, in said County, deceased. Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by Harry S. Swallow, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond.

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court, to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the twelfth day of May, A. D. 1915, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week, for three successive weeks, in The Lowell Sun, a newspaper published in Lowell, the last publication to be one day, at least, before said Court, and by mailing postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this twenty-sixth day of April, in the year one thousand nine hundred and fifteen.

LOOT OFFICE IN DAYLIGHT

Jamaica Plain Station of New Haven Road
Robbed of $25.58

BOSTON, April 27.—Another daylight robbery, one of the boldest thus far recorded, was added to Boston's rapidly increasing list yesterday afternoon when a ticket office in the Jamaica Plain station of the New Haven was robbed of $25.58.

The robbery, which was evidently the work of someone familiar with conditions at the station, was accomplished during the 20-minute absence of Assistant Ticket Agent Henry C. Sawyer, who was taking mail from the 3.45 outward bound train to the post-office.

The men, believed to be two in number, made their entrance and getaway without being seen, although Telegrapher George Pinkelstein was busy at his wire in the main office on the opposite side of the station, and Station Agent Charles H. Thurston was cleaning lamps alongside the tracks.

It is thought that the thieves came from Boston or some way station, on the train, and knowing Sawyer to be busy with the mail, dropped from the rear and, running across the tracks, forced the door of the office, which was fastened with two locks.

When the 3.45 outward bound local arrived at the Jamaica Plain station yesterday afternoon, Station Agent Thurston being busy with the lamps, young Sawyer locked his office door and crossed to the train to take the mail bag, which he carried to the postoffice but a short distance away.

Here he waited a few minutes for a bag of mail destined for the 4.25 inward bound train, reaching his office at 4.10. He found the door wrenched open and split for about 1-2 feet, with one of the locks torn out. The cash drawer was open, and the compartments in which the money was kept, missing.

Sawyer immediately notified Agent Thurston, and an investigation revealed the fact that the thieves had dropped the empty till at the foot of a flight of steps leading to Bartlett square.

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—
Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known
Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter that one's system collects.

You have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women, as well as men, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets now and then just to keep in the pink of condition.

BIG RECEPTION FOR NEW MAYOR

All Chicago Joins in Big Celebration at Inauguration

Parade and Carnival—
Thompson Promises to Make Streets Safe

CHICAGO, April 27.—William Hale Thompson, republican, who succeeds Carter Harrison, democrat, five times mayor of Chicago, took his oath of office last night and yesterday afternoon was welcomed by a downtown street parade and carnival that far outshone any previous Chicago inauguration ceremony.

Thompson defeated Robert M. Sweitzer, the democratic majority candidate, by 148,000 votes, the largest plurality ever polled here.

From a stand erected before the city hall, Mayor Thompson yesterday afternoon reviewed the parade in which 7500 automobiles and 75,000 persons participated. Records of transportation companies indicated that more than 350,000 persons swarmed into the Loop district less than one mile square.

It required nearly three hours for the parade to pass the reviewing stand. The inauguration committee had designated it a "prosperity parade" and it was much more of a carnival parade than a political procession.

Although the election by which Thompson had been made mayor had swept almost a complete republican ticket in office, there were hundreds of well-known democrats among the merry-makers.

Mechanics were followed by manufacturers and these by nationalists and even by races, there being several hundreds in the Chinese division.

A huge wagon brightly decorated was in the lead among the city exhibits and bore a placard recalling that the new mayor had made an announcement that during the four years of his office he was to stay on the wagon.

Mayor Thompson's final speech as a private citizen was to reiterate his campaign pledges as to the prominent exodus of criminals.

"My only instruction to Capt. Charles C. Healey, the new police chief, was that he must make the streets of Chicago safe to citizens and visitors," he said.

The inauguration ceremonies last night were accompanied by fireworks on the lake front and inaugural balls in the downtown hotels.

In his address to the city council on taking office Mayor Thompson promised action to relieve traffic congestion and appointed a special committee to bring action toward reducing prices for gas consumers. In closing, he said:

"The plurality of 148,000 votes by which I was elected cannot be explained by the paramount importance of one or several local issues. The fact is the voters, emphatically expressed their dissatisfaction with the economic conditions existing under the present national administration and protested as vehemently as they could against the legislation enacted at Washington which has been followed by hard times."

PET ON BRITISH BATTLESHIP IN DARDANELLES

The accompanying is from a photograph taken on board of one of the British battleships now patrolling the entrance to the Dardanelles. This island hog makes a quaint pet for the crew. was to have responded to the first toast but in his absence Edward P. Slattery officiated. At that time Mr. Slattery stated that if the other divisions didn't get a move on toward building the Lyman Hall, Division 23 would take it up itself.

George M. Harrigan, then a member of the school board responded to the toast "City of Lowell," in the absence of Mayor Palmer who had sent a letter of regret. Mr. Harrigan referred to Division 8, the baby division just started and predicted its success. Daniel J. Donahue spoke on the toast "Ireland," John J. Hogan, "The United States," and Hon. Jeremiah Crowley, "The State of Massachusetts."

Charles H. O'Donnell, the county delegate who was among the speakers quoted interesting statistics of that time. Twenty-five years ago according to Mr. O'Donnell's figures, in Massachusetts there were 105 divisions while in Middlesex county there were 27 divisions and 1090 members.

P. J. Cusky spoke and during the evening there were songs by Messrs. O'Shaughnessy, Datterbury, Hessling, Roche and Dalton, and a cornet solo by Mr. Spillane. The old Sun didn't give the Christian names of the last-named performers and hence I'll not venture the statement that John Dalton was warbling at banquets quarter of a century ago, and that James J. Spillane was charming audiences with the cornet.

Passion Play Pilgrims
"You must think that I am a rather venerable personage or else one possessed of a marvelous memory," said Mr. George Lyon, the hustling head of the Lyon Carpet Co. of this city, when I asked him to tell me about his visit to Oberammergau, 25 years ago.

"Although I was quite young at the time I recall the play quite vividly," said Mr. Lyon, "and I recall meeting personally Joseph Meyer, who played the part of Christ. The subject of the play, the remoteness of the scene at which it was staged, the difficulties encountered in getting to it and the cost."

Just quarter of a century ago Lowell's 400 were startled by a despatch from Paris published in the New York papers announcing the engagement of Mrs. J. C. Ayer, widow of the founder of the J. C. Ayer company of this city, to Prince Dolgorouki of Russia. But a few days afterward the old Sun set their minds at ease with the following denial:

"The despatches published in the New York papers, dated at Paris, to the effect that Mrs. J. C. Ayer has become engaged to Prince Dolgorouki, a cousin of the morganatic widow of the murdered czar, is denied. Mr. F. F. Ayer of 6 West 87th street, New York, indignantly denies the story. 'It is manufactured out of whole cloth,' says Mr. Ayer."

Mrs. J. C. Ayer removed from Lowell to Paris, where she became a social leader in the American colony at the French capital. Her fame as such was international and her name frequently appeared in the society columns of the leading American, English and French papers. Her engagement as reported caused a profound sensation but was quickly denied, and as subsequent events showed was without foundation.

Quarter of a century ago the board of trade was much interested in the subject of grade crossings with special reference to the two crossings at the Middlesex street depot, one of which subsequently succeeded in their annihilating efforts while the other still remains. At that time The Sun announced that the late Judge Frye had a scheme to relieve the danger and the inconvenience at the depot which consisted of opening the driveway running from Howard street, parallel to Middlesex street, now known as Arch street, to the westerly side of the depot and continuing it with a bridge similar to that in Chelmsford street "over the tracks, to Thorndike street. The scheme never went through.

Representing the city was Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy; Thomas G. Robbins appeared for Edwin A. Simpson, and William H. Wilson represented the R. G. Maxwell Co.

MOOSE INSTALL OFFICERS
The regular meeting of Lowell lodge, Local Order of Moose, was held in Odd Fellows hall, Middlesex street, last evening and featured the evening session of the recently elected officers. George D. Crowell, deputy supreme dictator, presided over the installation and he was assisted by the following: Charles W. Richards, deputy supreme dictator; George S. Holt, deputy supreme vice dictator; John E. MacCallum, deputy supreme chaplain.

With the strains of the Moose orchestra.

An enjoyable surprise party was held last Saturday evening on Mr. Shinn's lawn at 53 Brookline street. The guests were a party of friends called at his home and presented him a handsome memento. The presentation speech was made by Mr. Joseph Shinn. The evening was spent in games and a musical program was carried out to which the following young people contributed: Michael Davey, Robert Dawkins, Frank Mills. Refreshments were served later in the evening.

GIVEN LINEN SHOWER
Miss Alice Caron, who is to be married tomorrow to Arthur S. Aubrey, was last night tendered a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Josephine Perry, 4 Lane court. The young woman was showered with valuable pieces of linen and best wishes.

A luncheon was served and the following musical program was carried out in a very satisfactory manner: Piano selections, Miss Eva Bouchard and Mrs. Laura Wedge; violin selections, Mrs. Marion Curtis; vocal selections, Mrs. Perry, Miss Helene Caron, Miss Eva Bouchard, Mrs. Louis Cote; quartet selections, Miss Eva Bouchard, Miss Helene Caron, Miss Marion Curtis and Mrs. Leonard Cormier. The party broke up at a seasonable hour, all present extending their best wishes to the bride and groom and their nearest and dearest.

To Have Pretty Hair
If your hair is not soft and pretty, give it daily attention. Just as you would a plant to make it grow healthy and beautiful. Luxuriant hair—soft, fluffy, thick and lustrous—is really a matter of care. If it is too thin, stimulate the hair roots and bring out the new hairs. If it is too dry and brittle, soften it up—lubricate it. To get rid of all dandruff, simply freshen up the scalp.

An inexpensive tonic, called Parisian Sage, sold at all drug counters or by Carter & Schenck, softens the scalp, nourishes and invigorates the hair roots, immediately removes all dandruff and makes the hair fluffy, lustrous and abundant. One application will stop itching head and cleanse your hair of dust and excess oil. Parisian Sage makes the hair seem twice as abundant and beautifies it until it is soft and lustrous, and pretty hair will surely increase charm and beauty.

GERMAN RAIDER IS INTERNED

Captain of Kronprinz
Wilhelm Decides Not to Dash to Sea

Collector Hamilton at Newport News, Va.,
Informed

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., April 27.—The German raider, cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm, which will be interned at the Norfolk navy yard for the remainder of the war, was at a pier today filling her coal bunkers. Work of coaling was to be completed late today and the cruiser taken, probably tomorrow, to Norfolk for internment.

The Wilhelm will be interned at the request of her commander, Capt. Thierfelder. Official notice of his intention to intern was given the collector of customs, Hamilton, late yesterday.

Capt. Thierfelder later explained that he had intended to attempt a dash through the lane of British and French warships which have been lying in wait off the Virginia Capes, but that the illness of many of his crew would make that impossible before the expiration of the time limit fixed by the American government for repairs to make his cruiser seaworthy which is said to have been midnight of April 30.

Following her internment at the Norfolk navy yard the Wilhelm's officers and men will be given the freedom of the cities about Hampton Roads as was the case of the crew of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The Wilhelm came into port a little over two weeks ago after a long voyage through southern seas during which she destroyed 14 merchant ships which with their cargoes were valued at $7,000,000.

CITY WINS IN SIGN CASE

COURT ISSUES PERMANENT IN-JUNCTION AGAINST ERECTION OF
SIGN ON OLD B. & M. STATION

In the equity session of the superior court, Boston, yesterday afternoon, Judge Morton heard the evidence in the case of the R. G. Maxwell Co. The company had asked the city council for a permit to erect a sign on the Central street side of the old Boston & Maine station at Tower's corner. The permit was refused and it was because of the fact that the company went to the municipal council instead of to the inspector of lands and buildings for the permit, that the court granted the city's request for a permanent injunction against the erection of the sign in question.

Two witnesses for the city of Lowell were heard yesterday. Edward P. Saunders, chief of the fire department said that the two signs that it is intended to put up will constitute a fire hazard. Inspector Francis A. Connor said that counsel for the Maxwell Co. had never applied to him for a permit. Mr. Connor considered that the signs would be a fire hazard, and said that they, as the structure now stands, would be unsafe.

George Richardson and Edwin A. Simpson, the latter lessee of the old B. & M. building, testified as to the safety of construction of the structures now on top of the building.

Judge Morton then granted the permanent injunction restraining the Maxwell Co. from erecting the signs, and granting the company a reasonable length of time in which to remove the structures now up. He said that because application for the permit had not been made to the proper person, the inspector of public property, he would so rule, but in case application were made to him in the future, and he arbitrarily refused to issue the permit, then an appeal to the supreme judicial court for a writ of mandamus could be made, and the matter thus brought to a point where the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of the local ordinance could be determined.

Representing the city was Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy; Thomas G. Robbins appeared for Edwin A. Simpson, and William H. Wilson represented the R. G. Maxwell Co.

LIGHTNING KILLS BOY IN TAUNTON

Captain of Kronprinz
Wilhelm Decides Not to Dash to Sea

Collector Hamilton at Newport News, Va.,
Informed

BOSTON, April 27.—One boy killed and one severely injured by lightning yesterday afternoon by a severe electrical, rain and hailstorm in eastern Massachusetts.

Damage Due to Storm
Taunton—Clinton A. Syvertsen, age 13, of 173 Highland street, killed by lightning.

Wellesley—Greenhouse demolished with loss of $5000; half of telephone subscribers cut off from central station.

Nedham—Five buildings damaged; scores of trees uprooted; chimney blown over; wires out of commission. Dedham—Waiting room blown 2 feet from foundation; fire alarm and telephone service crippled; much damage to greenhouses.

Concord—Lightning struck two buildings and many shade trees on Main street; horse killed by bolt.

Light Train in Hub
Boston escaped with a "very light" rain, but in some of the suburbs, especially on the south side of the city, drenching rain poured down from 5 to 15 minutes. Generally, too, half inch in quantity and some reports of the ground covered as from snow. The electrical accompaniment was most vivid and disastrous outside of Boston.

Although there was no rain, Taunton two bolts of lightning fell on that city, one of them killing a 13-year-old boy while he was playing with a companion in a pine grove near his home. In Concord a horse was killed, a pony paralyzed and several valuable trees uprooted.

In Dedham torrents of rain and hail accompanied by a 50 mile an hour gale badly crippled the telephone and alarm services. Trees were uprooted and one building was blown 20 feet away from its foundations.

Nedham was another town which reported heavy damage, many chimneys being blown down and the telephone and electric light wires being put out of commission.

Not Wave to Continue
In Boston the thermometer rose a high as 54, this being registered at 10 o'clock, and was within one degree of the heat record for April 26, established in 1872, this year the bureau was created. The record for hot weather in April was reached April 19, 1914, when the thermometer registered 87.

Although yesterday was not a record-breaker, such hot weather in April is unusual. It seemed unusually early for the season, and the sudden change in temperature from Sunday, when the mercury glass was down to the 40's.

From midnight Sunday the thermometer rose steadily yesterday morning and many who had come in town prepared for a cool day suffered considerable discomfort.

The slow southwesterly breeze of miles an hour gave little relief to them on the street.

According to the local weather bureau officials last night today will be much the same as yesterday. The high is expected to continue today and tomorrow and the temperature may be one or two degrees higher than yesterday.

Hot Throughout the East
Boston was not the only place in the country where it was hot yesterday. The entire North Atlantic coast at the Ohio valley was in the grip of the hot wave. Washington, D. C., reported 84 Sunday and yesterday; Harrisburg 80; Richmond, 84; Norfolk, 82, and Raleigh, N. C., 92, all new April heat records for those cities.

Chicago had a maximum temperature of 83 and Detroit 85 and west these cities conditions were reported normal. The normal temperature at Boston at this time of year is 49 degrees.

The hottest part of the country yesterday was the Potomac Valley, where the coolest spot was Eastport, Md., with a temperature of 88.

Boston was the hottest place in New England, but Nantucket, with a temperature of 44, was not far behind.

BETTER BABIES
The crusade for better babies has spread from coast to coast, and taken firm hold of American mothers. Few women realize how much the ill health of the mother influences the unborn child, both physically and mentally. Women who suffer from mysterious pains, backache, nervousness, mental depression, headaches, etc., should rely on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, which for nearly forty years has been the standard remedy for these ailments.
